ENERGETIC BOY ROSE THROUGH GRIT FROM BOTTOM OF LADDER

J. Fred Zimmerman, Sr., Quit Sweeper's Job to Be Doorkeeper in Arch St. Theatre-Worked Hard and Never Complained.

Some years ago a rather industrious boy did odd jobs about a jewelry shop. He swept out the place, cleaned the windows, tended the fires, ran errands and helped with other work just to keep busy. For this he was rewarded each week with a dollar and a half.

But he was cheerful about it all, and laughed and whistled while he worked. He spent five years in the shop, and as simes were hard, salary increases were mw and far between. It was just about the time of the Civil War, and most peopla were glad they were living.

The youngster finally saw what he thought a better opportunity. It was a job as "pit" doorkeeper at the old Arch Street Theatre, then known as Wheatley Drew's. He took his sump dispo-sition with him and had a happy word for those who passed beyond the official portals. Nor did it take him long to get ac guainted with the actor tolk, and he always know what the bill for the coming week was. And any one who wanted to know anything in this connection always asked the little doorkeeper, who was a veritable bureau of information.

The boy soon found that courtesy and a willingness to oblige others made a winning combination. He little dreamed that he was opening a greater door all the ime-the door of opportunity, which ied to the path that enabled him to beat to the part that enabled him to be-come a power in the theathcal world. But it was so. The boy was J. Fred Einmorman, Sr. Mr. Wheatley was watching Freddle, and when he opened the Chastnut Street Theatre about 50 years ago, he made him "box bookkeeper," AEO, the the former term for treasurer. The job fitted young Zimmerman like a glove, and the new house was opened most suspiciously with Edwin Forrest, a great tragedian.

It was here that the former doorkeeper developed the characteristics which were to count in his eventful future. There were no fancy jobs in those days and everybody had to work. The youthful treasurer found himself doing many other things in connection with the business. Even then he talked to the point and mid "yes" and "no" quickly and deddedly. Some time later the energetic youth accepted a position at the Olympic Theatre, New York, and subsequently went on the mad for eight years with an operatic combination as treasurer and manager. is emerged from this experience with the same firm characteristics, and with E.F. Nixon, of this city, leased the Chest-nut Street Opera House. That was about 5 years ago. How they prospered is a matter of history Mr. Zimmerman made it a point to take a man at his word, and many of his im-portant contracts were made in verbal form only. The complicated phraseology of the somewhat weird theatrical con thats did not appeal to him in the least. He frequently asserted, "If I can't take a man's word I don't want his contract." A few years ago the former doorkeeper started to build some theatres on his own account, and now owns four exclusively in the northwestern section of the city. He has a handsome home on North Broad street and a beautiful estate near Glenside, which is known as Villa Vesta. His two sons, J. Fred, Jr., and Frank, followed in their father's footsteps,

PORTER AND LIQUOR MEN TO PLAN CABARET FIGHT

Safety Director Would Co-operate to Divorce Liquor and Music.

Director Porter has called a conference for next Monday or Tuesday thoroughly to thresh out the failure of the "uplift" movement started by the liquor men to He did a little more than he had to do eliminate cabareis, dancing and music and had initiative without knowing just from cafes and saloons. The several officials of the Liquor Dealers' Association have been asked to attend, and an effort will be made to place the question before the court, so a definite ruling can be obtained. Director Porter said he is sorry to hear that Neil Bonner is resigning as presi-dent of the national association, because of dissension in the ranks of the local liquor men and because brewery interests refused to aid the plans for eliminating conditions that the locar men decided conditions that the liquor men decided reflected upon the trade.

"Mr. Bonner and others started a move-ment that reflected great credit upon this city and the liquor men should be sus-tained by public opinion," said Director Porter. "Their movement to 'uplift' the business and eradicate objectionable features was a most worthy one and should not be permitted to fail.

"I have feared this turn in affairs all along. However, we must get together and map out some plan of action. First and map out some plan of action. First of all, the question of entertainments and dances must be taken before the propar courts and a ruling obtained. Given an opinion, I will follow it to the letter. By discussing this situation calmiy I feel we can decide on a plan of action, and when we have the proper material to place heroes the courts there is no question in before the courts there is no question in my mind that Judges Staake and Patter-son will willingly give us the benefit of their good counsel."

Nell Bonner denies that he has resigned as yet. An associate of his said that Bonner feels humiliated, because after the meeting of liquor dealers, at which it was decided to start the "uplift" campaign he went to Cincinnati. Chicago and Boston and told about it, and then came back and found the automatic pianos and other musical instruments still operating in the back rooms of Cook Says He Will Have Her Testify Against Husband. Both Sides Prepare Cases.

NEW YORK, June M.-Counsel for Harry K. Thaw today said they hoped to close the direct testimony in Thaw's san-ity test on Monday with the examination of five experts and perhaps one or two more lay witnesses. There being no ses-sion of court, the day was spent by both Thaw and the State in preparing for next week's work, which perhaps will end the hearing and see Stanford White's slayer a free man after nine years.

All other features of the Thaw case were overahadowed by Deputy Attorney General Frank Cook's announcement that the State would summon Evelyn Nesolt Thaw as a witness sgainst her husband. Mr Cook had said that he did not desire Mr Cook had said that he did not desire Thaw's actress wife as a witness and John B. Stanchfield, chief counsel for Thaw, said the same thing, but today, when it was learned that Mrs. Harry Thaw had canceled her theatrical en-gagements and had come hers secretly from Chicago, it was rumored she would be a witness. Process servers, it was said, were searching for her.

They included Canadian and New Hampshire business and professional men and three women who met him after his escape, in August, 1913, from Matteawan. All of them said Thaw was always courteous and gentlemanly in his conversation and deportment, a keen sportman as a second and gentlemanly in his conversation and deportment, a keen sportsman, an expert whist player, but a poor dancer. They saw him display no egoism and no fits of temper and to all of them he appeared normal man. To get in their expert testimony that Thaw is same, his lawyers on Monday will examine Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, of New Hampshire, one of the alienists of the Federal Sanity Commission that declared Thaw same: Dr. Percy Hickling, of Wash-ington, D. C.; Dr. Charles K. Mills, of the University of Pennsylvania; General Frank S. Stareeter, a member of the New Hampshire commission, and one other member of that body, who declared Thaw same sane. Thaw had 50 witnesses summoned. Some of them were unable to appear this week. One or two of them will be examined on Monday. Deputy Attorney General Becker, for The State, and Siegfried Hartman, for Thaw, on Monday will go to Cambridge, Mass., and take the testimony of Dr. Charles W. Ellot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, as to why Thaw was asked to leave the university.

The State's case, starting on Tuesday, probably will conclude by the last of the week.

WORKERS OF GERMANY THINKS HE'S ST. PATRICK DEMAND END OF WAR Everybody in Germantown Looks Like a Snake to Pat Thomas. forms New York Friends.

NEW YORK, June M-Organized labor In Germany is in favor of immediate peace. A message to this effect was received here today by the Central Federated Union of New York from Karl Legien, head of the German Federation of Trade Unions, an organization comprising a membership of $,000,000 German workers, and a Socialist member of the Reichstag. In his letter Herr Legien "Our fellow workers in the United States may be assured that the working classes in Germany are eagerly walting for peace, for the termination of this bloody struggle of nations. If this desire is not expressed daily in our papers and meetings, then it is due to the fact that we are in an extremely peculiar and delicate position. The majority of the organized workers in Great Britain and France maintain, according to what we learn from their own labor papers, that Germany must be mashed. I need not dwell here on the consequences need not dwell here on the consequences the realisation of such a desire would have for the future development of the international labor movement. All our efforts, made with a view to efforts, made with a view to coming to an understanding, have failed. The rep-resentatives of the German workers, on August 4, 1914, have stated as follows in the Reichstag: "That as the object of security has been achieved and the enemy is inclined toward peace, the war should be brought to an end by a peace which makes the friendship of the neighboring countries ossible.

"This same statement has been re eated in the Reichstag on December 2, 914, and on March 10, 1915, while a further manifesto in favor of peace has been published by the Social Democratic partles in Hungary on April 13, 1915."

Germantown was full of makes, at least so Pat Thomas thought. He saw them he happened to remember that his name June 13, by the Misses Mary and Miss that he was St. Patrick himself. Tearing most of his clothing off he determined to kill every screen in the community.

But his vision became clouded and he mistook every thin man he saw for a snake—so knocked him down and tramped on a human snake Pat uttered a wild yell.
Me soon had a trail of black eyes behind him.
A riot call was sent to the Branchtown police station, with the warning that that he was St. Patrick himself. Tear-a maniao was at large, killing people right and left. A patrol load of policemen soon got on Pat's trail, and even while they were chasing him he ran on the porch of Cornelius Leary, of 4454 North 18th street, and knocked him down.
