Many Jersey fishermen on hearing of the wonderful leaping tuna of the Catalina Islands deplore their lack of funds to take them to this fishermen's paradise.

It is not only possible, but it has been done by market fishermen, who dread these fish that play havoc with their nets, and wherever possible land them, if they are not too large, on hand lines.

The regulation bank skiff would be the ideal boat to fish for the tuna, and it would be easily handled when playing them.

Fishing for tuna, with rod and reel, is only of recent date. Some have been caught weighing more than 500 pounds.

The tuna is found all along the coast, from Newfound as far south as Florida, and devastates huge schools of blues, menhaden and herring.

Tackle consists of a heavy split six-foot tip or one of solid wood, such as the surf men use, and an 18-inch butt.

The real must be capable of carrying 30 yards of 20 weight line and should be of the best, so as to stand up under the rushes of these fish.

The tunas usually make their appearance on the Jersey coast in July, and as they do not school like smaller fish must be sought for.

THREE MOTORBOATS START IN 180-MILE DELAWARE CONTEST

Jarvis' Cleo, Swayne's Eugenia and Cartledge's Marguerite II Put Under Way for Five-fathom Bank Light.

Promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon the Cleo, owned by H. L. Jarvis, of the Anchor Yacht Club of Bristol, got under way for the cruiser race to Five Fathom Bank Vessel and return from the Alpha Boat Club of Chester.

Shortly after the Cleo was sent away, the 34-foot cruiser Eugenia, owned by Commodore J. Eugene Swayne, of the Flat Rock Motor Boat Club, which has its headquarters on the Schuylkill River just above Shawmont, started chugging down the Delaware River for the first reporting station at Overfalls Light Ship. The two boats are the only ones entered in Class A, which is for boats rating under 45.

The Marguerite, owned and sailed by Commodore A. B. Cartledge, president of the Delaware River Yacht Racing Association, under whose auspices the contest is being held, and a member of the Keystone Yacht Club of Tacoma is the only craft in Class B, which is for boats rating 45 and over.

The Alpha Boat Club, under whose auspices with the Delaware River Yacht Racing Association the contest is being held, give a reception to the owners of the three boats before the race started. The three boats will report at Overfalls, and after passing the port will continue their run down to Five Fathom Bank Light Vessel. The boats are due at home some time Saturday afternoon.

While, at the same time, there are not many entries in the two classes, there will be keen interest in the run of the three boats. Particular interest is being taken in the running of the Eugenia, for the reason of her win in the annual Ship John contest last season, which was run from the Riverdale Yacht Club, of Esington. The Eugenia was an easy winner over the Ellanor, and she is being watched to see if her win was a flash in the pan.

The cruising of the Marguerite II is virtually a time trial for the boat. She recently had new engines installed, and the owner is in the race to give them a thorough trying out to see what chance he will have in winning in his class in the Baltimore-Camden cruiser contest, which takes place on the last three days of July.

FINAL JUNIOR TENNIS CONTESTS ARE PLAYED TODAY AT GERMANTOWN

Miss Sarah Myers, Merion, Wins Her Match, and E. C. Cassard, Philadelphia C. C., the Boys' Title. Doubles Winners.

GERMANTOWN, Pa., June 18.—Some wonderful tennis was played this morning at Mannheim when the final round in several classes of the junior tournament for the championship of Philadelphia was decided.

For the third successive year Miss Sarah Myers, the young Merion Cricket Club star, won the girls' singles championship by defeating Miss Townsend, of Manheim, in a very fine set.

"Eddie" Cassard, of the St. Martins junior, played excellent tennis and defeated F. H. Strawbridge, Jr., his doubles partner, in three fast sets, which tired both players.

After these two matches were decided Sharfow and Stecher started play with Moorhead and Beard in the final round of the boys' doubles championship.

This makes Stecher's second cup, as he won the boys' singles consolation yesterday afternoon. The girls' doubles championship was also decided this morning when Miss Myers and Miss Cheston defeated Miss Robinson and Miss Crawley in straight sets; scores, 6-0, 6-1.

The Merion Cricket Club players had no trouble in downing their opponents in the final match of the day.

The summaries: BOYS' SINGLES. Final Round. E. C. Cassard, Philadelphia Cricket Club, defeated F. H. Strawbridge, Jr., Merion Cricket Club, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

WALLACE UMPIRES BEHIND THE BAT THIS AFTERNOON FOR FIRST TIME

Old Brown's Short Fielder Does Well on Balls and Strikes—Fans Present Find Shibe Park a Very Warm Spot.

Some say the Mackmen cannot win, and yet, 'tis only to be seen. There's lots of speed and power in the remnants of the old machine. New cops have been installed by Mack, at least the whole was rather rough, but now 'tis slowly coming back. To old-time form—which is enough.

By BLEECHER. SHIBE PARK, June 18.—Joe Bush got the rather tough assignment today of halting the victory-flushed White Sox and Eddie Collins. He went at it with great éclat, not to say any frowd, by fanning Felch, the first man up.

Bobby Wallace, one-time famous shortstop, who has been umpiring for Ben Johnson for some time, was behind the plate today. In previous games he has handled the work on the base, and it was his first time behind the plate.

As we have intimated, Wallace was a shortstop. He was accustomed to keeping his hands in front of him for years while he played ball and he had trouble today getting used to the hands-in-back attitude of the umpire behind the plate.

Wallace would look like fingers behind him, but when the pitcher threw the ball he stuck them out in front as though intending to catch it if the man under the bat didn't.

To return to the subject of Joe Bush, nicknamed Bullet Joe, he used a time-honored method to get rid of Collins, the third man to face him in the first. What did he do? He passed him. Eddie then tried to steal second and failed, young Ryan-Malone catching Sullivan-Collins by four feet.

Storm clouds obscured the sun at the start of the game. A light breeze started up and the heat became oppressive, but for a time it looked like rain. Later the skies cleared and the weather became ideal for baseball.

Two runs were collected by the Mackmen in their half of the first on one hit and two errors, both by Weaver. After Walsh and Barry had been put out Lapp walked, Oldring then came up and tried to please his friends in the sun bleachers by a home run. His wallop fell short of all in winning.

This makes Stecher's second cup, as he won the boys' singles consolation yesterday afternoon. The girls' doubles championship was also decided this morning when Miss Myers and Miss Cheston defeated Miss Robinson and Miss Crawley in straight sets; scores, 6-0, 6-1.

and Lapp and Oldring scored. Melnitz promptly stole second, but Strunk went out.

Chicago tied the score in the third on Weaver's triple after getting a run in the second. Faber was on first by the generosity of Bush at the time and he scored. The hit went almost to the score-board. Eddie Collins, the next man up, hit a long fly that Oldring got after hard run and Weaver came home on a three-run, giving the Sox a one-run lead.

The Chicago half of the fourth inning today was a murky affair, from the viewpoint of our boys. Three of the White Sox young men were on the base, a hit that is allowed by law—in that season when Felch stepped up and smothered the pill into the bleachers, taking a circuit trip himself and making the Chicago total seven runs.

About this time the sun disappeared again and it began to look like rain. Fans who had thrown them away, started to bust for their rain checks and bleachers got ready to move into the covered stands.

Not a Mackman got on bases in their half of the fourth. They prevented a run from scoring on an attempted double steal in the next, however, Malone talking Lapp's throw. He then chased Earl Colts to third, where J. Collins happened to be standing. As two men cannot occupy one base, out when J. Collins.

Ryan-Malone, who hasn't done much in the way of hitting since he joined the Macks, got one where he wanted it. To the fifth and sent it spinning merrily to the score-board for a triple. He got a great hand for it from the fans.

WELSH WILL BOX OUTDOORS To Meet Lustig at Ebbs Field Tonight—Cross vs. Dundee.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, will be the chief attraction at the athletic carnival tonight at Ebbs Field, Brooklyn.

Welsh, who has had time to recover from the slump which marked his latest battles here, will meet Johnny Lustig, of New York, who gave him a tough battle in Montreal a few months ago.

Another headliner will be the meeting of Leach Cross and Johnny Dundee. Both have plenty of admirers, and though the battle may not be as scientific as the bout in which Welsh is a factor, it is sure to be a fast and hard-hitting encounter.

In the opening bout Gus Foulis will hit with Marty Cross, a brother of Leach.
