German artillery is thundering along he several north Poland and Baltic province river fronts, the Niemen, Ormulew and Orzyc. On the last usmed river Russian attacks were remilsed, Petrograd admits.

The Germans on the south bank of the Dniester are pressing their violent indeavors to grip the fords and gain tenable foothold on the other shore reparatory to sweeping the foe from he province. This is acknowledged by the Petrograd War Office.

Russian resiliency is having another semarkable demonstration in southeast Talicia, where the Teuton attempt to cut off the Slav army operating on the ower Dniester and in upper Bukowina has been thwarted. Apparently the way lies open for this large force to follow the army that has been in retreat from Lemberg. Its strongly insed positions, strengthened by the tatural barrier of the Dniester, may also be held and the army continue as on obstacle to complete Germanic pos-ion of Galicia. Terrific fighting is taking place on the Meuse heights between the French and the Germans. Particularly serare are the encounters for the caplure of the Calonne trench, which the French now hold, but which the Germans had captured before by the use illiquid fire and asphyxiating bombs. The fighting in the sections north and with of Arras continues, with the French making heroic efforts to reach heir ultimate goal, Lille, an important fallroad junction and the centre of communications of the German right and centre.

America Misinformed as to German Attitude, Berliner Tageblatt Declares.

Exponent of Hollweg's Policies in Powerful Editorial Checks Reaction-Ammunition Problem Now Crux of Rejoinder to U.S.

By CARL W. ACKERMAN

BERLIN, June 26. A strong editorial in the Berliner Tageblatt, a powerful exponent of the German Chanceller's policies, was expected today to have a most important influence on the German-American situation.

The Tageblatt in the first comprehensive survey of the misunderstanding growing out of the sinking of the Lamitania, appealed to the people both of Germany and of America to view the situation sanely and not to be misled by "Jingoes."

The editorial, it was the opinion here today, will go a long way toward checking a reaction which is expected before the next German reply is sent to Wash-

"AMERICA MISINFORMED." "The newspapers of America and Germany should employ to the best advan-tage an exchange of notes clearing up the earlier misunderstanding which influenced the recent sentiment," said the Tageblatt "It is evident that America was badly misinformed about Germany's attitude, as Germany was about America's. Germany was about America's.

"It must not be overlooked that messages which have reached America that Germany was indifferent to the possibilities of war with the United States caused an extremely bad feeling there. Then statements were founded on silly and irri taling atterances which found no support whatever among fair-fufficing Germans. "The statement was even made that Germany was willing to draw America into the war. The German people and the German Government cannot too em-phatically assert their earnest desire to maintain relations of the utmost friendliness with the United States through all

United States against the American Government have been falsely alleged to have been inspired by the Imperial Government, Nothing is further from the German mind. The small representation of Germans in the American Government
