PARRISH AND RISLEY WILL BATTLE FOR HIGH GOLF HONORS

Semifinals Finished This Morning at Northfield. Marston Put Up Good Contest, Carrying Game · to the Nineteenth Hole.

NORTHFIELD, Atlantic City, N. J. May 1 -- Maurice E. Risley, of the home club, and James C. Parrish, Jr., of the National Golf Links of America, were the winners in the semifinal matches of the tournament of the County Club of Atlantic City today. Risley had his hands full taking the measure of Herbert B. Newton, of Frankford, for the last named seized the chance offered by his opponent's lapse on the early holes and stood 3 up at the turn. Risley steadled down and finally won by 2 and 1.

Parrish had his work cut out for him against Maxwell R. Marston, of Baltus-rol, the medal winner.

This match was carried to the 19th before Marston gave way. It was a question as to who played the poorer on the first six holes, at the end of which Parrish was one up. Then Marston came to life and registered three on the next three below which left, the Baltured way.

No. Il marked the start of some more No. Il marked the start of some more and he was a Marston's part and he was tribilarly wildness on Marston's part and he was trapped for his pains. He fared similarly on the 12th, while an over-played mashie approach on the 12th cost him dearly. He picked up after two resounding whacks in the bunker. Marston was "fussed" but steadled once more on the 17th and drew level with a par four for the hole. Indifferent putting on the 18th lost Marston his chance for a win and the match went further.

In attempting to carry the sand trap 275 yards from the tee, Marston pulled the shot sufficiently to get into the hazard, and a weakly played niblick shot hazard, and a weakly played niblick shot left him still in his misery. His next was barely out, and, after a weak fourth, registered the hole, for Parrish's third was dead to the pin. The cards:

Risley tore off a 26 on his inward journey, but Newton went out in 28. Thus fortune smiled first on one, then on the other. Risley's approaching on the last nine holes was excellent and his putting was unusually good,

LUCKLESS ATHLETICS TACKLE YANKS TODAY

Bressler or Shawkey Will Oppose Caldwell or Fisher. Mack's Pitchers Improving.

NEW YORK, May 1.-It has been many years since the New York American League fans have had an opportunity to see the Yanks play against the Athletics with the bome team a heavy favorite, and a large crowd is likely to turn out to see the fast-flying Highlanders and the much-abused Athletics in action this seems strange to New Yorkers to and the Athletics filrting with the cellar position, while the Yanks are battling for first place, and they will take advantage of the chance, because there is no telling when the Macks will start climbing and Donovan's men start dropping. During the last series in Washington

During the last series in Washington the Athletics' pitchers showed a great improvement; in fact, they looked better than any staff in the league, excepting the one bad inning of Wyckoff yesterday. The return of Joe Bush to the team today is another hig help, while Wally Schang expects to be catching again in a few days. Schang and Bush joined the team today after an absence of two weeks. Manager Mack intends to use Rube Bressler if he has any kind of control in warming up. If not, Bob Shawkey will have to go back. For the Highlanders, Donovan is undecided, but chances favor "Slim" Caldwell or Ray Fisher. BOSTON BOXER AFTER TOP-NOTCH FEATHERS

Frank McManus, After Nine Straight Wins, Wants Bouts With O'Keefe and Louisiana.

Frankie McManus, Boston clever eatherweight, who has won all of his bouts since fighting at local clubs, nine encounters in all, is prepared to take a fling at the top-notch boxers in this vicinity. Mac is desirous of meeting either Eddle O'Keefe or Louisiana. The Hub hitter is a legitimate "22" pounder and he will come in at this weight, ringside, for stellar feather fighters in the McManus is a clever two-handed fighter. He has outboxed and outfought some of the best preliminary performers in the city. Frank's left-hand jab has served him in good stead in outpointing his foes. He also settled all doubts as to his punching ability when he knocked down Harry Diamond for the count in his last fray, The Bostonian can punch from any angle, and his superior ability over his opponents here proves that he is worthy of a chance with top-notch fisticuffians.

Jack McGuigan plans to stage his next National Club show Wednesday night, He is looking the middleweight and lightweight divisions over for the most available opponents for Jack McCarron and Sam Robideau, who he will feature in a double wind-up. Both won their bouts last Saturday night.

Battling Reddy and Johnny Harvey,
New York boxers, stopped off here on their way home from Columbus, O., where the former beat Chick Hayes and Harvey fought a sensational 12-round pattle with Johnny Griffith. Reddy says the will be in Philadelphia May 12 to challenge the winner of the Kid Wil-liams-Louisiana return match at the Olympia Club. Harvey is anxious for a match with Sam Robideau here.

A bout in connection with the Joe Hef-fernan-Willie Moore match at the Olym-pia Club Monday night that is causing much interest among local fans is the number between Willie Mack and Lew Tendler. Many of Mack's constituents believed Willie whipped Tendler in their last encounter.

Joe O'Donnell, of Gloucester, who earned himself the sobriquet of "Knockout," is matched with Young Diggins at the Broadway Club Thursday night. Since dropping Young Fulton, of New York, some time ago, Johnny Nelson's services have been in great demand. He will meet a tough proposition Tuesday night at the Palace A. C., Norristown, when he clashes with Preston Brown. Harry Pollok, manager of Freddy Welsh, also may look after the destinies of Mike Gibbons, according to a report from a reliable source. Since splitting with his former manager, Eddie Reddy, Gibbons has appeared in only few bouts

CHESTY GIANTS HERE FOR TIFF WITH PHILS; ALEXANDER TO PITCH

Tesreau, McGraw's Best Bet Against Moran's Men - Merkle Out of Game and Hans Lobert Not Likely to Play.

The Kauffless Giants will make their first appearance of the season in this city this afternoon, and if the series is like the last one between these two clubs the fans may rest assured they will get their money's worth. Since Harry Covaleskie trimmed the Giants three times in one series and beat them out of the pennant back in 1908 there has been bad blood between the two teams, and the recent series in New York, when Moran's men took four games in a row, has not improved the situation.

While Manager Moran is not losing any games that he can win, he showed by saving Alexander that he would rather lose one to Brooklyn than to the hated Glants. Grover Cleveland has won four games in a row, and has been primed by Manager Moran for this series. He will pitch the opener today and again in the final game against McGraw's team.

"Alex" trimmed the Giants the last five times he faced them last season and started off this season with a victory, and, all breaks even, should get away with it again today. Manager McGraw is desperate, as was clearly shown by the way he lost his head a few days ago. make matters worse Fred Merkle will be out of the game for many weeks with a dislocated arm, while it is not likely that Hans Lobert will be in shape for today.

The Giants' manager figures his only chance in beating Alexander is to use Jeff Tesreau on the mound. Tesreau is the hardest man in the entire league for the Phillies to beat, barring none, and Alexander must be right to beat him. Chances favor the staging of a great

SUNDAY'S PUBLIC LEDGER

Important Excerpts from the Suppressed "Britain's Deadly Peril"

Many extracts from William LeQueux's startling new book scoring the British War Office for alleged unwise action in permitting British foodstuffs to be sold to Germany and in ignoring evidence of the work of German spies in England. Heretofore. only diplomatic circles knew of the vigorous attempts to suppress these utterances. Its publication forbidden in England, advance copies of this book have just come to America. The extracts appear in Sunday's Public Ledger,

America's First Account of the Recent Singapore Mutiny

Through the activity of British-censorship the world has been kept in ignorance of the great Singapore mutiny which occurred early in the year. This bloody uprising, second in importance only to the Sepoy rebellion, was checked with the assistance of crews from Russian and Japanese warships. A former Philadelphian saw the massacres and successfully evaded the British censors in sending reports direct to the Ledger office.
