

PERSONS, PLACES AND SCENES PROMINENT IN THE NEWS OF A WORLD'S DOINGS DAY BY DAY

WIFE OF PERUVIAN MINISTER
One of the handsomest and best-dressed women in the diplomatic corps from the South American Republics is Mme. Pezet. She is a social favorite at Washington.

Photo by Clinedinst.

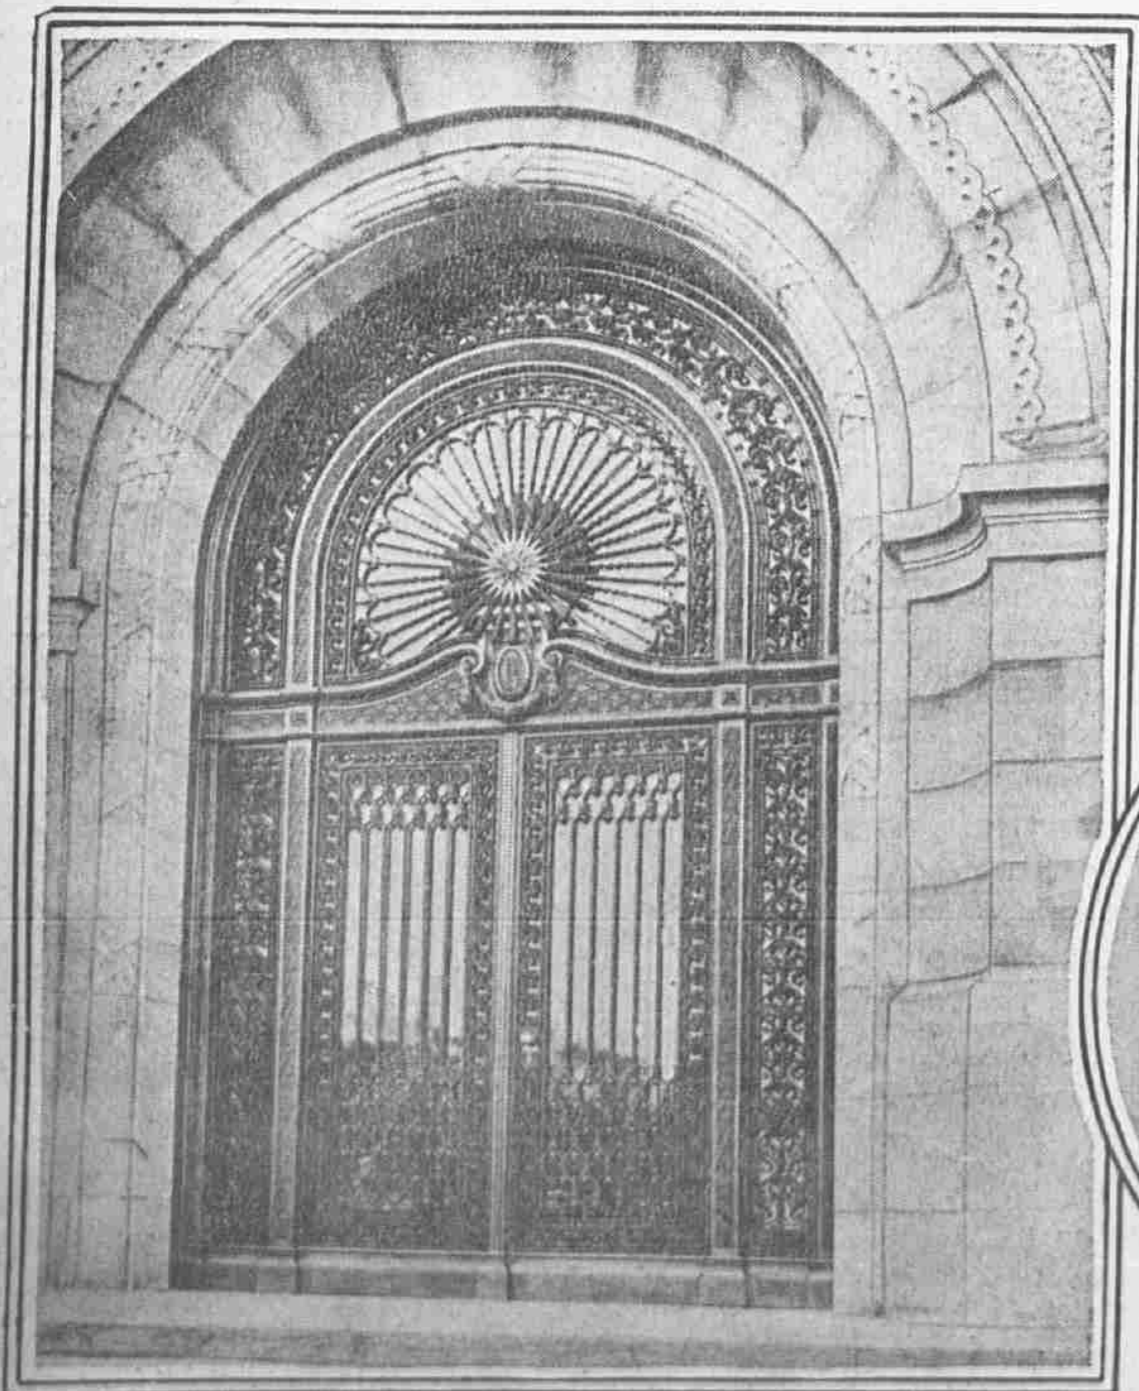

OLD-TIME PRAIRIE SCHOONER BOUND FOR 'FRISCO AND ITS PILOT

A quaint sight found in Chestnut street. Inscriptions on the side of the wagon informed curious passersby that the owner was on his way from Staten Island to the Golden Gate. The picture of the schooner's pilot is a typically American one, with his thin nose and high cheek bones. It's easy to guess he will "git thar."

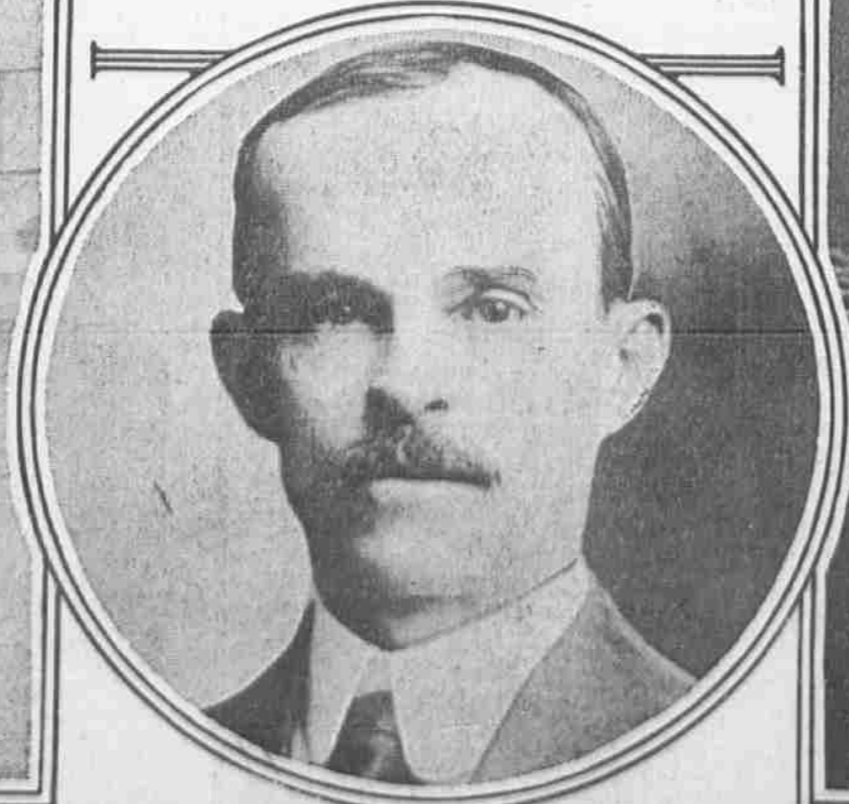

A MAN OF MYSTERY
Everybody knows his face, but few know his name. It is his habit to slip softly up to the Chestnut street pedestrian and, in a stage whisper, ask: "Got any old clothes you wanna sell?"

ONE OF WAR'S LITTLE IRONIES
This is the door to the Peace Palace that Andrew Carnegie built at The Hague. Since this picture was taken, a Dutch joker has hung on the grill work a sign saying: "For Rent."

Photo by Eastman Kodak Company.

HE WOULD KEEP OUR WHEAT AT HOME
A bread famine, even riots by starving Americans, if we keep on shipping 10,000,000 bushels of wheat a week to Europe, is predicted by Congressman John R. Farr, of Scranton, Pa., who has introduced a bill to empower the President to declare a food embargo.

A FEMINE DIPLOMAT
Madame Golejewski occupies an interesting position in the capital just now as the wife of the Russian military attache. She takes keen interest in the war and has been active in raising relief funds for stricken countrymen.

Photo by Clinedinst.