"Absolute Zero"

THE PADDED CELL

The Two Financiers

—London Opinion.

Tramp—You know, this 'ere war carn't last much longer. Germany 'asn't the means; they'll 'ave to come to us for money before long.

Peaceful, Too

"You know we have fine apartments now, it is so quiet. We are right over a bowling alley and you can hear a pin drop."—Penn State Froth.

Modish

There was a young man of Naushon
Who never cared what he had on.
He would breakfast in 'Jamas,
And say, "They're no harm, as They're worn by the ultra bon ton."
—Judge.

Fortunate

Girl (reading letter from brother at the front)—John says a bullet went right through his hat without touching him.

Old Lady—What a blessing he had his hat on, dear.—London Opinion.

The Fighting Filberts

—Sketch.

Daisy—What can have happened to all the nuts we used to see?

Dolly—Oh, don't you know, dear; they're away getting shelled.

SONGS WITHOUT WORDS

When the Merry Winds Do Blow

Obliging

Lady Book Buyer (rather difficult to please)—I like this one, but—I see it is printed in Germany.

Salesman—Well, if you like it, madam, I wouldn't take too much notice of that statement. It is probably only another German lie.—Punch.

The Handy Man

—The Passing Show.

"You ask me for a situation, but I don't see what use you could be to me."

"Use! You try me! There's nothin' I can't turn my hand to, mister. I can 'old a door open, light a match for yer, look out and tell yer wot the weather's doin', fetch a taxi, ring the bell for the office lads and tell folks yer out when you ain't."

THE SHORTAGE OF MEN

—Punch.

"Now, then, what do you little boys want?"
"'E's yer baker, 'n' I'm yer butcher. An' we've come for orders."

—London Cartoon.

First Special (relating interminable story of experience of night before)—And then he threatened to knock my brains out.

Second Ditto (bored)—And did he?
