Christianity."

Thus the Rev. Father Edward J. Lyng, curate at Ct. Bridget's Church. Falls of Schuylkill, addressed the graduating class of St. Joseph's College, in the baccalaureate sermon in the Church of the Gesu, 18th and Stiles streets.

"By your actions and your word, you shall show the results of the wonderful training that the most brilliant professors of the Catholic church can give you. You of the Catholic church can give you. You have been raught the difference between the right and wrong and your one result will be success, for you will not be contaminated by the false literature and the dectrines of the public prema that will be flaunted at you. More men are destroyed through their intellectual forces than their physical forces, for remove from a man his noble purpose and he is defenseless to the possons that are hovering around him. To do away with the colleges and schools for one year would bring about such a chaos and moral stagnation that it would take years to eradicate it; therefore, education is the foundation of success, the bulwark of morality, and you students possess all these qualities that will bring nothing but success to you."

In addition to the graduating class, more than 2000 persons packed the church. The Rev. Joseph A. Springer celebrated the Solemn High Mass, after which the exercises started at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The college commencement will be held on Wednesday evening and followed on Thursday evening by the senior

NEGRO BEGINS RECRUITING Colonel "Gittin' Ready fo Wah," But

start befo you git ready." So that's why Colonel Thomas Large, a patriotic Negro, has begun to "mobileize" troops before the trouble starts. The colonel, who is ponderous and emphatic, realized that a lot of "rah-crootin" would have to be done. He engaged Noah Copelman, another sincere Negro, to take charge of a recruiting office for negrovolunteers. Noah lives at 1011 Locust street, and opened the office right at his home, which saved both time and money. It appears that the colonel had considerable trouble convincing negro citizens that there would really be a war. They said to him, "if dere's goin' to be wah, we'll be in on it, but if dere ain' goin' to be no wah, wot's de use gittin' all worked up?" But the army was coming in sight slowly, when trouble arose in the financial department. The organizer declared the had a wallet containing $10 and a val-uable medal before he engaged Noah as his secretary, but shortly after the en-listment of Noah the money and the medal disappeared. The colonel said he won the medal for bravery during the Spanish-American War.
