

M. R. MUCKLE WEDS AFTER LONG COURTSHIP

Consulting Engineer Laughingly Admits Secret Marriage to Mrs. Anna Goddard.

M. Richards Muckle, Jr., consulting engineer for Philip H. Johnson, an architect, is a happy man these days. It is not meant to imply that Mr. Muckle has not been cheerful heretofore; but for the last few days his face has been beaming with unusual happiness, and his friends have wondered.

On that afternoon Mrs. Anna Goddard, who lives at the Newport, 18th and Spruce streets, and M. Richards Muckle, Jr., were married by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Bickerton, of 16th Street.

It was a simple wedding. "There were no cards, presents or wedding cake," as Mr. Muckle himself explained. The ceremony was performed in the clergyman's home.

Although this is Mr. Muckle's first venture in matrimony, the wedding did not surprise his relatives or friends at first; but that possibly may be explained by the fact that only three persons knew about it—meaning, of course, the bridegroom, the bride and Doctor Bickerton.

Even Mr. Muckle's brother, Colonel John S. Muckle, of 2022 Walnut street, did not hear of it until the next day. First came surprise and then congratulations.

Some of Mr. Muckle's friends, undoubtedly still are surprised. At all events, congratulations are still pouring in. Mr. and Mrs. Muckle are stopping at the Newport.

Mr. Muckle is the son of the late Colonel M. Richards Muckle, who died March 30 at the family residence, 1722 Pine street. Colonel Muckle was 90 years old. It was on account of his father's recent death that Mr. Muckle desired an extremely simple wedding, and every effort was made to veil it with secrecy.

"Well, we've been discovered at last," Mr. Muckle said, laughingly, when an Evening Ledger reporter called at his apartment today. Mrs. Muckle laughed also; both laughed happily.

"We certainly made every effort to keep it a secret," Mr. Muckle said, his face beaming. "It was like this. I have known Mrs. Muckle for nearly 15 years and I've known that I wanted to ask her to marry me for at least five of that 15. I have lived a bachelor's life for a good many years, in fact I'm middle-aged, you know, so one day last week—I won't say which day—I suggested to Mrs. Goddard that we slip away and get married. Well, we did, and that's the whole story."

In speaking of his profession, Mr. Muckle said: "Yes, I am an engineer. I like my profession and I am quite proud of it. Carpenter Smith, a former boss of mine, married only a short while ago. He is now living in Jamaica. I have been an engineer for quite a few years, but my best feat of engineering, I am sure, since I took my diploma, when I induced Mrs. Muckle to become my wife," Mr. Muckle chuckled.

"Mrs. Muckle has lived in Philadelphia nearly all her life," the happy bridegroom continued. "I think she even forgot the fact that she was born in Baltimore. Baltimore is quite famous for its beautiful women," the reporter ventured.

"And justly so," said Mr. Muckle, as he gazed fondly at his wife. At least Mr. Muckle's friends now know why he happens to be so happy.

KENSINGTON FAVORITE GETS FRIENDS' MONEY

"Jerry" Decamps on Eve of Wedding Day—Victims Liked His Suave Manner.

"Jerry," of Kensington, elegantly dressed and glib of tongue, is somewhere out of reach of a dozen irate Kensingtoners who formerly were his friends and who want their jewelry and money. A photograph of him, to which is affixed his full name—Richard R. Gerard—is being rushed all over the East today by the police, with instructions to arrest him on any alleged wholesale swindling.

Gerard was to have been married last Sunday to Miss Irene Detweiler, of 1329 North Camac street, the daughter of E. W. Detweiler, a contractor and builder. The wedding was notified at 11 o'clock last Saturday night that a warrant for his arrest had been issued and that he had disappeared.

"I'm glad it came now rather than after we were married," said Miss Detweiler today. "And if he is caught I hope he gets all the punishment the law allows for doing such things to his best friends. I do not know why he should do what he did, unless it was to get money for our home. We had picked out a home at Logan.

The wedding was to have been performed at Elkton, Md., not because there was any objection from our parents, but because Mr. Gerard's parents wanted a church wedding and we didn't. I was busy completing my plans Saturday night when I heard of his disappearance, and I certainly consider myself lucky."

Nearly everybody in Kensington knew and liked Gerard. According to some of the victims, nearly everybody paid for his liking. Among the chief victims are Abraham Goldstein, of 221 North Front street, who gave Jerry $500 worth of jewelry to sell for him; Isaac Appelbaum, of 349 Kensington avenue, who cashed a check for $500 that later was returned marked "no funds," and Philip Barimint, of 248 Kensington avenue, who cashed a check for $75, similarly returned.

Employees of the roundhouse at the Frankford Junction of the Pennsylvania Railroad say the man made $100 out of them on loans by charging exorbitant rates of interest. Three months ago he was arrested on this charge.

Gerard lived in Kensington for over seven years at the home of Henry 30c Grogan, 1827 East Dauphin street. He was always well dressed and he was such a "good talker," according to those who knew him, that he made hundreds of friends. Jerry always had money, and, therefore, he had little difficulty getting more whenever he needed it.

A fake grandmother story was used to "put over" the bad check, according to the victims. Gerard rushed up to Appelbaum and later to Barimint last Friday announcing that his grandmother had died suddenly in New York, that by her death he fell heir to about $10,000, but that he was temporarily short of change—and would they cash his check? They would, and did gladly.

THEY WILL WED TONIGHT Bernard D. Maltman and Miss Laura Robson.

OFFICER'S DAUGHTER TO WED Miss Laura Robson Becomes Bride of Bernard D. Maltman Tonight.

The wedding of Miss Laura Robson and Bernard D. Maltman, of Fort Mifflin, Pa., will be solemnized tonight at the bride's home, 221 Mifflin street. The maid of honor is Miss Robson will be her sister, Miss Katherine Robson. The best man for the groom will be William Lauer.

The wedding, which will take place at 7:30 o'clock, will be attended by the many friends of Miss Robson and her father, Harry Robson, who is a special officer at the Moyamensing avenue and Dickinson street police station. The bridal party will leave for Wildwood tomorrow where they will spend the honeymoon.

JITNEY LUNCH COUNTER FOR HURRY-UP "EATS"

Vehicle Now Being Constructed to Pursue Hunger-stricken Throng Through Streets.

Now it's the jitney lunch counter. What's that? Yes, siree. The jitney lunch counter. In other words, this fair city of ours, figuratively speaking, is going to have an opportunity in the near future of eating its terrapin, pate de foie gras, or should we say simply pork and beans, from a prearranging restaurant the address of which will vary from minute to minute as the driver, now here now there, pursues the appetite of the hungry populace.

The identity of the originator of the scheme is hidden deep in mystery. Up at the warehouse of H. Kaiser & Co., at 23d and Race streets, they have only just begun to work on the vehicular monstrosity that on its completion in a month or so promises to revolutionize the feeding problem in a most startling manner.

There is no feature, according to present plans, that will be overlooked to make the motor lunch house a dangerous rival of its more firmly established, mentally and terra firmly speaking, predecessors. Thus there will be great mirrors back of the counters that face the street on three sides. And the "one drawn in the dark; make it two," will be served by six or eight prettily gaily garbed attendants to latest dictates of restaurant fashion.

The advantages accruing from the plan are innumerable. For instance, think how simple it will be when detained at the office till after the dinner hour at home to dash away, have a clam cocktail here and a Caesars there, soup at 8th and Market streets, fish at the Postoffice Building and so on, swallowing a demitasse as you enter the station. You will have to walk in the way, you understand, for the jitney lunch is not to ride in but is rather the modern interpretation of the old-fashioned owl lunch wagon.

And think how simple the making of a milk-shake. An egg in a glass of milk, a sudden stop, the traffic cop holds up his hand at the corner, and the drink is mixed by the jolt better than it could be in an electric shaker.

What would happen should the motor feeder be upset no one is willing to predict. History has no record as yet of a restaurant turned upside down in the center of a car track.

95 TEACHERS ASSIGNED

Conference of Daily Vacation Bible School Association Closes.

Ninety-five teachers were assigned to Sunday schools this morning at the closing session of the conference of the Daily Vacation Bible School Association, which opened yesterday in the First Baptist Church, 17th and Sanson streets. About 30 men and women teachers attended the conference.

The Rev. Frederick W. Farr delivered the opening address this morning, which was followed by a talk by Mrs. John Thomas, director of the Bible department of the association. She outlined a number of suggestions on teaching methods, and also told how children could be best kept from the streets and won over to the Sunday school.

CLARK WEDDING GUESTS UNHURT IN TRAIN WRECK

Speaker's Wife in Wild Night Auto Ride to Scene.

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., June 30.—Mrs. Champ Clark, mother of Miss Genevieve Clark, who is to wed James McIlhenny Thompson, publisher of the New Orleans Item this afternoon, took a wild automobile ride at 2 o'clock this morning to Carryville, 100 miles from here, where the fast Chicago and Alton train from Kansas City was wrecked at midnight.

The train carried Mr. and Mrs. Joel Bennett and Great Bennett, of Kansas City, nephews of Mrs. Clark, and many other guests coming for the wedding. First reports of the wreck stated that several wedding guests had been killed.

Part of Mrs. Clark's ride was through wheat fields, over plowed ground and through wire and rail fences. Throughout the ride Mrs. Clark urged the driver to greater speed.

"I'm afraid the Bennetts have been hurt," she cried, over and over again. But all the guests had escaped injury, Mrs. Clark learned when she reached the scene of the wreck.

At noon today the weather for the outdoor wedding promised to be perfect. More than 600 persons were here for the ceremony and still more were expected during the early afternoon.

"Honey Bunches" the Pike County home of Speaker Champ Clark, with its hundreds of vivid hollyhocks, today is the center of Missouri.

Old-time Missouri dances figured in the informal pre-wedding party last night. There were Virginia reels and square dances, and a little Negro urchin, whose feet "jaw itched" at the squeaky fiddles, was dragged to the center of the floor, where he danced the pig-tail and flung his feet to "Turkey in the Straw." Leaving, he carried a hatful of coins.

Bowling Green is taking the wedding as a family affair and is entertaining the guests in simple, whole-hearted fashion. The only persons who are charged excessive charges for accommodations or food are those who patronize the stands of "carnival workers," set up over night on the streets.

Colonel George Harvey and Mrs. Harvey are among the distinguished guests who arrived late yesterday. Thompson, the man that is to take Bowling Green's little girl down to New Orleans, "wedded" her, arrived Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by Miss Gretchen Bigelow, Dr. and Mrs. Washington Grove and Miss Mary Thompson.

MIX-UP IN IDENTITIES

Youth Accused of Stealing Auto Said to Have Given Another's Name.

A mix-up in identities confronted the police today after two youths, who said they were Arthur Breithaupt, 20 years old, of Broad and Seymour streets, and John Rowbottom, 20 years old, of Lycoming street near York road, son of a wealthy hooley mill owner, were held in $500 bail by Magistrate Carson in Central Station today. They were arrested last night accused of attempting to steal an automobile at Broad and Arch streets. At the Breithaupt home it was said that the prisoners gave false names, that Arthur Breithaupt spent the evening at home, and that the name of the man who gave his name in the papers this morning. It is said that he went to City Hall this morning to look over the prisoners.

Both prisoners declared they mistook the car for that of a friend. They said they were graduates of the Northeast High School, that they had been to a dance, and that a friend had asked them to get his car which was standing on Arch street.

Abram Yost, 63 years old, of 4875 Merlon avenue, was found lying on the sidewalk at 57th and Market streets last night. When he was taken to the hospital it was learned that he had a wound on his head and two broken ribs. He said he was beaten and robbed by three Negroes, who stripped him of his clothing and left him unconscious in woods near Rosemont, on the Main line.

When he regained consciousness, he discovered that in place of his clothes there was a ragged suit and a dilapidated pair of shoes.

An argument which started over a dollar has already cost Abraham Wisenthal, of 712 North American street, more than $100. Wisenthal hired John Brienkole, a neighbor, of 711 North American street, to place the combined automobile and four kront factory of the former. The remuneration was fixed in advance at $2. When the job was completed Abraham offered John a dollar bill and the argument started.

Before Magistrate Penneck at the Germantown police station today, John explained what had followed. He said that he was kicked by Abraham. Magistrate Penneck held Abraham in $400 bail for court. Abraham left the station with his son, Abraham Jr., and daughter Julia. They set out in their automobile in quest of a friend. When they reached Chelten avenue, near Morton street, the front wheel of the machine broke and it rear into the street. They were taken to the Germantown Hospital, where it was found that Abraham was badly bruised, but the children were virtually unharmed.

The confession of Clarence Reynolds, 19 years old, 2323 South Watts street, that he stole an automobile and converted it into a jitney to make a living, today started an investigation by the police.

Reynolds, who was held in $200 bail by Magistrate Carson last night for further hearing, was arrested when he ran down Harry Huber, 54 years old, 124 Jackson street, at Broad and Arch streets, yesterday. Motorcycle Policemen Hannum and Frits identified the car as the property of W. H. Ryan, 229 South 6th street. It was stolen a week ago from Broad and Walnut streets.

J. HAM LEWIS BOOSTS GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH

Illinois Senator Calls Executive Excellent Presidential Timber.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who was chairman of the Democratic National Convention in 1912, has given Governor Brumbaugh a boost for the Presidency. In an interview here last night the Illinois Senator said that the next Republican candidate for President or Vice President should come from Pennsylvania.

"Governor Brumbaugh is a very bright possibility for the Republican candidacy for President or at least Vice President," he said. "The Republican party will have to give something to Pennsylvania to assure itself of the electoral vote. In the past this has always been a certain thing, but now there is some uncertainty as to its political position. There has, furthermore, been no nominee since the time of Buchanan from Pennsylvania."

"In the West and Middle West Brumbaugh is held in very high estimation, being regarded as a sane man and admired for his attitude on the liquor question."

Mitchell Palmer has not as yet given up his position as official dispenser of Federal patronage in Pennsylvania. He and Roland S. Morris, Democratic State chairman, went to Washington last night to arrange for the distribution of a number of postmaster-ships, including that at Pittsburgh, which are still to be handed out by the Palmer machine. The Democratic party men say that Palmer is arranging to hand out all of the patronage that is available before he assumes the place on the bench as Judge of the Court of Claims, or becomes Solicitor for the State Department, for which place he is being seriously considered by President Wilson.

RUNAWAY GIRL REPENTANT

Looses Cash, But Gains Wisdom on Impulsive Trip to New York.

Sixteen-year-old Genevieve Sidoseka, of 61 Yewall street, who took $12.50 from her mother's savings bank yesterday and ran away to New York in search of prosperity, is safe at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Isabella Bullett, in that city, penniless, but wiser.

Discouraged by her father's failure to get work and the consequent poverty, the girl determined to look for the wished-for prosperity in the great metropolis. When Miss Genevieve landed in New York 50 cents went grudgingly to a negro porter, 30 more to a "collector" of bench rentals in Central Park, and the remainder to a nice young man who offered to change the girl's money to "cripp, new bills."

HOMESICK LITTLE GIRL TELLS WHY SHE RAN AWAY

Longing for Playmates Caused Her to Leave New York for This City.

A tearful little blue-eyed girl stood before the Juvenile Court today and recited the details of her runaway adventure from New York to this city, when she became homesick for her former playmates. Thirteen-year-old Dorothy Farr, who lived at 373 Eyre street, told how she was sent to live with an aunt, Mrs. Johanna Eckhart, 589 East 23d street, New York city, when her mother died over a year ago.

"Auntie was good to me," she said, "but I got awful homesick for my playmates. They all wrote me letters telling me how good a time they were having, and I was so lonesome I didn't know what to do. This morning I just got desperate, and when auntie left for market I slipped on another dress, took some money and got on the train. I was so glad to get home until a big policeman stopped me."

The little runaway will be held in the House of Detention until the police hear from New York. Her father is an assistant foreman at the Walnut street wharf of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

POOR CHILDREN REVEL IN OUTDOOR DELIGHTS

Band of 450 Spends the Day at Willow Grove Park.

More green grass than is in all Franklin Square, more fresh air than is in all Independence Square and more cool shade than is in all Starr Garden belong to 450 poor children today.

Boys and girls, mothers and babies, left the headquarters of the Christian Volunteers, at 933 Vine street, in special trolley cars this morning at 9:30 for an all-day outing at Willow Grove Park. They are the poor children of the slums and the poor children of Kensington. The Boy Scout Band of Troop 1, under Bandmaster Anderson, was in the first car.

The ride alone was a treat to the hot weather sufferers. But more was in wait for them. Free milk for mothers and babies and more good things to eat than many of them had ever seen in a restaurant, bakery and store windows, were provided at the park. The program was filled with contests for boys and girls alike—a tug-of-war, potato race, three-legged race and sack race—for which prizes of candy were offered. And there was an unlimited supply of grass to roll on, over and over. Ice cream and cake were served under the trees. The return ride will be made in the cool of dusk.

The outing was in charge of Major General T. F. Rush, assisted by Colonel Harry Brammer, Major S. B. Seeley and Captains E. D. Hanson and Robert Thompson.
