"THAW SANE WHEN HE KILLED WHITE," SAYS LUNACY EXPERT

Dr. C. P. Bancroft, of Federal Court's Commission That Studied Slaver in New Hampshire, Unshaken in Belief.

NEW YORK, June 29 .- "Thaw is not breane and never was meane. He was not insans the night he killed Stanford White, but was laboring under an over-Wille, but was laboring under an overindulgence in champaine. He thought he was justified in shooting White."

This statement, the sworn opinion of Dr.
Charles P. Bancroft, a Thaw witness, created a senantion today in the Supreme Court, where the slayer of Stanford White seeks a habeas corpus writ to release him from Matteawan Asylum.
Doctor Bancroft, superintendent of the New Hampshire Heepital for the Insane and a member of the Lunacy Commission appointed, by a Federal Court in 1813, which found the prisoner sane, remained unehaken in his declaration that Thaw is rational in every particular. He is the chief expert alienist aiding Thaw in the present sanity hearins.

"Thaw's expressed regret for his erime," said Doctor Bancroft, "is the chief evidence that he was not insane at the time." The expert swore that Thaw's act was that of a man actuated by a real report rather than by a delusion or Doctor Rancroft reiterated his dec-Doctor Bancroft reiterated his dec-laration that a paranoiac may submerge his mania for a period of several weeks and conceal it from a physician, but he refused to admit that such concealment could be carried on for months or years. Doctor Bancroft admitted that heredity plays a great part in any individual suf-fering from paranols, and the possibility of prenatal influence. Deputy Attorney General Cook brought this out to pave the way for his proposed effort to show that Mrs Mary G. Thaw's nervous state at Thaw's birth was responsible for his alleged paranolae tendencies.

Cook used almost every tactic known to court procedure, attempting to impeach the witness' professional knowledge of paranola in trying to shake the physi-

Or. D. Percy Hickling, an allenist, of Washington, D. C., a practicing physician for all years and an expert on mental diseases, was the next witness. He swore he believed Thaw sane and rational, and several examinations found no evidence of paranola. He said he was called upon to examine about 500 persons a year as to their sanity. Much of Cook's cross-examination had to do with perversion. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of Harry, who was not in court yesterday, was not expected to be there today. It was the first time in the nine years of the Thaw legal controversy that his mother was not with him, but the gray-haired woman had been warned that the State's cross-examination would be distanteful to her. During Cook's ques-tioning of Bancroft, many women spectators left the courtroom.

it was deemed probable that Thaw's di-rect case would be concluded today. He will probably offer some evidence in rebuttal. The State's case will consume probably a week

Thaw told reporters just before court convened that he had a "startling surprise" that would be sprung in his behalf soon. Just what it was he would not tell. He intimated that the evidence he referred to probably would be offered in rebutal of the State. in rebuttal of the State's case

SLATON SAYS FRANK'S COMMUTATION RIGHT

the end of all your ambitions and that the rest of your life?" "No, not" he replied. "If you read my statement, from which those words were supposedly quoted, you would understand that was not the case. What I said was that, even if my action meant that I would have to forego all hope of future political preferment, I nevertheless could not have done otherwise than obey the dictates of my conscience. That word 'If,' you see, makes all the difference in the world.

SILENT AS TO FRANK'S INNOCENCE "Did you commute the sentence of Frank because you believed he was in-nocent, or simply because you considered a reasonable doubt existed, and for that reason the man should not be hanged?" "I have never said whether or not I believe Frank innocent. I have not had to. Frank's attorneys asked simply that mmute his sentence from death to life ment. They did not ask me to

The fact is that the only pody legally "The fact is that the only cody legally authorized to hand down a decision as to Frank's guilt or innocence was the jury that tried him. They said he was guilty. But the law recognises two penalties for murder—life imprisonment and death. The Supreme Court of Georgia and the Supreme Court of the United States handed down adverse judgments on appeals, but not adverse judgments in the matter of Frank's innocence. They simply matter of Frank's innocence. They simply refused to sustain the arguments that he had not had a fair trial. The possibility that Frank may have been unjustly con-victed by the jury in a perfectly fair trial still remains."

"Why is it that in Georgia, where there is more prejudice against the Negro than in other parts of the country in a matter in which it was a question of Negro versus white man, the trend of opinion locally should have been against Frank?"

CIRCUMSTANCES AGAINST FRANK. "That is answered," Slaton replied, "by what is known as the bue and cry theory in legal nomenciature. Suspician first settled on Frank. Everything was against him circumstantially. It was a nasty crime—a child of 13 killed the way she was. And, naturally enough, resent-ment was tremendous against the perpetrator of it. The stage was so set that Frank looked absolutely guilty beyond a question of a doubt. There is no need of going into the getails of the case.

But the fact remains that Frank was apparently the only person who could have committed the crime for weeks. For instance, it was a long, long time before the public even realized that the Negro, Conley, could read or was capable of writing the notes that were a strong link in the chain of evidence against Frank. As far as I was concerned, it made no difference to me whether it was Negro or white man, or Lithuanian or Pole, or Armenian or American.

"It was the justice of the thing. There have been times when I have called out the militia to protect the life of a Negro I knew was guilty of the unspeakable crime, because I believe in law. But could not see how a man should be de could not see now a man should be de-prived of his life and sent to eternity on the testimony of a Negro who was a proved criminal and who had served numerous terms during three years in the penitentlary.

'Does the action of the mob against Frank indicate that the lynch spirit is not so much a matter of ruce hatred as a matter of temperament peculiar to the people of that section of the country?"
"Oh, no! No, no!" cried Slaton, "You have had the same spirit demonstrated many times in the North as well as the South. Zach. Walker was burned at Contraville. The better people of my State have no such ideas at all. The peo-ple who have caused the trouble in At-lanta have been the veriest soum of the community, the thugs and moraliess por-by the element that lives in the moun-tains, which always has and slways will shoot from behind a tree.

"The better people are back of me, whether they agree with me or not. Re-cently, when I appeared before the Legis-lature, some one in the gallery started to hies, and almost before it was heard it was drowned out by the cheers and It was drowned out by the cheers and clapping of approbation from the legisla-tors themselves."

MRS. SLATON TALKS.

"Are not you glad to be away and get a rest from the strain and worry of it all?" Mrs. Staton answered for her hus-

"Oh, it has not been so had as that. It has been hard to sleep the last few nights on account of the noise outside the house. The thought of a vacation is nice. But we would willingly go back."
But as the train clicked over the rails, making the passing miles, the relief on the faces of former Governor John M. Slayton and his wife was not, it seemed, altogether inspired by the prospect of a trip to the Pacific coast.

Chief Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States and the former Tovernor, discussed the Slayton action most of the way from Washington to
