

RUSSIANS MAKE STAND TO SAVE LEMBERG BASE ON SAN-DNIESTER LINE

Form to Meet Teuton Sweep Behind Marsh and Lake Barrier—Zeppelins Drop Gas Bombs on Bzura; Ossowitz Shelled.

Furious battle on a large scale between the Austro-German army which is driving toward Lemberg from the south and Russians in progress along the lower San and Dniester Rivers, 20 miles south of the great Slav base and last foothold in Galicia. The Russians who evacuated Przemyśl are making a final stand behind intrenchments prepared to defend Lemberg, and the great natural barrier created by the lakes and marshes of the terrain.

The Russian War Office, in an official statement issued today, admitted that the troops operating between the Stryl and Tyumenka Rivers, in East Galicia, had fallen back, but attempts of the Germans to dislodge them from their positions on the Dniester were repulsed with heavy losses.

In North Poland the Germans have resumed the bombardment of Ossowitz. Southwest of Warsaw they continue to strike at Slav positions on the Bzura and Rawa, continuing poison gas assaults.

The Germans have forced their way to within two miles of Ypres, driving the British from Hooge. The British in their drive on La Bassée captured some German trenches at Guenchy, but were unable to hold them.

Paris reports further gains in the Neuville "Labyrinth" and the capture of a trench near the Souchez sugar mill.

The Germans bombarded Verdun at long range, while the French shelled Metz.

SLAVS' LATEST STAND TO SAVE LEMBERG OPENS BIG BATTLE

Jeek to Hold Barrier of Marsh and Lake to Protect Base.

LONDON, June 5.—Although the Russians have evacuated Przemyśl, desperate fighting continues in Galicia for mastery of Lemberg, Slav base of supplies. Apparently they are endeavoring to hold the line formed roughly by the lower San, the Wnina and Dniester Rivers, where there are strong natural positions which are covered partly by the great marshes of the Dniester.

In eastern Galicia the Russians report successes. These, however, are denied by the Austrians. Vienna reports that Przemyśl has been cleared of Russians, who are retreating to the east. Some of them, however, are making a stand at Medyka. It is said also that the Austrians have broken through the Russian lines in the south and have advanced toward Moskala.

In the Berlin official report it is stated that the Germans are now east and northeast of Przemyśl, at Bolestevane, Ormie, Yocofane and Tarawa. About 15 miles east of Przemyśl, an army under General von Marwitz is fighting on both sides of the river. General von Linningen is about to cross the Stryl northeast of the town of that name.

HINDENBURG DRIVES FAIL, PETROGRAD ASSERTS

Ambitious Concerted Campaigns on East Front Called Futile.

PETROGRAD, June 5.—The ambitious plan of General von Hindenburg of crushing the Russians and compelling them to withdraw to the old borders is still far from accomplishment.

Of ten Austro-German armies formerly arrayed on the huge front from the Poles to Rumania, one army—believed to be that of General Danik, from the Nida—had to be removed and sent to the Italian border, compelling the Germans to remain on the strict defensive in the Nida valley.

On the eastern flank of Hindenburg's force the armies of General Linningen and Pfanner sustained hard punishment at the hands of the Russians, and, instead of turning the Russian flank or invading Podolia, as fondly hoped, remains respectively on the Pruth and beyond Stryl.

Of five armies which were driven straight at the heart of the Russian position, one group—two armies under Mackensen—got across the San. Another group composed of three armies struck south of Przemyśl, but was unable to get beyond the line stretching toward the Dniester marshes.

The strength and valor of the Russian resistance compelled the Teutons to devote all their energies to the humbling task of capturing Przemyśl.

RUMANIA TO HOLD ALLOOF FROM WAR, BERLIN HEARS

Allies Fail in Efforts to Persuade Balkan State to Enter.

BERLIN, June 5.—The Allies have failed in their efforts to induce Rumania to follow Italy into the war. Russia and Rumania have been unable to come to terms and private advices received here today indicate that the threat of a Rumanian invasion of Austrian territory has at least been temporarily removed.

Russia, according to reports brought here, refused to accede to some of Rumania's territorial demands. The pressure of England and France and finally of the Italian King failed to move the Czar, and Rumania is reported to have ended the negotiations.

"The defeat of the attempt to get Rumania into the war is a greater Austro-German victory than the capture of Przemyśl," said the Lokal Anzeiger today.

SUBMARINE FAILS IN TEST

Torpedoes Stick in Tube of United States Navy's G-1.

NEWPORT, June 5.—Trouble developed on another United States submarine yesterday, and though it is not of very serious nature, it is necessary for the underwater test to go to the Navy yard for attention. The G-1, commanded by Lieutenant Zeph M. Dean, which on Thursday underwent a successful submerged test, was taken out yesterday for a torpedo-firing test. Dummy torpedoes were used, but it is said that each time a shot was fired the torpedo would stick in the tube. Had the regulation torpedo been used, it doubtless would have been ruined at an expense to the Government of several thousands of dollars. As soon as convenient the G-1 will be sent to the Navy yard for attention.

JUDGE DALLET'S DAUGHTER WEDS MAN FATHER HAD ARRESTED

Stormy Romance Ends When C. R. Penington Weds Girl for Whom He Once Spent Lonely Night in Police Cell.

Miss Marie Dallett, daughter of Judge Morris Dallett, of the Orphans' Court, was married to C. Randall Penington by the Rev. Charles H. Haines, rector of St. Clement's Episcopal church, 20th and Cherry streets, today.

The wedding marked the success of a strenuous endeavor on the part of bride and bridegroom extending over a period of more than two years to bring about the wedding in the face of opposition on the part of Judge and Mrs. Dallett that at times attained a unique degree of rancor.

Mrs. Dallett at last consented to the match and saw her daughter married. The girl's father was not present at the simple ceremony performed before a few intimate friends of the couple this afternoon.

The couple are well known in Philadelphia society. Miss Dallett made her debut at the University of Pennsylvania in 1911 and is at present connected with the brokerage firm of Penington & Colket, with offices at 15th and Walnut streets. He lives at 15th and 23rd streets.

The couple met a little more than two years ago and became engaged a short time later. Judge and Mrs. Dallett immediately refused to consider the match and forbade their daughter even to see her fiancé.

Nothing was done for a time, until one Sunday afternoon in December, 1913, Penington met Miss Dallett outside her home at 236 South 21st street, and started to walk to a nearby garage, where Penington's automobile was waiting to carry them off.

The plan went astray, however, when Judge Dallett dashed from the house. In his haste, he overtook the pair, upbraided Penington and forced his daughter to return home.

But Penington refused to give in. Later he appeared again outside the Dallett house, and this time he was with his fiancée. Judge Dallett interfered again, and after a violent dispute with his would-be son-in-law had him arrested.

Penington was locked up in the 12th and Locust streets police station on a charge of disorderly conduct. Later, after remaining in a cell for hours, the matter was dropped, and Penington was released on $500 bail to keep the peace by Magistrate Rooney.

Since that time Penington has persisted in his intention. The two have been engaged for a marriage until the romance culminated in the wedding today.

The wedding party arrived at the church in four automobiles. Mrs. Dallett arrived first and knelt, with bowed head, alone, in the rear of the little chapel of St. John. She remained there until the ceremony was over. Shortly afterward the bridegroom, accompanied by his father and mother and four friends, reached the church in two automobiles.

There were several minutes past the noon hour when the bride and groom, accompanied by three young women. She wore a simple street gown of white, with hat and shoes to match. A large bouquet of lilies of the valley was worn on her corsage.

The ceremony was performed quickly. Outside the portal of the chapel, as they left, Penington took his bride by the arm and kissed her. As the wedding party came from the chapel Mrs. Penington embraced her son. She did not greet the bride. Mrs. Dallett, who had stood aside for a moment's conversation, then Penington took his wife's arm and they left the church and were quickly driven to their home.

The wedding party refused to permit their names to be used. No explanation was vouchsafed for the absence of Judge Dallett.

WAY TO PEACE HINTED AT IN GERMAN REPLY

Germany's view, unofficially expressed, is that she has won. By this she means that she has stopped all her antagonists, has demonstrated that she cannot be crushed and her battle lines—for the most part on foreign soil—cannot be thrown back. She feels that she is fighting, more than anything else, for freedom of commerce, and it is her view that America, if drawn into the struggle, would be drawn by that same desire—freedom of the seas.

The winning nations being at a standstill, she thinks negotiations may soon be under way and there arises the need for a mediator.

AUTOMOBILE BANDITS HOLD UP PAYMASTER

Overlook Larger Sums and Rob Thomas J. Lane of $75 Near Fort Washington.

Four desperadoes, each armed with a gun, today held up Thomas J. Lane, paymaster for Thomas J. Meehan & Sons, and after taking $65 from him, escaped in an automobile.

The robbery occurred shortly before noon on Lincolnton pike, between Dresher and Fitzwaterstown, about a mile from Fort Washington. The highwayman obtained the $65 from a bag which Lane was carrying, but neglected larger sums of money which were concealed in the paymaster's pockets.

Mr. Lane's firm are proprietors of one of the largest nurseries in the world, and he is in charge of the payroll of the entire wholesale department.

After leaving his home in Dresher, the paymaster made his weekly visit to the bank. He rode in a street car from Germantown to Ardley station. He was met there by Frank Mitsu with a horse and buggy.

Lane had previously told Mitsu that in the event of a hold-up he should whip up the horses and attempt to escape the thieves. He obeyed the instructions, but the bandits soon surrounded the buggy and made their escape impossible.

After warning the driver and paymaster that any attempt to summon aid would be met with death, the desperadoes jumped into an automobile that stood near the scene of the robbery.

They drove toward Philadelphia. The motorcar bore a license tag on which was printed "Pennsylvania 3078." When Lane arrived at the office he telephoned to the police of Ogontz, Ambler and Abington. The latter notified the detective bureau of this city and a thorough search for the men is in progress. It had been previously reported that Thomas J. Meehan, head of the firm, had been held up.

The error was due to the coincidence of the first names of Lane and Mr. Meehan. The latter is in New York today. License tag No. 36,097 on the automobile was last several months ago by H. B. Underwood & Co., 1025 Hamilton street, engineers and machinists. The license was issued for a motortruck, used by that firm for deliveries and other purposes.

When the loss was reported by the chauffeur, the license office at Harrisburg was immediately notified and a new tag procured. It is believed one of the motor bandits found the sign and appended it to a touring car which they stole.

ITALIAN DRIVE FORCES FOE TO QUIT

trian guns, captured when the Italians took Mount Zugno by assault, have begun bombarding the city from a great height. A second Italian army is co-operating with the force that pushed rapidly up the Adige to the attack upon Rovereto. It is making its way along the mountain paths overlooking Val Arsa, scaling heights and capturing Austrian positions with little resistance. The advance guard of this second force is less than eight miles from Rovereto.
