RITZ-CARLTON SUPPER CLUB

Last Meeting of the Season Held Saturday Night, Great Success.

The very successful Ritz-Carlton Supper Club, which was organized early in the winter by Mrs. J. Hutchinson Scott and Mrs. E. W. Hawkesworth, closed its first season on Saturday night. This club, the membership of which has been limited to Philadelphia's smartest set, has been felt to want among those who would while away the hours after the theatre or opera and at the same time avoid rubbing elbows with the unknown masses who congregate at many of the cafes.

Mrs. Hawkesworth and Mrs. Scott modeled the club after their other venture in New York, the Club de Vingt, which, while delightfully informal and quite unpretentious, had many of the best names in New York on its membership list, and so successful have both of these enterprises been that they have agreed to run a series of these dinners and supper dances during the summer on the roof of the new Hotel Traymore at Atlantic City, which will open in June, to which a number of prominent persons have already subscribed.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle entertained on Saturday night in honor of Miss Mary L. Duke, of New York, whose brother, Mr. Angier B. Duke, will marry Miss Biddle on Wednesday. The guests included Miss Charlotte Harding Brown, Miss Gertrude Ebert, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donner and Mr. Harry M. Hart.

Mrs. Biddle wore a becoming little dancing frock of pale gray chiffon over silk. The skirt, which was quite short, was finished off with wide scallops of trimming, and the bodice was of heavy metallic blue taffeta, broadened in silver, and in turquoise-like taffeta around the bottom, and below this a narrow edging of lace, while the upper part of the bodice was of silver-thread lace.

Another table was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Quintard Horwitz, with whom was Mrs. A. R. MacLeod. Mr. Horwitz wore a particularly handsome gown of white taffeta with all over pale paillettes. Mrs. MacLeod wore a stunning gown of Dresden silk and pink chiffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Widener occupied a table, and another party included Mr. and Mrs. Churchill Williams.

Mrs. James Potter also entertained, as did Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dietson, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Schlechter, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. L. Spencer Miller, 3d.
