M'NICHOL AND CROW SAY THEY WILL FIGHT LOCAL OPTION BILL

Organization Leaders Throw Down Gauntlet in Defiance of Governor. Will Oppose His Child Labor Measure.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 22.-A new political alignment in Pennsylvania, with United States Senator Boles Penrose in the background, and Governor Brumbaugh, with the independents and the rempants of the Washington party, and, cossibly, the Vares, on one side, and Senstors McNichot and Crow on the other, ators McNichot and Crow on the clier, is facing the voters of the State as a result of the open break between the Governor and the Republican organization leaders last night over local option and child labor.

The partins of the ways came at a conference between the Governor and the joint Legislative Committee, held in the executive mansion for two hours last

The meeting was extremely dramatic, and there was a "show-down" of hands by every one present except Senator Vare. When the cards were all on the table, senators Crow and McNichol had definitely told the Governor that they would spoose not only his local option bill, but his child labor bill as well. They favored the Reynolds bill, they said. Senator var did not define his attitude. Vare did not define his attitude.

BRUMBAUGH DEFINES POSITION.

The Governor carried the fight to Mc-Nichol and Crow. After the Administraton workmen's compensation bills had been briefly discussed, and the Senate leaders had told the Governor that they favored the enactment of a workmen's compensation measure, although they in-tend to amend the Administration meas-ure freely, Governor Brumbaugh himself prought up the question of local option.

He called the attention of McNichol and Crow to the fact that local option was a his personal platform, and said that because a local option pledge was in his platform, he thought the Republican State leaders should assist him in passents the hill.

Ing the bill.

Governor Brumbaugh told the members of the Conference Committee that he believed that if the Republican organizaleaders oppose local option now i tion leaders oppose local option now it will hurt the Republican party in 1916, when a President and a successor to United States Senator Oliver are to be elected. He said that he thought local option would be one of the big issues in that campaign.

Lieutenant Governor Frank McClain was the first to say anything contrary to the Governor's views. "The people will be so anxious to see the wheels of the mills whirring that the present local op-mills whirring that the present local op tion wave will have passed," he said.

CROW RESENTS "COERCION." Senator Crow, who is chairman of the Republican State Committee, then outlined the attitude of the Republican Organization toward local option, and took exception to the Governor's "coercion" of members of the House in his local option

"The Republican Organization has not interfered with legislators in any way," he told Governor Brumbaugh. "We leave them to follow the wishes of their constituents. We believe that everybody else ought to adopt the same course.

Senator Crow added that if it could be shown that the Republican Organiza-tion had sought to influence any member of the Legislature on the local option estion, then he would vote for the bill

Senator McNichol told the Governor that he had pledged himself to vote against local option during the campaign, and that he intends to stand by his preelection promise, notwithstanding any poaltion the Governor might take. Sen-ators Sproul and Snyder told Governor

Brumbaugh virtually the same thing. The conference then turned to child labor, and Governor Brumbaugh was informed that the Republican Organization leaders favor the Reynolds bill, introced at the request of the Pennsylvania Congress of Mothers, the measure for which the manufacturers declared at the public hearing a week ago. Senator Vare is not expected to support the Governor on the local option question, but will probably continue to leave it to the individual members of the Legislature themselves, to vote as their constituents want them to vote. Governor Brumbaugh in his efforts to get the local option measure through the Legislature, has obtained the assistance of William Flinn, of Pittsburgh, of the Anti-Saloon League officials, and other Washington party men, a number of whom worked hard last fall for the election of Gifford Pinchot as United States

Behator,
Half a dozen State employes and a number of Anti-Saloon League officials, who have been travelling around the State, and lobbying for the local option bill on the floor of the House, have been braising the Governor personally to the members of the Legislature and others with whom they have come in contact, and there is a growing suspicion in Harriaburg that behind this is a move on the Governor's part to build up his own political machine

WHAT A NEW MACHINE COULD DO An open attempt by the Governor to build up his own machine, however, would have a tremendous effect all over the State, especially if the Vares should stand with him in a fight against Mc-Nichol and Crow. With Film, J. Denny O'Neil, another possible ally, and independent Republicans in Allegheny, with the Walley Pendent Republicans in Allegheny, with the Washington party members, and in-dependent Republicans in other parts of the State and with the Vares and the independents in Philadelphia, Governor independents in Philadelphia, Governor Brumbaugh would have a State machine that, in the opinion of many legislators, would put up a stiff fight with a strong possibility of winning against McNichol and Crow.

Senator Penrose is expected to take no open part in any fight that might develop, but he would, of course, throw his influence to McNichol and Crow, the latter of whom he wants to see succeed Senator Oliver.

Open revolt of the Legislature against the Governor is now expected as a result of the break between the Governor and the Organization leaders last night, and out of that revolt will develop the new silsummer.

Senators Vare and McNichel had a thort "heart-to-heart" talk with Governor Brumbaugh this morning in an effort to Brumbaugh this morning in an effort to smooth over the present crisis. At the conclusion of the conference none of the Barticipants would say that anything had been accomplished toward preventing an open break between the Governor and the Rapublican Organization leaders.

The Senate Committee on Executive Neminations, which is composed of all the Senate leaders, was to have conferred.

the Senate leaders, was to have conferred with the Governor today, but the confer-ence has been called off.

in connection with his fight for the basage of the local option bill by this legislature, the Governor last night told the members of the Conference Committee that a public hearing will be held on the bill on April 6. The meeting of the Law and Order Committee of the House, which was to have been held today, has been postponed until tomorrow. Armagements for holding the hearing will paids then, and it will be decided to rear the bill out of committee soes and April 4.

LAURA G. PARKER Massachusetts woman whose appointment as dietitian at State Home for Girls has caused a stir in New Jersey political circles.

JERSEY WOMEN SEEK POST HELD BY "ALIEN"

Civil Service Ignored in Choice of Miss Parker, Late of Massachusetts, as Dietitian.

TRENTON, March 23.-New Jersey women are wondering how it was pos-sible for Miss Laura Parker, of New Bedford, Mass., to come into the State, dodge the Civil Service Commission and obtain appointment to one of the best Jobs open to women in the State. They mean, if possible, to attack her appoint-ment and effect the selection of one of the graduates of the State Normal School o succeed the New England woman as licitian at the State Home for Girls Attention was drawn to Miss Parker Attention was drawn to Miss Parker about Christmas last when she was noticed riding a "golden sorrel" horse over the country adjacent to Trenton and when she appeared in the traffic centres of the city mounted upon her flery charger. Then, when people began to inquire who she was, they learned that she was the dictitian at the State Home for Giris. They also learned that her agreement with the State required that she should have two hours a day to herself to take equestrian exercise; that she self to take equestrian exercise; that she received $75 a month and maintenance, and that she had a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor of the adminstration building where she was em ployed as a food expert. Also the attention of as many of the young inmates as she deemed necessary for personal at-tendants and servants.

All of which drew attention to her position and caused envious graduates from the State's institutions to reach out in an effort to oust the allen for a native daughter.

As a consequence New Jersey women have begun a campaign which is expected to reach the Civil Service Commission, in the form of a demand that some explanation be given as to why she was exempt from an examination.
