LOVE PIRATES-THE MASCULINE OR FEMININE HEART-BREAKER

Natural History of the Sweetheart Stealer and Philanderes Like That of Birds of Prey.

By ELLEN ADAIR

for of those who give and those who take. And without a doubt there is a great deal of stealing which is never recognized by the police or the law.

The sweetheart stealer is a most objectionable undividual and far more common than one would think. This person may be of either sex, and can be likened to the frigate, or the man-of-war bird. that beautiful sea-bird of the tropics which, though a mighty flier, is incapable of awimming or diving, and can therefore only pick up a precarious living on flying fish. Being thus unable to fish for themselves, these pirate-birds resort to plundering gannets and terns, which, as they fly homewards with their catch of fish, are compelled to drop their dinners which are caught by the sweeping hird in mid-# TWO #

The natural history of the sweetheart stealer is much the same. These pirates of the lovers' world seem incapable of attracting affection on their own account. They must steal. They cannot acquire.

Few girls are sufficiently wide-awake to recognize the real love-pirate when they meet him. He is a philanderer, of course, and all philanderers are exceedingly attractive and well-dowered as to looks. Moreover, he has a spurious giltter that attracts these foolish damsels away from more solid friendships and which generally leaves them in the end like the maiden all fortorn in the story books, without any lover at al!!

There is a period in the dawning of a The relationship at this interesting stage generally goes under the name of an this is entirely a misnomer, as it is the spoils everything by his interference. He lated for the retaining of husbandly af starts paying perfectly meaningless attentions to the girl, and as he has a strong and determined character to which Human nature is very weak, and flattery

Prize Suggestions

A prize of $1 will be awarded

No suggestions will be daily for the best practical suggestion.

returned

fruil world may, speaking roughly, be | the old love for the new, even when she divided into two wide classes, consist- knows that her affections are centred with the old love and when she has a vague inkling that the second man is but a triffer.

> As an expert on the subject nesures us, "Love, after all, is a sort of high wire on which we poor humans can only walk safely with the balancing pole of common sense. And when we first start this nice game of balancing, we are naturally rather shaky and uncertain of our footbold."

Lovers' quarrels give an endless opportunity to the love-pirates, and many a pair of sweethearts are left disconsolate long after that bright bird has soured off in search of other and more interesting

The love-pirate, be it man or woman, has no settled friends. If a man or woman is rich in acquaintances, but lacking in friends, be sure that something is very far wrong there. Such a condition implies instability of character.

Love and friendship alike demand sacrifices. And the love-pirate is prepared to sacrifice nothing.

An interesting article appeared in a class of stenographers as love-pirates. One of these had run off with her Husband, so naturally the poor woman's opinion was more than a little blased. Instead of condemning the stenographers as designing young women, whose sole aim in life is to attract every man they meet, it would be better if the marlove affair when the interference of a ried women who regard them as piratithird party may break up everything, cal copied some of their smartness and general attractiveness. The married man who ran off with his stenographer prob-"understanding." As a matter of fact, ably did so because his wife chose to appear before him dowdy and a frump. most fruitful period of all in misunder- The wifely apparitions which grace some standing. And it is precisely at this breakfast tables, with clothes negligee period that the love-pirate steps in and and hair even more so, are not calcu-

Where love-pirates are hovering around, honor and chivalry offer no insurmount- it is only a long experience of the world able obstacles, he very often succeeds in which will make the danger realized. And driving the first jover from the campaign, their piracy must always teach men and women to cling faithfully to the friendwill do much toward making a girl drop ships and loves already tried and proved.

Roosevelt Hospital Graduation

The Training School of the Roosevelt Hospital graduated four nurses last night The Rev. H. H. Holtzinger was the chief speaker, while the diplomas were awarded by Dr. T. N. Schwenk. The graduates are Miss Adgo T. Carlson, Miss Ellon Norton, Miss Lillian K. Lenders and Miss Regina M. Denamore.

Lansdowne High School Opened

More than 3000 persons inspected Lans-downe's new High School, which was formally opened last night. Addresses were made by members of the School Hoard, and at the close of the opening ex-ercises the Alumni Association's annual banquet was held.

LIVING MORE COSTLY HERE THAN IN LONDON

Prices in Philadelphia Restaurants Soar Above Those in British Capital.

England is worrying over the high cost of living—the problem which has probably been discussed more than any other in this country in recent years—and needin this country in recent years—and needleasty it must seem to Philadelphians.
Prices of foodstuffs have increased so much because of the war, according to dispatches, that it is giving the people and the Government much concern.
Nevertheless a menu containing dishes for every meal of the day taken from a leading hotel and representative restaurants in London show a scale of prices which would make Philadelphians chuckle with gies if they were in vogue here.
Such matters as woman suffrage and prohibition would be forgotten in the joy caused by a condition of affairs which would promise the solution of the highcost-of-living problem.

Only one item on the menu of the Savoy cost-of-living problem.

Only one item on the menu of the Savoy Hotel in London is listed at a higher price than the same article on the menu of one of Philadelphia's leading hotels. Curiously that is a dessert, peach Melba. Which may be caused by the comparative scarcity of peaches in the "tight little isle," or by the superior facilities and skill of American chefs in dessert making. Only four dishes can be bought for the same prices in the two hotels—all the rest cost more in Philadelphia. The four are consomme, filet de sole, pudding and ice cream.

These menus show that even with the

These menus show that even with the great advance in the prices of foods in London because of the war it is possible to get cheaper meals in the hotels and newspaper some time ago in which a restaurants there than can be obtained in married woman catalogued the whole class of stenographers as love-pirates. and Philadelpha:

	-London-		-c'hliadelphia
	Savoy Hotel,	Simpson's.	Royal Adelaids Gallery.	Large Brand Street Hotel,	Popular Downtown Restaurant
	SO	UPS.
Consomme Tomato	19.9	28 18H	25	25 30	27
Filst de sole		50	67	50	48
	ME	ATS.
Mutton chops Calf's liver	37	9,4	33	40	ŞM
and bacon Pork chops Tenderloin steak	37 37	11	11	50 40	750 260
Roast beef	50	- 27	áż	80 50	63
VE	3 127	CABLES.
Asparagus Tomatoes Mushrooms	25 25	- 27	43 25	45 30 60	43 15 50
	SAL	ADS.			-
Lobster salad,	62 ESS	TS ERTS.	1,00	70	940
Pudding	25	12	12	25	13
Strawberries Ice cream Peach Melba	23 87	iè	12 75	25 60	25 20 50
	HE	1885.	-	445
Camembert Roquefort Tea (per cup)	1	iż	8	25 25 20	20 20 15

Biggest House Owner Rents Home

NEW YORK, June 23 .- Although he is the largest individual owner of real estate in this city, Vincent Astor seems to be having a hard time to find a home that satisfies him and that he may keep. Yesterday he leased the house at 122 East 78th street for the coming season. Mr. Astor owns whole blocks of dwellings but among his possessions there is not one suitable for his own use

PLAIN MATERIALS ARE TRIMMED

Smart tweeds and woolen materials

were fashionable

early in the season,

when the extremely cold weather made

these necessary.

Now that the warm

weather has come,

the same materials

are duplicated in ra-tine, eponge and toweling with good effect. As a rule,

only the wearer

knows the difference,

and appreciates the difference in the

A tawny tan color is used in this ratine coat, combined with plaid skirt of cloudy blue shades,

This association of colorings is practica colorings is practical and becoming. The coat is made in a loose, belted jacket, with a double-breasted front. Collars and cuffs of the plaid materials are used on the coat to harmonize with the skirt. The coat is pleated at the back and small buckles are used at either side. The skirt is quite plain, being out very full and extremely short. The

The high boots are for walking, of course, and may be replaced by any of the smart sparts about this weight of the ma-

Mrs. Livingston Will Speak in Brides-That phase of the campaign of the town, for the following suggestion:

has been lost.

National Woman's Christian Temperance Union which concerns itself with woman suffrage will be discussed by Mrs. Delviah Knox Livingston, superintendent of franchise for the Union, at the Kirkbride Street Methodist Church, Bridesburg, Mrs. Livingston has been connected with the temperance movement ever since she was 19 years old. She was formerly president of the Rhode Island branch of the Union until she took up her suffrage work in the national body.

She will repeat the address tomorrow night in the East Allegheny Avenue Methodist Church.

> SUFFRAGE EVENTS EQUAL PRANCHISE SOCIETY, Open-air meeting on the Postoffice a, 6th and Chestnut streets. Speaker, Bertha Sapovita.

n-Open-air meeting at the Landanberger ii, Randolph street and Columbia street, salor, Miss Anna McCue; sesiotant at eting, Mrs. Agues Malion.

D. m. Open-air meeting at 25th street and deay's lerry road. Speaker, Miss Bertha $30 p. m.-Open-sir meeting at Front and Dia-mond streets. Speaker, Miss Anna McCue.

WOMAN'S SUPRAGE PARTY. th m. Members of the party leave head-quarters, ITH Chestous streat, to make auto-mandle true in northeastern section of the ofte and vicinity, Purpose of four-to-estab-tial sulheadquarters in various sections and to accouse tolerest in the woman's sulfings and question. Among those win are step, decorate Piersol, leader of the party in this city. Miss Esiatis Eugest. Miss H. Bolster and Mrs. Joseph P. Ball.

n Open-are meeting at Longsture and an atreets, Frankford, Speakers, Miss Knapp and Mrs. Margaret Guifford. SOCIALIST PARTY.

Open-air meeting at the Ivin Biscutt many, Peirmount avenue west of Boast 2. Possiters, Mice Margaret Buland and 2. Rantz Possitum. COUNTY OF PHILADELPHY OF DEBARS BRANCH WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

A RATINE SPORTS SUIT OF NEW DESIGN

TWO OLD WOMEN'S HEARTS SWELL WITH PRIDE IN NEW ARCHBISHOP Tonight's Program on the City Hall

Above is Mrs. Annie Clinton, godmother to Archbishop Ken-nedy. Below is Mrs. Thomas Carroll, who was bridesmaid to Archbishop Kennedy's mother.

TWO women living in Conshohocken, of years, feel a personal interest in the elevation of the Right Rev. Thomas F. Kennedy, rector of the American College in Rome to the archbishopric. They are his aunt, Mrs. Annie Clinton, of 224 East 6th avenue, and Mrs. Thomas Carroll, of 5th avenue and Maple street. Mrs. Clinton takes great pride in being | every one's ears.

They Knew "Father Tom" and Loved Him as Baby in St. Matthew's Parish, Consho-

Poth these women were overjoyed when they heard that the Holy Father had conferred additional honor upon "Father Tom," as they affectionately know the distinguished prelate who has been in charge of the Papal College since 1901.

"Father Tom deserves any honor the Holy Father can give him," said Mrs. Clinton this morning. "As a boy he was a dutiful son and a Godfearing Christian, with a heart that went out to every one.
I remember one day when he was a nite of a boy that he cried when I was leaving the old home in Marble Hall be-cause his mother had given me nothing to take away with me. He was only to be appeased when it was promised that his father would send me some scrapple. which was being made at the time, after it had cooled. It is a great thing to feel that your godson has so risen that he is consulted by the Pope, and I know he is just as generous with others as he was with all his relatives. May he be created a Cardinal and if it pleases the Lord be-come the Holy Father before we all die." Mrs. Carroll cherishes an autographed photograph of his Grace, which was sent to her from Rome shortly after "Father Tom" became a Bishop. When the prelate visits his home he always looks in on the one who was his mother's bridesmaid and what they gossip about no one ever knows. Nor is it likely that the rector of the American College will ever tell. Such conversations are not for deagon, failing back weakly on the bed and drawing the faded pink border of the blanket around his shoulders. I sin't e'kl to it; I'm all of a sweat now an' shakin' iike a leaf jest from tryin' to git over to that ol' rockin' chair.'

THE DAILY STORY

The Resurrection of Ezra Tuttle

"Maybe if Uncle Ezra had modern treatment he would have rallied botter," ventured Miss Callum, testing a fresh iron. "Doctor Pratt is toe old-fogyish to suit me. Doctor Graham says-

Mrs. Tuttle's spoon fell against the side of the pan with a clatter.

"Why, Harriet Callum," she exclaimed, "I sh'd think you'd be ashamed to run down Doctor Fratt. I believe you think the sun couldn't rise if Jack Graham had any objection. He ain't been out of col-lege more'n two years an' don't giv' nothin' but sugar pellets an water for medicine, anyhow. The idea of com-parin' him to Doctor Pratt!"

"He has made cures where Doctor Pratt couldn't," returned Miss Callum com-posedly, "also, please recollect that I have studied astronomy-I can smell your porridge burning, Auntie."
The defender of Doctor Pratt stirred hastily, jerking disconnected sentences over her shoulder. "Tain't the doctor's fault your Uncle Exra won't try to walk-it's his own stubbornness. He's made up his mind he's goin' to die an' it'll take a moral earthquake to budge him. His father was the contra'ist critter the Lord ever An imperative knock prevented her niece's reply and Mrs. Tuttle involuntarily started forward; but the door opened of itself admitting a stout, red-faced, elderly of gorgeous pattern.

In one hand she carried a huge bird cage draped in white, in the other an old-fashioned value. She halted on the threshold, puffling stertoriously.

"Aunt Abigal Callum!" cried Mrs. Tut-le in a voice of dismay. The visitor nodded her head. "I don't wonder you're s'prised at seein' me, Mandy Tuttle," she wheesed hoarsely, "after my yowin' an' declarin' I'd never set foot in this house agin; an' I'm sure when I said it I never thought I'd live to see the day a doctor that was young enough to be my gran'son would show me my duty; but he did, an' I'm here to help nuss Ezra."

The old lady deposited the bird cage on the ironingboard

the ironingboard.

"Lord A-mighty!" groaned the deacon, lively alarm depicted on his wasted features, "I b'lieve she's comin'."

Mrs. Callum loomed in the doroway, the parrot cage in one hand and a bowl of porridge in the other. Placing the cage against the wall she advanced toward the hed.

bed.

"You ain't lookin' ex bad ex I cal'lated to find you, nephew," she commented wheexily. "Don't say nuthin', it's weak'ning for sick folks to talk. I'm going to help Harriet and Mandy nuss you. You drink this porridge now 'fore it gits cold; then Mandy'n I'll git you over to the rockin' chair-Harriet says the doctor wants you to set up—an' we'll make the hed nice an' fresh."

Deacon Eyra abared imposently at the Deacon Ezra glared impotently at the extended bowl.

"Don't be uppish." his great-aunt con-tinued reprovingly, "if I kin swoller that bog you robbed me of, you kin drink this, Esra."

"I sin't going to git up," the deacon shouted feebly after her retreating back, "an' I don't want none of your nussin', nuther!" He dopped over determinedly, face to the wall. face to the wall.

A prolonged, flendish chuckle from be

A prolonged, hendish chuckle from be-hind the footboard brought the deacon back to his surroundings with a jerk. "Wh-what's that?" he whispered to himself. "There ain't nobody in the room."

The chuckle was repeated, ending with a burst of shrill, unholy laughter.
"You're drunk, you're drunk; gimme a cracker!" he shrisked tauntingly.
Exasperation nerved the slok man's arm as he flung it forth, but the cane missed the green head by a good foot.
"I'll throw that parrot down stairs on top of Abigal Callum if I die a-doin' of it," panted the deacon, hitching painfully to the edge of the bed and then to his feet.

ly to the edge of the bed and then to his feet.

Iron srit, inherited from Puritan ancestry, alone forced his tremhly legs across the floor, but he reached the cage—and to his surprise a faint sense of exhitaration followed the affort.

"Mebbe I sin t goin' to die, after all," he thought with growing wonder. "I'm weak's a rat, but I don't feel so all gone like."

David swed the tall.

David syed the tall, gaunt, blanket draped figure bending over him, with Paria syed the tall, gaunt, blanket-draped figure bending over him, with frank distrust.

"I will fear no svil," he repeated, drawing a deep breath and releasing his hold on David's habitation, "an' I recken you needn't, nuther; I s'pose what the Hible says about the sparrers is true about you too, if you do swear. It looks terrible good out doors, though them cats need crading the wust way. I'm gon' to set down by the window an' look out a speil." A week later the resultracted deacon, sitting in drastinggows and slippers on the sun-bathed porch, shook hands with Dr. John Graham and out thort his words of congratulation with the abrupt assertion; "So 'twas you set Aunt Nabby on the mat."

he godmother of the prelate and feels hat her promise to see that the infant of 57 years ago walked in the ways of the Lerd has been amply fulfilled. Mrs. Carroll's joy is in the recollection that she was the bridesmaid for the parents of the Archbishop when they were married and that she carried his Grace to church when he was to be baptized. They take it that this favor is the be-ginning of additional honors and pray daily to St. Anthony that they will soon learn that a Red Hat has been bestowed upon the one who was reared in St. Matthew's parish, Conshohocken.

"'Taint no use, Mandy," gasped the proach at Miss Callum, smiling in the doorway, and then stood manfully to his guns.
"Yes, sir," he admitted. "Mrs. Tuttle was worrying herself sick because you improved so slowly, and—well, it didn't seem a case for medicine, exactly, so it occurred to me that if I could persuade occurred to me that if I could persuade Mrs. Callum to take a hand, perhaps—"

"I've been thinkin, since I heard of your connection with the case that you'd be bringin' in a bill," he went on, the smile broadening. "Doctors can't afford to work for nuthin', 'specially young ones that spect to sif married—same's you an' Mar-for nuturit, specially young ones that 'spect to git married—same's you an' Harriet—an' I dunno's I ought to pay it, seein' ez Doctor Pratt has a sort of first mortgage; but I tell you what I will do! "You git Aunt Nabby an' her Psalmsingin' parrot home agin afore Saturday night an' I'll give my niece a title-deed to that house an' harn o' mine opposite the that house an' barn o' mine opposite the Orthodox Church—the one I bought of Steve Myrick last fall—on the day she's Mrs. John Graham!"

Copyright, 1915.

MRS. WILSON HAS STANCH SUPPORT FOR SCHOOL POST Henry R. Edmunds Believes Her to

Be Amply Qualified.

Henry R. Edmunds, president of the Board of Education, announced today that he intended to vote for Dr. Lucy Langdon W. Wilson, head of the department of biology of the Philadelphia Normal School, for the principaliship of the new high school for girls to be opened in September at Broad street and Snyder avenue.

"I believe that Mrs. Wilson is an unusually capable woman," said Mr. Edmunds. "In fact, I doubt whether a man can be found in Philadelphia who is a greater scholar or more competent edmeational executive. There are several applicants for the positions and I anticipate an interesting contest."

Among the other educators who have been prominently mentioned in connection with the office are Dr. Theodore L. Mc-Dowell, district superintendent of ele-mentary schools; Prof. J. Linn Barnard, of the School of Pedasogy, and Prof. Jonathan Rorer, head of the department of mathematics of the William Penn High School. Doctor McDowell is expected to obtain enthusiastic superintent Penn Penn High obtain enthusiastic support from David H. Lane. Mr. Lane has on several occa-sions nominated him for other higher of-fices without success. Doctor McDowell is an expert on higher education

Sealed Songs Love touched my eyes and made them

The world grow strangely roseate:
And all the darkness of the years.
Their loncliness, their formless fears,
Were lost in light: life's long arrears
Of joy were paid in full by Fate.

Love touched my ears and made them hear hear

A hymn of hope, a low, sweet strain;

And all the uncompleted past,

The barren dreams, the doubts amassed,

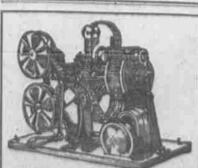

Were caught to harmony at last,

And courage calmed the pulse of pain.

Love touched my heart and made it stir To one strange call from out its sleep:
And life took up its lightened load
And marched a-singing down the road.
Till happiness and wonder flowed
In veins where grief was wont to creep.

Love touched my lips-and struck them

And all the glery in my sight,
And all the barmony that fell Upon my ears, and all the spell
That held my heart, I could not tell
To Her-my Lady of the Light —Merle W. Crowell, in the Southern Woman's Magazine.

THE PATHESCOPE Mation Picture Machine for the Ho SAFE—SIMPLE—INEXPENSIVE Motion Pictures

Shurches, Clubs, Schools, Libraries, re Courses, Lyceums, Momes, Faire with NON-INFLAMMABLE FILMS
WITH NON-INFLAMMABLE FILMS
NO FIRST MISS OF ANY MIND
COMPLETEL: SELE-CONTAINED
EASILY OFERATED BY ANYONE

PATHERCOPE CAMERA
Full particulars upon request.
Generalist payments. Pathescope Exchange of Philadelph PHILADELPHIA BAND CONCERT

Plaza. The program for the concert on City Hall Plana tonight by the Philadelphia Band is as follows: *

 Overture—"If I Were King" Adam
 Adam Village" Gillet Di "Polish Dance" Scharwenka Euphunium Solo— Katy Darling", Rollinso Mr. Charles A. Norato, Soloist.
 Grand Scenes from "Les Contes d'Hoffman, Offenbao. Ballet Muste to "Henry VIII". Sain-Saens
(a) The Gathering of the Clans.
(b) A Scottish Idyl,
(c) Dance of the Gipsy Girl.
(d) Jig and Finale.

Melodies from 'The Fink Lady' ... Carril Valse di Conceri, 'Espana' ... Waldterfei Fantissie on Scotch Melodies, 'Robert Bruce' ... Bonnisseau

MUSIC AT BELMONT MANSION Afternoon and Night Programs of Fairmount Park Band.

The programs for concerts this afternoon and tonight at Belmont Mansion by the Fairmount Park Band are as follows: PART L-AFTERNOON.

PART I.—AFTERNOON.

Overture—'Mill on the Child'. Reinsiger

(a) 'Elea Entering the Cathedral.'

(b) 'Con Loberture.'

(c) 'Con Loberture.'

(d) 'Tolish Dance No. 1. Scharwenka.

Reminiscences of the most Popular

Welfars of Sullivan.

Melodies from Marietta'. Horbert

(a) 'Melody in P. Rubinstein

(b) 'Cirlbirtoin'. Peanalogza.

Three Spanish Dances Mosskowski.

Value de Concert—'La Peris de Madrid.'

Lamotte.

'Bongs of the Day'. Lamotte.

PART II.—EXTENNOC. t, "Bongs of the Day"......

Overture—"Euryanthe" Weber
(a) "Intermeaso from Nalia" Delivas
(b) "Slavonic Dance No. 7" Deoreas
(Grand Scenes from "Die Nibelungen."
Wagner

4a la Creme" Tobani Fantasie—"Cremo de la Creme"... Tobani Descriptive Fantasie—The Cavairy Charge Inders Music from "Henry VIII"... Saint-Saens

Fantasie—"Cremo de la Creme". Tobani
Descriptive Fantasie—"The Cavairy Charge". Lauders
Music from "Henry VIII". Saint-Saens
(a) The Gathering of the Clans.
(b) A Scottish Idyl.
(c) Dance of the Gipsy Girl.
(d) Jig and Finale.
(a) The Star of India". Bratton
(b) "The Stars and Stripes Forever". SousaMelodies from "The Little Cafe". Caryli
"Star Spangled Banner."

Police Seek Stolen New Auto

The police of the Germantown station re searching today for thieves who tole an automobile belonging to Walter

WOMEN'S LIBERTY BELL STARTS ON STATE TOUR

Crowd of Suffragists at Sayre Give Touring Party Rousing Send Off.

SAYRE, June 23.—Cheered on its way by a huse and enthusiastic crowd, the Woman's Liberty Beil started from hera this morning on its State-wide tour. A long string of gally-decorated automobiles, filled with officers of the State suffrage association and leaders from all the neighboring counties trailed after the big motortruck bearing the beil, giving the people of this county a picturesque demonstration of the enthusiaem which is to mark the suffrage campaign in this State from now on. State from now on,

State from now on.

The ceremonies accompanying the start of the bell tour attracted one of the biggest crowds ever assembled here. In addition to the scores of suffragists who arrived from all parts of the State, every man, woman and child in town who could get away from home, office or shop duties hustled over to Howard Elmer Park to see the official presentation of the bell to the State suffragists by its donor, Mrs. Katherine Wentworth Ruschenberger, of Strafford, and the start of the bell party on their 500-mile tour.

Dr. George S. Carling, Mayor of Sayre, also spoke, extending the good wishes of the town people to the State suffraof the town people to the state suffra-gists, and expressing the hope that their bell would accomplish its mission so wait that it might peal forth its message of political emancipation to the women of political emancipation to the women of Pennsylvania on the night of November 2

Pennsylvania on the night of November 1.

In the party when it left here today were Mrs. Roessing, Miss Hannah J. Patterson, State chairman of the Woman Suffrage party; Mrs. Francis H. Hagerman, county chairman of Bradford; Mrs. John C. Mather, chairman of Ulster; Mrs. Robert K. Young, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. C. W. Ruschenberger, Mrs. Maxwell K. Chapman, chairman of Scranton; Mrs. F. W. Taylor, chairman of Scranton; Mrs. John Rockwell, chairman of Monroetown; Mrs. Simon Rendall, chairman of Towanda; Dr. F. J. Kingslay, Mayor of Towanda; Miss Helen Todd, one of California's suffrage leaders; stole an automobile belonging to Walter M. Schwartz, of Allen's lane and McCallum street, last night, as it stood in front of the residence of Harry S. Vallentine, 5133 Morris street. The car was a new Stutz runabout, valued at $2000.

The Blind Squirrel Gets a Name

he went over to the little fellow's home every day, and many a fine chat did they have. From the blind spirrel Reddy learned many things about the park which was now to be his home; and about the woodsy creatures which lived therein. And also (if the truth must be told) Reddy learned many lessons of kindness and patience from the good little fellow, though Reddy didn't realize it at the

One bright morning, after they had chatted a few minutes, Reddy said, "Why do we stay around in this one place all us to feast with tham, the time? Seems to me we ought to explore more of the park. Maybe we would find a part that we would like more than "I doubt that," replied the blind squirrel, "and, you see, I cannot go very far n safety. This part of the park I know yery well and I feel secure here. Maybe there would be danger elsewhere. But don't mind about me," he added, as he saw how disappointed Reddy looked; saw how disappointed Reddy looked;

"you go shead and explore all you want to. Then you can come back and tell me all about it—that will be a lot of fun."
"Do you think so?" asked Reddy, doubtfully. "I'd like it better if you went with me. Seems to me nobody can go anywhere with me this morning. Mrs. Reddy was busy at the nest; you think there is danger in exploring; I don't believe anybody loves me!"
"Oh dear you must't think there!"

"Oh, dear, you mustn't think that!" ex-claimed the little blind squirrel in dis-tress. "Flease, please don't think that! I'll go with you! Only, you see, with only one eye exploring isn't as much fun as you might think!" But the obliging little fellow started down from the tree to go with Reddy.

fellow started down from the tree to go with Reddy.

Then all of a sudden Reddy saw how selfish he was in wanting the blind squirrel to go with him. Of course, exploring wasn't much fun when one was half blind. Why hadn't he realized that himself "Indeed, you will not go with me," Reddy exclaimed, excitedly. "I wouldn't have you go with me—you might get hurt."

'Oh. I guess not," answered the blind squirrel, who, now that he was started.

on. I guess not, answered the blind squirrel, who, now that he was started, really wanted to explore a bit for a change, "I guess you can take care of me all right." And he came on down me all Fight." And he came on down the tree.

"Well." said Reddy, thoughtfully, "if you think you're not atraid—" Then a bright thought occurred to him. "I'll tell you what we can do. I'll ge ahead and see where is the best way to go, and you can follow me when you see it is AFTER Reddy Squirrel made the acsafe." The little blind squirrel thought that a fine plan, so off they started. They hadn't gone but a few steps till they heard voices, and so quickly they hardly had time to hide, three children ran out in front of the very bushes that hid the two squirrels. Though the squirrels, went years atill, the children said.

hid the two squirrels. Though the squirrels kept very still, the children spied their bright eyes and held out handsful of nuts and crackerjack.

"Had we better take it?" asked Reddy, for he was new to the park ways, you
see. "Is it safe?"

"Surely, they want us to feast with them." replied the blind squirrel, fearlessly, so out they went and ate all the children had. It was not long till the children spied the blind squirrel's lack of an eye.

an eye.

"Oh, look," cried the biggest boy, "this is a half-blind squirrel! Let's call him Cyclops, and come here every day to feed him." So that is the way the blind squirrel got his name.

Copyright-Clara Ingram Judson.

Little Hints on Style

One is really able to say this summer that clothes for women are delightful. They are full enough to be graceful, they are ruffly and frilly, the colors are exquisite and so are materials.

Particularly charming are the taffeta-coats in either white or pale shades, made in the most picturesque shapes, with ruffles of the same, or lace, or wreaths of flowers. In fact, you cannot have one too fancy, and they may be cut in any shape you please, the old Godey's Ladies' Books yielding up some fetching ones. Such combinations as pale blue with silver lace, rose taffets with a sealloped ruffle of the same beaded with a hand of chiffon roses, white taffets with black polka-dotted collar, cuffs and sash,

Nothing is more trim than the sailor suits as seen abroad, with short, full skirts and high Russian boots.

White collars and cuffs are so per-ishable for the children's dresses! Why not make them of a contrasting color in to think about choosing a school for your boy or girl. Don't wait until the last minute to decide a question that means so much to the future of your son or daughter. Get in touch with LEDGER CENTRAL at once and make use of the complete information on file at our Educational Bureau. We can tell you about any preparatory school in the East. There are many things we know outside of what the school catalogue tells you. Get the benefit of our personal investigation. This information is yours for the asking. Just call and talk it over.

Now Is the Time

EDUCATIONAL BUREAU

BROAD AND CHESTNUT STREETS PHILADELPHIA