Indian Scoutmaster for Troops

Walter Bradby, a Cherokee Indian from the Carlisle Indian School, visited Boy Scout headquarters today and offered his services. He is assistant scoutmaster of Carlisle Troop 2, a "paleface" troop, and is a Sunday school worker. He will probmbly make this city his home and, if so, will enter scout work here. He is an expert hunter and fisherman and knows all the camperaft and lore of the Indians, having been born and raised on the Pamunkey Indian Reservation, in Virginia. His tribe is a branch of the Cherokees. He is also an athlete, having played on the Carlisle Indian football team in 1911 and 1912, during the three years he went to school.

Scoutmaster Burnwood Resigns

The Rev. G. B. Burnwood, scoutmaster of Troop 43 and pastor of the Port Richmond Methodist Church, has realgaed his position because he has been transferred to the Holmesburg Church. He will be succeeded by Assistant Scoutmaster John R. Williams, The troop gave him a parting gift at the last meeting. ing gift at the last meeting.

Troop 64 Plans for Field Day

Troop 64 (Scoutmaster William S, Rosenbaum) is preparing for next field day, and, with the material on hand, expects to make a good showing. The troop's anniversary is drawing near. A competitive examination for assistant patrol lender of the Eagle Patrol will be held at the next meeting. Some of the candidates for the position are Max-well Fader, William Katz, Samuel Bren-ner and Morton Fleishman.

Hobson Resigns in Troop 37 Scoutmaster Thomas E. Hobson, of Troop 37, has resigned. He will probably be succeeded by Assistant Scoutmaster Howard Walton.

Scouts and Parents Baptized

Scout James Mitchell, of Troop 125 (Scoutmaster Clarence Williams), who was baptized at the Mariners' Baptist Bethel Church, 223 South Front street, Sunday, brought his father and mother with him. They, too, were baptized, and they said that it was through their son before Box Scouth being a Boy Scout that they were per-suaded to become Christians. Assistant Scoutmaster Criss and Patrol Leader Paul were also baptized at the services, which were conducted by Mr. Hallowell in the presence of Scoutmaster Williams, Troop Committeemen Friend, Holling worth and Galloway and members of the troop. The troop meets at the church Monday and Thursday nights. An enter-tainment will be given April 29.
