PHILADELPHIA SCHOOL BOYS' SPORTS—NICKALLS PROVES TO BE REAL HERO ON RIVER JACK COOMBS SLATED

TO HURL FOR BROOKLYN AGAINST PHILS TODAY

Former Athletics' Iron Man Will be Seen on Mound in Second of Series-Erskine Mayer Due to Pitch.

Fans who were wont to infeat Shibe Park to see John Coombs, the mighty Iron Man, hurl, may have a chance to see the Kennebunkian again in action. Testerday Coombs was warming up with Nap Rucker, but the latter was finally chosen by Manager Robinson to do the pitching. But this afternoon it is almost certain that Coombs, in the togs of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will be seen in the firing pit against the Phillies.

Erskine Mayer will do the pitching for the Phillies, unless Pat Moran decides at the last moment to depart from his regular order of choosing his twirlers. Mayer was due to pitch before Chalmers, but as the "Comeback" was in good condition yesterday he was sent in and won his game from Brooklyn, 5 to 2.

Thus far the Phillies have won 10 out of II starts. Their play yesterday was far from the peppery stuff they have been putting up in the games gone by, but at that they managed to win, which, as far as the fans are concerned, is the main issue. This afternoon there should be a good crowd out to cheer the fleet Phils on to their lith victory. The game today is scheduled to begin at 3:30 o'clock.

ATHLETICS' PITCHING GOOD; HITTING WEAK

Bressler or Wyckoff May Oppose Ayres or Johnson Today-Shawkey's Good Work.

WASHINGTON, April 28.-It was generally believed that the great weakness of the Athletics this season lay in the pitching staff, but yesterday's performance showed them to be strong in that department and weak on the offense Shawkey hurled a beautiful game, allowing but three hits, yet the Mackmen were unable to win. Mack cannot hope to have any better pitching today than he had yesterday, but he doubtless figures that his team will be better with the stick late on in the season.

Bressler or Wyckoff will be in the bex for the Athletics against Doc Ayers or Walter Johnson today. Should Ayers be called on to pitch, Mack will be sure to use Bressler, but if Johnson goes in, Wyckoff will be used by the tall Philadel phian.

The ony possible change Mack may make today is in the third base station. McConnell has been making good at Baker's, old place, but at that Mack may decide to try King Kopf again.

CENTRAL HIGH LOSES THREE OF ITS STAR OARSMEN

Ineligibility of Captain Thomas and Two of Crew Hard Blow.

Three of the Central High School star parsmen have been declared ineligible and the resignation of both Captain Carl Thomas and Manager Baldi has been asked for by Prof. Philip Maas, chairman of the Committee on Rowing at the Broad and Green streets institution.

The three oarsmen who were declared ineligible are Roming, bow; Rhoads, No. , and Stafford, No. 5, all of whom have fallen back in their scholastic standing and will be unable to compete for one month. Roming and Rhoads rowed in last year's American interscholastic cham-pionship eight, while Stafford was considered to be one of the mainstays of this year's boat. Manager Baldi is also back in his studies.

The athletic commission at Central High contributes $100 a year to the maintenance of the crew, and this money has already been spent for repairs to the shell and the trip to Annapolis last Saturday, when the Piebes defeated the Crimson and Gold eight. Since all the funds have been expended it is not likely that the Central High School crew will go to New Haven on May 8 to row the Yale freshmen.

GUY NICKALLS SAVES HIS CREW IN STORM

Yale Oarsmen, Threatened in Heavy Gale Yesterday, Rescued by Their Coach.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 28 .- A windstorm, which freshened to a gale immediately, threatened to capsize two Yale crews and an oarsman in a single scull in New Haven harbor shortly after 6 o'clock last night. It was only the activity of the head coach, Guy Nickalls, and his presence of mind in using the coaching launch which averted a tragedy, it is be-

The varsity crew was two and a half miles out in the harber, rowing at a good speed, with the coaching hunch close by, when the squall struck. They had failed to notice the threatening clouds. At the first gust the waves were lashed high and the varsity shell shipped considerable water. Nickalls stood to windward with the launch, while the varsity shell was headed crosswise of the waves toward the shore, a mile away. The varsity reached Morris cove only after a hard fight with the waves. Their shell was running in water over their ankles when they reached

The sophemore class eight-cared crew was five miles out in the harbor. Nickells made for the boat. Nearby the sopho-more crew was George V. Caesar, of Ta-coma, Wash., in a single scull. Nickells reached him before he was upset and took him aboard. The sophomore eight, in the lee of the taunch, worked toward shore slowly, shipping considerable water, When near the shore their boat swamped, but they carried it to safety and bailed it out, leaving it on the shore. Clothes were sent to them while they waited at a clubhouse
