

RUSSIANS CROSS PRUTH IN BUKOWINA; RESUME OFFENSIVE IN GALICIA

Germans Reported Hurdled Back on East Prussia Frontier Before Pressure of Superior Numbers at Mlawa and Lomza.

Trenches and Prisoners Captured in the Champagne, Reports French War Office, and Attacks in the Argonne Repeated.

Russia is on the offensive throughout the Galicia-Bukowina war zone. In the former field a great battle is developing along the Donajec in connection with the Tarnow campaign.

Official Petrograd reports announce occupation of German fortifications at Konopki, near Mlawa, while capture of Mysyniec, near Lomza, is asserted, but not by the official bulletin.

Capture of German trenches and prisoners in the Champagne near Perthes and Meenil are announced by the French War Office, which also reports the renewal of the bombardment of Rheims, in the Argonne, at Vaucouais, gains are also claimed, while in the forest of Le Petre a German attack was repulsed.

RUSSIANS DRIVE AHEAD ALONG SOUTHERN FRONT

Cross Pruth in Bukowina and Renew Tarnow Battle.

PETROGRAD, March 6.—With the cessation of blizzards in the Carpathians, the Russian armies have resumed their advance along the entire southern and southwestern front.

In southeastern Galicia, the Russians, after capturing Stanislau and Kolomea, have pressed the Austro-German forces back to the Pruth River, and are advancing against that town.

Near Wylkow and at the Lupkow and Dukla passes the Czar's troops are driving home attacks upon the entrenched Austrians, while along the Donajec River a general battle has opened southwest of Tarnow.

The Russian successes about Stanislau and Kolomea, which have been gained in the southern arena in several months, they frustrated the Austro-German offensive having Lemberg as objective and furnish the Czar a base in Galicia.

CZAR'S ARMY AT HEELS OF NORTH POLAND ENEMY

Invasers Pressed Back in Mlawa and Przasnysz Regions.

PETROGRAD, March 6.—In northern Poland the Russian army has been slowly westward from the Nieman River, and the Germans, pressed back to home territory, are fighting a rear guard action. Only at one point is the German attack being seriously pressed—against the fortress of Ostrowitz.

The Germans can use their railway from Lyck, and there is a good road across the marshes, but with their armies failing back on either side they cannot remain long, military experts say.

To the south, according to a dispatch, the Germans have evacuated Mysyniec, East Prussian border, northwest of Lomza, while further west, near Mlawa, they are believed actually to have crossed the border after a defeat at Przasnysz. It is officially announced that the Czar's troops have occupied the fortifications at Konopki, nine miles southeast of Mlawa.

CZAR'S DREADNOUGHTS SENT TO BOSPORUS

That Greece and Italy will enter the war on the side of the Allies before the end of March was the prediction made by a leading diplomat here today. He asserted that the Government at Athens had already decided to cast its lot with the Allies.

It became known today that the Russian Ambassador to Italy, A. Kropenski, had resigned. He has been the dominant member of the Allies' diplomatic corps here and has called at every turn the efforts of Ambassador von Buelow, German envoy, to persuade the Italian Government to support the Triple Alliance.

Announcement from the British naval station at Malta and French naval station at Toulon.

A dispatch from Amsterdam says that German officers are being sent to Constantinople from northern France to help defend the Turkish capital.

From home comes a dispatch saying it is learned confidentially there that the intervention of Greece is inevitable, and that the step will not be necessary to be taken immediately. The dispatch adds: "Greece is openly aiding the allied fleet, which have their base, get provisions and supplies in the Aegean Islands. Intervention is not yet necessary, since as soon as the Dardanelles are forced Turkey will use for peace. Constantinople will be

DUTCH SHIP NOT VICTIM OF TORPEDO, OFFICIALS SAY

Noorderdyk's Propeller Broken by Flooding Debris in English Channel.

Agents of the Holland-American Line today said there was no truth in the report that the freighter Noorderdyk, bound for Rotterdam to New York, was torpedoed in the English Channel and badly damaged.

Reports to the London office today said that the freighter's propeller was broken when it ran into some debris near the Isle of Wight. It turned back to Rotterdam for repairs, it was stated.

SNOW MAY CONTINUE UNTIL NIGHT, SAYS BLS

Continued from Page One clearance in Market street this morning. The vehicle is owned by John Nolan, contractor. It is a motor truck weighing several tons, to the front of which is attached a heavy steel plough, similar to those on the trolley ploughs. This swept the snow on one side, clearing the roadway to within a fraction of an inch of the paving.

Gangs of men were employed in clearing the streets early this morning, and thousands of unemployed found profit in removing the snow.

March, the "like a lion and out like a lamb" month, has been famous for its blizzards ever since 1888, when a three-day snow fall, starting March 12, laid a blanket nearly 10 inches of snow over the city and made all traffic impossible.

For nearly a week, homes and business houses were isolated, while thousands of men struggled against the mountains of snow drifts in the city streets.

The storm in this city is the advance guard of a blizzard that swept yesterday over various parts of the West and Middle West, interrupting traffic at many points. According to reports, Philadelphia has not yet felt the full force of this storm, which probably will arrive some time today, unless it disintegrates into divisions.

Miss Catharine Wals, of 2647 North Darlen street, is at the Jefferson Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull as a result of slipping on the sidewalk in front of the Hotel of the City and Market streets. She was taken to the hospital in the automobile of George H. Danly, of 6031 North 19th street, which was passing. The girl has not yet recovered consciousness.

BRITAIN'S DILATORY TACTICS CAUSE OF DISSATISFACTION

U. S. Expected to Take Firmer Tone in New Blockade Protest.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—When the new note this Government is said to be about to send to Great Britain reaches the London Foreign Office, it is expected that Great Britain immediately will place before President Wilson a comprehensive statement in regard to her policy of paralyzing all German commerce.

Great dissatisfaction exists in Washington over the alleged dilatory tactics shown by Great Britain in regard to the recent inquiries of the United States Government. Nothing has come from Sir Edward Grey in reply to President Wilson's request for further details as to the methods by which England proposes to carry out her new maritime policy.

By agreement by the members of the Textile Alliance to conditions under which the British Government is willing to permit exports of blackface and merino wool from Great Britain and her colonies to the United States is announced by the British Embassy.

The British Government, it is stated at the Embassy, has agreed to accept the guarantee of the officers of the Textile Alliance that the imported wools and yarns will be used in American manufacture only, and not for re-exportation. No bonds will be required.

PLUCKY WOMAN FOILS BLACKMAIL PLOTTER

Alleged Black Hander Attacks Captors in Room, Defying Arrest.

"We all die together then," shouted Emilio Nuzzi, when detectives broke down the door of his room on 11th street below Carpenter, to place him under arrest for sending "black hand" letters to Anthony Manara, of 80 Catharine street, reported to be a wealthy baker. Nuzzi made a leap to one side when Detective Mulholland attempted to seize him, and was just about to plunge a stiletto into the breast of Detective Farrell when a blow from the butt end of a revolver knocked the knife from his hand.

He was held under $1000 bail by Magistrate Renshaw for a further hearing on Wednesday.

The detectives were summoned last night, when a letter reached Manara demanding money. The communication was unsigned, but said that if a big sum were not forthcoming the baker and his family would be killed before daylight. In one corner was the customary rough drawing of the "Meno Nero," used to scare wealthy Italians into the belief that they are dealing with a powerful band.

Braver than her husband, Mrs. Manara slipped out of the house and telephoned to City Hall. She told the detectives that last night's threatening missive was the third sent to her husband, who was in a deadly fear of his life. Although one demand was said to have been made for money, all of the letters also ordered Manara to make his wife leave home. The detectives said the handwriting is alike in each communication, and that Nuzzi was infatuated with Mrs. Manara. They believe he asked for money in an attempt to ally suspicion.
