"CHERRY HILL'S" END IN SIGHT AS THE NEW PRISON BILL IS SIGNED

Governor Approves Measure by Which Eastern and Western Penitentiaries Are Merged Into

One in Centre County.

The Eastern Penitentiary, at 31st street and Fairmount avenue, will be abandoned within a few years as a result of the Hess bill, signed today at Harrisburg by Governor Brumbaugh. The bill provides for the merging of the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries at Rockview, near Philadelphians connected with the pitcher, was sent in against the visitors. prison system County. The main reasons are that it will cost more to keep the convicts and that it will result in cutting down their visitors, owing to the increased cost of transportation.

"Cherry Hill." as the old gray pile at 21st street and Fairmount avenue is familiarly known, has stood for nearly 100 years. It was built in 1823 and opened for prisoners in October of 1829. At the present time there are 1646 convicts in the penitentiary. This is slightly above the normal capacity. The prison occuples a tract of 11 acres.

The Western Penitentiary, at Pitts-burgh, houses between 800 and 900 con-victs. Inmates of both prisons eventual-ly will be transferred to the enormous plot in the lonely Centre County hills. So far no plans have been made for the disposition of the prison in this city that will be abandoned. Some officials and ethers interested in prison welfare think it would be a good plan to move Moya-mensing inmates into the uptown prison. which is more commodious.

McKENTY OPPOSES CHANGE. Warden Robert J. McKenty expressed the opinion today that what is needed is a prison 15 or 20 miles from Philadelphia. He does not favor the big farm in Centre County. Other farm prisons throughout the country, he says, show by their annual reports that it costs them twice as much per prisoner as it does at the Eastern Penitentiary. "I'll have to see it work before I have much faith in it," said the Warden. "I

QUITS AS SECRETARY TO "BILLY" SUNDAY

Man Resigns on Ground of Underpayment-Less Important Cogs in Machine Got Bigger Plums.

"Bully's" right-hand man, who for eigh years has known perhaps as much about the inner workings of "Billy's" organi-zation as any other man has, said that ho will tell of internal dissensions in the Sunday campaigns.

Mr. Ackley said he had resigned because of these ructions. Narrowed down the seemed to be personal jealousies and money fights. Although he said he had been told time and time again that he was the most important cog in the Sunday nachine the former secretary declared that he was never paid his full value, and that others who did less work gathered ing ever since the end of the Philadel-phia campaign. According to Ackley, Redeheaver made $20,000 during the revival in this city, the biggest part of it coming from the sale of his hymnbooks. Many of the hymns in these books, Ackley says, were his, but that Rodeheaver took the ligh's share of the proceeds.

Another dissenter from the Sunday ranks is the Rev. E. M. Emmet, Sun-day's advance man, who was summarily discharged by Sunday at the close of the Sunday campaign. Emmett, it seems, was too independent to suit the evangelist, and serious clushes are said to have suited in the final discharge of Emmet Undaunted by this, however, he will onduct a series of tent meetings in and round New York city this summer.
