TORRESDALE GOLFERS WILL HAVE NEW HOUSE WHEN SEASON OPENS

Artistic Old O'Rourke Homestead Will Be Moved Across Road to Hill Overlooking Course. Club Is Very Popular.

In the spring of 1914 the Torresdale Golf Club was formed, and by the courtesy of the late John M. Mack, was permitted to begin its first year upon his private golf course. At first many people were skeptical as to the outcome of the club, for almost all of the members were entirely without experience in the game, and it was feared that the people would not take enough interest. However, from the very opening day the club was most successful and grew rapidly until the links became crowded.

Then as the crowded conclution increased the Wisconsin Alumni Declare Faculty Has Not Ruled Fairly in Abolishing Sport.

As a result of the abolition of intercollegiate rowing at the University of Wisconsin on account of "physical injuries received from participation in the sport," the athletic committee of the Alumni Association has just completed a thorough investigation of the situation and has come to the conclusion that row-ing does not result as the faculty stated in its explanation for abolishing the mort last autumn.

A report of the findings of the committee, of which Waiter Alexander, of the Wisconsin Railsead Commission and a former varsity oarsman, is chairman, and on which are Louis D. Summer, of Madison; Lynn Williams, of Chicago, and Nelson Falk, of Lake Mills, will be turned over to the president of the association within the next two weeks, when it is entirely completed.

Among its findings will be the following: First. All crew men have been pronounced by the university medical faculty to be physically fit for participation in all forms of intercollegiacs sports.

Becond. Information received from former Wisconsin oarsmen is that no after effects have been experienced by them as a result of their participation.

Strictoation.

Third. Reports and statistics from medical divisors and athletic directors without exception contradict the action taken by the University of Wisconsin.

Fourth. No consideration having been given the beneficial effect, we feel that both sides of the puestion have not been fairly represented.

Right. The time will soon be at hand when many of the Middle West colleges will be supporting crews, preliminary steps having been taken in that direction.

Seventh The natural facilities at Wisconnin are particularly adapted for this kind of sport. Eighth, This is acknowledged to be the cleanest form of infercollegiate sport and results in the most wholesome advertising for the university.

Well-Known Musical Director Lands Billiard Event of Sea-

The seventh annual billiard tournament of the Musical Art Club has been decided so far as the first prizes are concerned. The interest in billiards has steadily grown. This year there were so many who desired to play in the tournament that three classes were necessary. The highest of these, known as the "Holy Cats," is composed of the ten strongest players in the club. In the second class, known as the "Holy Kittens," there were 29 contestants. In the third class, designated the "Holy Kittenettes," are those members who are interested in the game. but whose knowledge of billiards is not sufficiently great to entitle them to a place in the higher classes. Of course, the cournaments are handicap affairs.

He stated recently that he had personal assurance from the beat awimmers of both sixes in the world that they would be in San Francisco in July and he is confident of the entries of all. Among the men he counts upon are George Hodgson, of Canada, the Olympic 400 and 1500 yard record holder; William Longworth, Ceell Heisty and K. Adrian, the leading Australian swimmers, and Duke Kahanamoku and George Kunha, the Honolulu clasmplons. These six, he says, added to Ludy Langer and Roberts Small, the California stare, and Harry Hebner. Perry McGillivray, Arthur Raithal and Michael McDermott, the limited & C. record holders, will furnish fields which could hardly be surpassed at present were Olympic honors involved.

GOLF IS LIKE OLIVES; ONCE TASTED, A CONVERT

Persons Cannot Enjoy Golf First Time, But Later It Is Different.

Why is solf like olives?

It's merely a matter of getting started, for once the game feets you the taste is lasting. Furthermore, who ever heard of a person liking olives beginning with the first cant of the harpoon into the bottle? "It can't be did," No truthful person after eating his first olive dared say he enjoyed it, any more than one can become enthusiastic over golf before he has made a good drive, watched the hall bore has made a good drive, watched the dail oore its way into space and experienced a thrill of a well-hit tee shot. Thereafter the clive flend has nothing on the golf convert. They're all aquare, with many holes to play. While it is generally admitted that when once the unclent game gets hold it keeps you hast that there is nothing more engrossing and that it enslaves practically all its subjects one must not imagine it escapes entirely with-out losses.

EVANGELIST LABELS PASTOR RUSSELL "OLD GRAFTING IMPOSTOR"

Dr. Nicholson Also Pays Respects to Christian Scientists - "'Mother' Eddy a Fake," He Tells Audience at Chester.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT: ] CHESTER, Pa., April 3.-Christian Scientiats and students of the Paster Russel International Bible class in this city are indignant today over the bitter attack against their respective beliefs by the Rev. William P. Nicholson at a revival service last night in the Nicholson-Hemminger tabernacie. The evangelist asserted that "Russel, the old, whiskerel, divorced, grafting imposter, is half way to hell already." He characterized Christian Science as "the most ridiculous, it logical and nonsensical trash ever heard

"Mother Eddy," he said, "was a fake pure and simple, and if you want to visit her now you will need an asbestos en-velope, for she died as she lived. Oh, if people must go to hell, why can't they do it deemily." do it decently.

The evangelist's sermon last night was on "Marred Vessels," the text being "And the vessel he made of clay was marred in the hands of the potter." Although the service was intended primarily for women, it was one which held the interest of both men and women from he terest of both men and women from be-

"MARRED VESSELS" IN CHURCHES "The clay was marred in the hands of the potter," Doctor Nicholson said shortly after opening his sermon. "I tell you that hands of the Almighty Potter b yits efforts to cater to the wealthy, and the churches are marred by so-called 'highclass music' and elaborate stained-glass windows in memory of some half-damned person's parent or relative.

"Man has marred his life by the use of tobacco," he continued. "How would you San Francisco in July, Is like to see your wife chew and smoke tobacco, and when you went to kiss her hear her say, 'Wait till I spit,' or 'Wait till I light up,' and then spit and puff?

Well, let me tell you men that she has every bit as much right to do it as you want a proposed or here. Why I would rather hiss a clean have why I would rather hiss a clean Why, I would rather kiss a clean hog than a tobacco-chewing man, and I don't see how some of you women can bring yourselves to kiss your husbands. Tobacco using is a dirty, filthy habit, and nobody can deny that.

ATTACKS THOSE IN DEBT. "Another thing that mars many church members and officials is this damnable habit of being in debt, the evangelist said. "What do you supnose the men you deal with think of your religion when you fail to pay what you owe them? It is a sin to live above your means. Some of you women have ordered new Easter bonnets and you know that you cannot afford them and can't pay for them. You have no business to do it, and you know that just as well as I do."

as well as I do.

The evangelist attacked one vice after another. He denounced the moving picture theatre habits of impatience and irritability, false pride and other human frailties. When he had ended his sermon there were few of his hearers who did evangelist's fire.

A large attendance is expected at the tabernacle tonight. Among the delega-tions which will attend are 300 employes of the Gimbel store, of Philadelphia, and practically all of the "Bily" Sunday tabernacle ushers.

Funeral of Rev. Dr. S. F. Bacon The funeral services for the Rev.
