MRS. R. H. BARLOW WINS AND SETS NEW RECORD AT SHAWNEE COURSE

Playing Against Mrs. Stetson, Merion Woman Tops 8 Up and 7 to Play and Covers Links in 85—Out in 40, Home 45.

SHAWNEE—ON THE DELAWARE, Pa., June 25.—There was no denying Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow's prowess in the final round of the women's invitation golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. Playing against Mrs. C. Henry Stetson, of Huntingdon Valley, the first-named went out in an exceptional 40 and won by 8 up and 7 to play.

After Mrs. Barlow won the match she played out the bye holes, coming back in 45 so that her total of 85 becomes a new women's record for the links for the year.

Mrs. Barlow had a score similar to her effort today, but then the course was not so severely trapped.

Good length off the tee, clever iron shots and deadly putting tells the story. In fact, only once during the round did the erstwhile eastern champion take more than two putts on any green, and that one slip, coming as it did at the ninth, was especially regretted by the gallery, as it prevented Mrs. Barlow going out in 39.

Par to the turn is 37, but the Merion woman saved a stroke at the short eighth by bringing in a 5-foot putt for 3. When Mrs. Barlow took seven it looked as if her good card might be spoiled, but she came right back with a three at the home hole, chipping up a masher shot virtually dead.

Mrs. Stetson, usually fairly steady, was carried off her feet by the fast pace and her opponent and failed to play as well as usual. Mrs. Barlow's record card was as follows:

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Merion: Out, 40; In, 45; Total, 85. This makes the third year in succession that Mrs. Barlow has carried off the chief cup here.

In the final of the second eight, Mrs. Florian Krus, who belongs to both the Shawnee and Englewood Clubs, won after a fairly close match with Mrs. W. E. Hill, of Wilmington.

Miss Elsie Pickhardt, of Englewood, defeated Miss Irma Waterhouse, of Hacksensack, in the final of the third eight, the match being carried to the home green.

Practically all the women present are paired up with the men in mixed foursomes this afternoon. Handicap conditions prevail. In this event each member of a quartet drives and then it is left to the option of the partners which ball is selected to finish out the hole.

Quite a delegation of players are here from New York. Most of them are Baltimore members and they are known as the "five W's." There are about 30 in the party and they are playing for prizes all their own.

Today's summary follows:

TRAVERS HAS LEAD IN MORNING ROUND
Outplays Walter Reynolds in Sands' Tournament, 76 to 79. Travers Out in 38.

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 22.—Jerome Travers, open National and four times amateur champion of the United States, outplayed Walter Reynolds, of Woodbury, at every angle in the first half of their 18-hole final match for the H. A. Sands trophy staged on the Merion Cricket Club links this morning and held the lead by four up when the last 18 holes was started this afternoon.

Travers played fine golf today, but it was the remarkable consistency of his shots rather than their brilliancy that held the big gallery spellbound. Travers is in a class by himself when it comes to doing just enough better than the other players at every crisis to enable him to win important holes to defeat his many opponents.

Dame Fortune scarcely figured in this morning's contest; both were playing too steadily for luck to be much of a factor. Reynolds held an iron shot from the hole edge of the third green and won the hole, but that was about the only time that chance interfered. On virtually every hole it was a case of the best approach shot and the best putt winning.

It was like the multiplication table. Two strokes and the golf bug who were following the match chalked down either a half, which means a tie score for the particular hole in question, or a win for Travers.

It was not that Reynolds played poorly, but that he was up against a machine that refused to wobble or miss fire, and he could not keep up with the machine's pace.

Travers: Out, 40; In, 45; Total, 85. Reynolds: Out, 45; In, 40; Total, 85.

OLD CLEEK WON FIRST GOLF TITLE FOR VARDON; CLUBS IN GENERAL

British Champion Declares Player Should Follow Impulse, Likes and Dislikes of Implements—Won Big Match With Smallest Number of Clubs—Their Differences.

By HARRY VARDON
Golf Champion of Great Britain.

One of the stories of golf is that, in its chief characteristics, it is almost primitive. It has less of the element of artificiality than any other game.

The player is not confined to a field of prescribed dimensions; he goes over and on in any direction in which he may like. He may hit the ball where he wishes for some reason or other, and he is not bound by the rules of the game.

Of iron clubs, I had a cleek, two driving irons, a "mongrel" (which was a cross between a mid-iron and a jigger), and a masher, and a niblick. Two putters—my own particular fancy, which is called the "Brown-Vardon" for running up, and a putting cleek for hitting out—completed the outfit. And I never remember any occasion on which I had less than a full set of flying shots, such as one would ordinarily accomplish with a midiron.

George Duncan said that if he possessed a few more implements as he may deem necessary for his purpose, he would have a greater resource than were disclosed by mere numbers. When the driving iron seemed inappropriate I took the cleek and played an easy shot with it, and so on.

In point of fact, a smaller equipment would have been just as effective, for an already mentioned one of the brassies was not needed and one of the driving irons was only in my bag because it had been a favorite for some years.

I had started pulling with it and so another had to take its place. I took out the old favorite in order to give it another chance; its solitary effort in that championship resulted in a pull, and it was returned to the bag for the rest of the meeting.

HEAVINESS NOT ESSENTIAL
One of the circumstances on which people commented was the extreme lightness of my driver. That heaviness is not essential for the obtaining of distance.

Until about four years ago I always used light and whippy wooden clubs; they secured the best results when the stubborn gutta-percha ball had to be attacked and it took a lengthy experience of the rubber core to induce one to change one's early inclinations. In time, however, I became converted to a stiffer shaft; the necessity for knocking disappeared as the ball became more and more resilient, and so one could dispense with the whippiness, which involved the risk of loss of control.

Even so, I would not advise a heavy club; it is a pity that shafts so often have to be left thick in order that they may retain the right degree of stiffness. When you have a shaft that remains stiff after having been thinned down, it is a treasure. Do not part with it for anything, especially if it is for use with irons. You may never obtain another like it.

WINNING WITH SIX CLUBS
As to the ability of an interesting modest in numbers, I had an experimenting experience just before I left London. On my home green at Folkestone, near London, I accomplished within eight days a run of scores such as had never previously been made by me. The figures were 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

The brassie I wanted to try particularly in view of my visit to America, and it proved so practicable that for a time I felt like driving with it forever. If ever you happen to be a little off your driving I know of no better quick remedy than to try playing the tee shots with the brassie. Often it staves off a series of disastrous strokes.

I must confess that ordinarily I would not go into a championship with only six clubs, nor advise anybody else to do so; but no matter how many instruments you may possess, it is a good idea to make a choice in practice and not to take out for great a number for the competition itself.

JACK SETS PACE IN GOLF TOURNEY

Has Lead of 3 Up Over McBean in Bala Junior Championship Final First Half.

BALA, Pa., June 25.—Playing high-class golf, except for a bit of uncertain putting, M. Jack, of the Merion Cricket Club, led 3 up at the finish of the first 18 holes of the scheduled 36-hole final round for the junior championship of the Golf Association of Philadelphia at the Country Club, Bala, today.

Jack is the present title-holder, having won it at Merion last year, and his opponent today is J. P. MacBean, Jr., who in spite of the fact that he has taken up the game but recently, held his own very well after meeting up the first three holes. Jack won these with a 5, a 6 and a 4, and after a half in 4 on the fourth, won the fifth. Finally MacBean steadied down and won the sixth and seventh, and Jack led at the turn 2 up.

MacBean reduced the lead to one when he got down a 16 putt for a bird three on the 11th, Jack having previously gone down from the same distance, but Jack should have won the 14th in, for he was on the green in two while his opponent was in deep trap over the green in three. The junior champion failed to run his approach putt dead, and on his next laid MacBean a dead styler, the latter having made a corking good shot out of the trap, landing within two feet from the pin.

The styler proved his undoing, however, and Jack was 3 up again. They divided the next two holes, and Jack won the 18th. The cards:

Jack— Out, 40; In, 45; Total, 85. MacBean— Out, 45; In, 40; Total, 85.

Paul Cooper and Grant were having a pretty lay brush. They were abreast at the south end, Rees having just changed in a tie, was hitting it up at great speed. As he attempted to pass Cooper and Grant the latter unwittingly swerved outward. Only by jamming his steering wheel over hard did Rees manage to escape hitting Grant's car.

Rees's time for the 320 miles was 3:15.65, which gave him an average of 90 miles an hour.
