A number of dinners will precede tonight's affair.

Society of this city, Germantown, Chestnut Hill and the Main Line is taking an active interest in the success of Flag Day, to be held on Saturday for the benefit of the Playgrounds Association of Philadelphia. These girls will be under the supervision of a number of captains and district leaders made up of older women and will be assisted by a number of boy scouts, under the direction of Scoutmaster Isaac N. Sutton. Although Flag Day will be officially ushered in Friday at noon when Mayor Blankenburg will unfurl a large flag at Logan Square, the canvass proper will not take place until Saturday. Ferries, railroad stations, theatres, jitney junctions and all other places where a large number of people gather will be thoroughly covered by the girls who will work in three to four hour shifts.

SOCIETY FOLK THRONG TO DEVON HORSE SHOW

Many Girls Who Will Be Debutantes Next Year Make "First Appearance."

Aside from the attraction for those whose first interest is good horseflesh, the Devon show is the premier social event of the spring season. Not only does Philadelphia society turn out in force, but the exhibition is made the occasion of much entertaining of visitors from New York, Boston, Washington and other cities.

It also marks the first appearance of those girls who next year will make their formal debut and enter the world of social gaiety that is not confined to college proms and the meetings of the junior dancing classes on Saturday night.

With the opening of the Horse Show, which surely ranks among the foremost of society's events, the summer girl appeared in all her winning glory this morning. There seems to be little doubt that the sports girl is with us this season and with us to stay.

Is it that the short white skirt, comfortable white shoes and soft panama are easiest to wear or is it a fact that these fresh and dainty garments topped with brilliant hued silk sweaters with their soft sashes, or, newer still, the bright silk corduroy coats, are after all the prettiest and smartest looking costumes of the show?

One of the earliest arrivals this morning was Miss Kitty Smith, who looked very smart in a sports suit of white flannel with panama hat and white shoes to match. Mrs. Charles Randolph Snowden was an interested spectator. She was gowned in white with a small white hat trimmed with flat daisies. A white coat was also worn and a lace veil.

Mrs. Victor C. Mather was another early arrival. She was gowned in white with a long gray coat trimmed with the blue worsted bows, and her hat was of tucked blue silk.

Miss Gabriella M. Tilghman and Miss Angela Nalle were seated outside the oval. Miss Tilghman was wearing an extremely smart silk sweater of rose pink, very long, which was held in at the waist by a wide scarf and tassels of the same exquisite weave. Miss Tilghman's hat was a semi-large model of rose pink, and the crown was surrounded with large crush roses. Miss Nalle was beautifully gowned in champagne-colored cloth.

Philadelphians naturally furnish the greater number of entries in the majority of the classes, but the entry list from out of town stables is unusually large. Among these are John L. Bushnell, of Springfield, O.; T. L. Chadbourne, of Greenwich, Conn.; Miss Vira Cornell, of Rye, N. Y.; Miss Marion duPont, of Montleller Station, Va.; Lieutenant W. W. Erwin, of West Point, N. Y.; Lieutenant R. W. Henderson, of West Point, N. Y.; Willis Sharpe Kilmer, of Binghampton, N. Y.; E. B. McLean, of Washington, D. C.; Colonel C. G. Treat, of Washington, D. C., and Colonel W. E. Wilder, of Fort Myer, Va.

T. De Witt Cuyler is president of the Devon Horse Show Association. Edward F. Beale is vice president, Arthur B. Huey secretary and Charles M. M. Lea treasurer. William T. Hunter is chairman of the Executive Committee.

Among the judges are Judge William H. Moore, Joseph E. Widener, Robert A. Fairbairn, Alfred B. Maclay, J. McE. Bowman, Herbert L. Camp, William duPont, J. Garner West, A. Henry Higginson, Captain W. H. Bell, U. S. C
