HOWARD REPORTS FIGHT OF MEXICANS AND YAQUI

24 Soldiers Killed in Attack on Train—No Mention of Landing of Marines.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Twenty-four Mexican soldiers were killed in a battle with Yaqui Indians last Sunday, Admiral Howard today reported to the Navy Department from the cruiser Colorado at Guaymas.

The train was guarded by an escort of 80 soldiers. Eight of the Mexicans were wounded and 22 are missing. The Indian losses were not ascertained.

A military train was sent from Empress yesterday with 20 Mexican troops to bring to Guaymas a construction party numbering two Americans and 10 Mexicans, who were repairing a bridge over the Yaqui River near Corral, about 100 kilometers from Guaymas.

Admiral Howard made no mention of the American settlers in the Yaqui Valley or of any present plan to land American marines to go to their relief. He said telegraphic communication is interrupted beyond Torreon.

Mexican leaders had been warned today that foreigners' lives and property, especially in Mexico City, would be respected. The latest warnings followed news of threatened street fighting in the capital.

Consul Simpich, at Nogales, reported that two Americans arrived there from the Yaqui Valley. He gave them transportation to their former homes at Sacramento, Cal. Their stated destination was their homes and ranch buildings were burned by the Indians. They were brought out two years ago on the cruiser Colorado, but went back again.

The program for the class day ceremonies was long and interesting. The entertainment was opened by an overture from the student band, followed by the national play, "The American." SUFFRAGE "CAMPAIGN PICNIC" IN NORTHEAST

Women Carry Banner to Suburbs and Have Luncheon in the Open.

The coming of the warm days of summer is responsible for an innovation in the campaigning of the Woman Suffrage party. It is known as the "Campaign Picnic."

This morning bright and early an automobile decorated with suffrage banners and flags left the headquarters carrying a party of women through the outskirts of the city. The machine swept up Broad street, over Allegheny avenue, into Frankford; then on into Tacony, Holmesburg, Bustleton and Fox Chase.

But the best part of the journey was when, after a hard three-hour campaign, the auto was stopped at the side of the road on the outskirts of Tacony and the party, under the leadership of Mrs. George A. Pierson, dismounted and spread their picnic luncheon under a large tree in the midst of an open field.

"VERY MUCH ALIVE" IS MAURICE M. COHEN

Glad So to Inform His Friends Who Have Been Inquiring by Telephone.

"Very much alive" is the way Maurice M. Cohen, of 211 Christian street, describes himself to his friends today. Mr. Cohen has many friends. In fact, it is doubtful if he knew how many friends he has in the world until an M. Cohen was drowned while bathing in Riverton, N. J. last Sunday.

Maurice M. Cohen was spending the day peacefully with friends at Pilling Park and had no thought of taking a dip, least of all of drowning. He was happy time indeed, he said, but when returned to town his troubles began.

The stage of Lemberg hasn't much, perhaps, on the stage that Mr. Cohen had to face—Mr. Cohen meaning, of course, Maurice M. Cohen, who incidentally is president of the Sylvia Club.

Phone calls, doorbell rings, telegrams and more phone calls were a few of the things that Maurice M. Cohen had to face and incidentally—pay for as one always glad to see one's friends, but phone calls cost money, at least they cost Mr. Cohen money.
