TRAVERS DEFEATS MARSTON FOR THE LYNNEWOOD HALL GOLF CUP-OTHER SPORTS NEWS

JEROME TRAVERS WINS GOLD GOLF CUP TODAY AT NOBLE TOURNAMENT

By Defeating Maxwell R. Marston in Lynnewood Hall Match Gains Permanent Possession of Trophy 2 up and 1 to Play

NOBLE, Pa., June E.—The largest gallery that every winessed a golf match in this city saw Jerome D. Travers, the national open and four-time amateur champion, defeat Maxwell R. Marston, New Jersey amateur champion, in the final round for the Lynnewood Hall cup at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club today.

SECOND INNING.

Whitted popped aut to Doyle. Snod-grass made a great running catch of Killefer's fly. Doyle and Markie retired Chalmers. No runs, no hits, no errors. Hurns out, Byrne to Luderus relired Fletcher. Robert-son beat out a bunt. Merkle singled to deep right and Robertson tried to score from first, but was out at the plate on a fast relay. Cravath to Niehoff to Killefer. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Travers' margin was 2 up and 1 to play, although at one time he was no less than 5 up.

As Travers won the Lynnewood Hall cup, the gift of Mrs. George Widener, in 1908 and 1908, this makes his third leg. Hence it is now his personal property.

The match was really won in the first five holes, all of which were captured by Travers in four figures. Marston's putting was a bit uncertain and the best he could get on them was one over par.

He found his form in the sixth and won it with a "bird" three, and following halves in the 7th and 8th, in par, he won the 9th when Jerry's second went out of

A brillians 20-foot, down-hill putt for a two won the 10th hole for Marston and by reason of a better second shot he won the 11th, so Travers' lead was then but one up.

Marston holed another good putt on the 12th for a half in three, but after hitting a tree with his second to the 15th, he lost the hole and was 2 down. Although a hal fin putt four resulted in the 14th, Travers won the 15th by getting down from 10 feet for a "bird."

He was then dormie three, and Marston still fighting won the long 16th with a six to a seven. Travers driving into the Marston had a slim chance to win the 17th, but he needed to hole a 20-foot putt for a three, and when he missed by but a few inches the match went to Travers.

ond in threes. Travers gained the lead in the third and lost it in the fourth. A nice ligger shot and two putts gave Jerry a three on the fifth and the lead. A scream-ing drive and well-played iron followed by a perfect approach put Travers within a foot of the seventh hole, and he won it with a "bird" four. He was then three up, having won the sixth with a four to up, having won the sixth with a four to five. He got another four to another five on the eighth and was four up, but Doctor Nieffer reduced the lead to three at the turn, when Travers drove out of bounds. Even so, Jerry almost got a half, a 25-foot putt for a four, hitting the back of the cup and jumping out. Halves in three and four followed and after Travers had made a phenomenal shot out of a bunker off the 12th green he took three puts and lost the hole.

A perfect half in four resulted in the 18th, and when Jerry copped the next two holes in fours to fives he won the match. His four in the 18th was quite remarkable. His tee shot rested in the bank of the stream, below the level of the ground, yet he landed his second of the sreen and won the hole, Doctor Nieffer taking three putts. The cards:

The only other golfer who has won this event three times is H B. McFarland. He won in 1933, 1904 and 1935, while Travers secured his two legs in 1906 and 1908. In the semifinals of the second 16 Sidney Sharwood defeated H. H. Francin 2 and 1, and George Thomas defeated Walter Reynolds by the same margin. Old timers who watched the youth warm up paid the time worn tribute that has always been paid to Connie Mackhe knew something-meaning, in this par-ticular instance, Mister McGillicuddy. Crowell also knows something, apparently. He fanned Pipp in the start of the second inning, and when he came to the bat in the Mackmen's half of the same session, the fans gave him the grand old rally howl of greeting. Of course, when he gets clubbed all over the field, as he will, some day, like the best of them, the fans will reast him to a finish, but that is part of the game.

Just to show the rabid students of the dope how good Crowell looked, it may be mentioned that it took the Yankees five innings to get their first hit. Unfortunately a man had walked and he scored on the hit.

The outstanding feature of the first game was the coaching of Conway, who will be remembered as a big league third baseman of two days' experience, having broken into the game last Saturday. He kept up a running fire of encouragement, directed mainly at Crowell. But just to show he was not impartial he yelled, "That's the way, Stuffy, old boy," when McInnes, a young first baseman of some promise, made a nice catch.

Conway should make good, if the old pep counts for anything. He keeps talk-ing all the time, and his gestures are something absolutely new to a Mackman. If he keeps it up, and doesn't make any errors, and hits about .486, and tries hard, he'll make good, to speak conservatively. It seems unfair to tell of it when a young man is trying so hard to be a peppery major leaguer, but the front name of Mister Conway is Sylvester. In the sixth inning today Conway rar in for a bunt and got his man at first. Cree was just going in to second when he saw that third base was unprotected he saw that third base was unprotected and he kept on going. Sylvester ran back for McInnis' throw and fell down taking it, but he crawled up on all fours and tagged Cree on the wrist quite forcibly. Cree was naturally indignant and tried to make the Ump think he was safe, whereat Sylvester turned on him with a mocking laugh and shouted in Jawn McGraw tones, "Get out, get out." Cree, it may be noted, got. it may be noted, got.

The fans got all wound up in the gans when it went into the tenth inning. At that time the Yanks had secured but one hit, but they got two in that session mostly of the scratch variety. The pinch hitting brigade was called into the first line of trenches by General Mack in the tenth. Murphy, in Conway's place, could do nothing. Schang went in for Malons and fanned and New York had the old ball game 3 to 1. It was a hard game for Crowell to lose.
