Ira D. Garman, Addressing Retail Association Convention, Points Duty of Patriotic Americans in Trying Emergency of National Affairs.

Delegates to the 10th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' Association in the Hotel Adelphia today heard a strong plea by their president, Ira D. Garman, of this city, Select Councilman from the 48th Ward, to stand fast on the war question and support President Wilson in whatever course he may pursue. "Never in our lives has there been a more trying time for us as business men and citizens," he said. "Beside 'standing at our post' we must all hang together as true Americans whatever emergency confronts us. Let us be true to ourselves, to our Government and our President, and as we stand true we can feel we are doing our part as loyal citizens.

can feel we are doing our part as loyal citizens.

"President Wilson is pursuing the right course in our relations with the warring countries of Europe." he said, "and every member of this organization and every other citizen of the United States should stand shoulder to shoulder behind him." Edward J. Cattell, City Statistician, who represented Mayor Blankenburg, delivered an address of welcome, in which he declared that great prosperity is near at hand in this country following the end of the European war, and predicted that the war would end before autumn. When it is over, he said, the United States will have 70 per cent of the wealth of the world and 90 per cent of the initiative. The terrible waste of wealth and manhood in Europe will leave us in control of the commerce of the world, he said. The opening session was otherwise devoted to the hearing of the report by proxy of Secretary William Sutton, who is seriously ill at his home, and the treasurer, George S. Katz. The latter stated that unbusiness-like competition and unfair price cutting had been stopped to a great extent through the efforts of the organization during the last year.

LITTLE ITALY DISCUSSES DEVELOPMENTS IN THE WAR NEWS

ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS THRONG CONSULATE

TRIP OR NOT

Young Reservist Who Was Stabbed in Quarrel With Austrian Is Wined and Dined.

Every hour brings forward a new hero in Little Italy in these days of wartime excitement. The latest is Mario Cotellessa, who led 60 young Italians to the consulate at 717 Spruce street today to make plans for having himself and his fellow patriots sent home to Italy as soon as possible to take their places in the armies of the Fatherland.

Besides Cotellessa, who lives at 1012 Salter street, there were Joseph Pannunzio, 740 Catharine street; Michele Tunsi, 1224 South 13th street; Donato Carpenof the city this afternoon. This evening dieri, 1410 South 5th street, and Ottavio D'Angelantonio, 928 Annin street.

The last-named has been a popular idol in the downtown colony ever since he was stabbed in the arm at 7th and Chestnut streets on Sunday night, when an Austrian with whom he was arguing pulled a knife and slashed D'Angelantonio in the arm.

In spite of his wound (this was the first blood spilt for Italy in Philadelphia since the war began) D'Angelantonio, unarmed, threw the Austrian into the gutter.

In honor of the young reservist a banquet was given last night at Palumbo's, the restaurant which has been the centre of so many celebrations in the last few days, and D'Angelantonio had to drink many glasses of chianti and show his wound to dozens of admiring residents of the district.

The reserve its who went to the consulate were told that as yet no arrangements had been made by the litalian Government other than those which obtain in times of peace, when the consulate is willing to send reservists who wish to complete their time in the army home to Italy at half-fare, namely, $22. As there has been no official call for volunteers Italy at half-fare, namely, SEE. As there has been no official call for volunteers from Rome as yet, the consulate has no authority to provide cheaper passage.

Frof. Vincenzo Di Santo, a professor of romance languages in the University of romance languages in the University of Pennsylvania, declared today he was ready to join the colors at a moment's notice and go to Italy to fight.

Mr. Di Santo volunteered two weeks ago, and yesterday visited the Italian Consulate to discuss with the Cavallere Poccardi, Italian Consul in Philadelphia, the probable number of Italians who would leave this city to enlist.

The colony downtown gave vent to enthusiasm last night over the Italian successes in the capture of five small towns on the way to Trieste. Veterans of the wars for liberation from the Austrian yoke, Garibaldi men, put on their trian yoke, Garibaldi men, put on their old uniforms and marched about the streets and were cheered whenever they appeared.

appeared.

There was a parade with a band, and the Italian and American flags were carried through the streets side by side. The shipping offices were kept busy answering the questions of reservists today. Most of them wanted to take passage on the Tacarmia, which sails from New on the Taormina, which sails from New York for Naples on May 31.

the care of their bables. The only way to educate them is to spend money. The only work of this kind now being done in the city is through private agencies, such as the Child Federation, but things of child hygiene."

"Montclair considers the health of its bables of more importance than the conservation of its hogs and horses," said Dr. Elizabeth Mercelis, head of the baby clinic in Montclair. "Money put into the scientific care of bables produces more desirable results than appropriations for checking the spread of hog cholera and breeding better strains of animals.
"Nothing is so worth while saving as a Philadelphia is prominent among the cities in the number of babies who die. Nearly 5000 died last year within the city Nearly 5000 died last year within the city limits, and many of these wee miles of humanity could have been saved if the mothers had known how to take care of them during the first year of their lives. Only two cities exceeded Philadelphia last year in the infant death rate, and they were Chicago and Baltimore. The deaths per 1000 in Chicago were 132.7, in Baltimore, 154.5, and in Philadelphia, 121.3. New York, that vortex of humanity, where one would think a baby could not survive, showed the lowest infant mortality rate showed the lowest infant mortality rate of all the large cities, 94.5, out of every 1999. Montelair, N. J., ladd the lowest record of all, with only 35 deaths in every 1000 babies born in 1914.

The secret of success in New York and Montclair lies in the education of the mothers, according to Albert Cross, secretary of the Child Federation, of this city. The Board of Health of the New Jersey town, which has gained an envisible rep-utation through its model sanitary regulations, maintains a baby clinic. New York, to overcome the handleap of congestion, from which the smaller town is free, is spending money.

"A determined effort has been made in New York for the last eeven or eight years to check the infant death rates," said Mr. Cross. "This city will have to do the same if it wishes to save its bables. New York has the best organized division of child bysters in the country and has New York for the last seven or eight years to check the infant death rates," said Mr. Cross. "This city will have to do the same if it wishes to save its hables. New York has the best organized division of child hygiene in the country and has expended hundreds of thousands of dollars in the scientific education of mothers and in having pure milk laws enforced. One would naturally expect that a city like New York would have an enormous bringant death rate. Only the measures being used to combat the evil prevent this. Even the congested districts, such as Manhattan, show surprisingly low death rates.

"The solution of the question rests on the knowledge which mothers have of the continued. "One adequate law which guaranteed absolutely pure milk for babies all over the country would do more to safeguard our future as a nation than a dozen new battleships."

Doctor Mercella first rule for the baby's health is proper feeding, since a baby's stomach is the most important part of his natoromy. Pure milk in proper quantities is the text from which the baby clinic's instructors preach. Next comes cleanliness. The other rules are important; warmth, regularity in the baby's life, daily exercise for the mother, cudding, etc.—but pure milk and cleanliness.

WHITE GIRL WANTS TO MARRY CHINAMAN

Employe of Prosperous Laundryman of Oak Lane Has Him Arrested.

Harry Tom, a Chinaman, who has made so much money laundering the collars and shirts of Oak Lane residents that and shirts of Oak Lane residents that he rides about in his own automobile, owns property and employs white folk to work for him, had a hearing to-day in City Hall on a charge brought by Miss Mary Crock, a young woman of Coatesville, whom he employed.

Miss Crock, a pretty girl, 30 years old, left her home in Coatesville, Pa, to seek employment in this city a year ago. She found it in a laundry in Philadelphia. Harry Tom drove up to the door of this laundry one day in his auto and visited the proprietor. He went into the work-rooms and looked at the American girls busy at the ironing boards.

he took Mary Crock in his auto out to see his own stop at 607 Oak lane, Oak Lane, and offered her work there. She decided to accept employment there and it appeared that she was provided with lodgings. This was three months There was another girl employed

"The war should welcome such a spe-cialist in high explosives," said Magis-trate Haggerty today when Nicholas Baroni, of 1233 Catharine street, who was arraigned as the man who left a bomb on the front doorstep of Vincent Tet-rozelli, 1233 South lith street, two weeks ago, said he wanted to go to the war. The evidence that Baroni had fired the bomb was not convincing enough to offer grounds for helding him further. Magis-trate Haggerty breathed relief when Baroni mentioned his liking for service in a foreign army.

Sports Magazine PUBLIC LEDGER

What a difference an L. B. card ledger makes!

The Mishawaka Woolen Manufacturing Co., of Mishawaka, Ind., is going through the pleasant experience of a steadily increasing business. As its business grew, so, until recently, did the bookkeeper's row of ledgers and it finally exceeded fifty volumes. When one of these was being used by the accounting, credit or sales force, about a thousand accounts were tied up. This interfered a great deal with the office work, and resulted in much lost time. Now they have a Library Bureau card ledger! What a difference it makes! More work done in half the time, with less effort. We'll be glad to show you what an L. B. card ledger will do for you. It simplifies account-keeping, cuts out lost motion and makes work easy for the whole office force. Catalog free.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

PHILADELPHIA newspaper, noted for its upholding A of Prohibition, has this to say, editorially, of the FACTS VERSUS FALLACIES articles appearing every Wednesday and Saturday:

"CERTAIN features, it will be admitted, show a marked improvement. The matter is written in better vein and in a better tone than usually put forth It is duly signed by the organization responsible for it. The argumentative purpose is well sustained."

PHE praise given in the above editorial is all the more welcome because, coming from an antagonist it has double force; and proves that the purpose of these articles -Temperance-is being felt.

THESE articles constitute a brief for True Temperance. They are planned and written in a temperate spirit to disprove the FALLACIES foisted by the Prohibitionists, and which, through publicity, gained wide credence. By opposing, through equal publicity, these FALLACIES with FACTS the thinking public has realized that the temperate use of alcoholic stimulants has never worked harm to a nation or to an individual.

ROM the beginning these articles have been pleas for Temperance-in eating, thinking, speaking, as well as drinking; and we feel that the editorial commendation accorded this series is deserved.

T is a FALLACY to suppose that the word Intemperate is applied solely to the person who over indulges in al-coholic stimulants. It is a FACT that intemperate eating. thinking and speaking has much to do with the misery in
