Hard fighting between Russians retreating from the Dniester and the German army and command of General von Linsingen has resulted in tremendous losses for the Germans, according to the latest rejerts from Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief.

His report follows:

The fear that they will be enabled to withdraw part of their strength to re-sist the Allies on the Western front would seem to be groundless, for the pursuit by the Germans is such that, if relaxed, the Russians, reinforced, will again over-wheim Galicia.

All the Russian army is out of Galicia except in the extreme eastern part around Brody and Tarnopol. The line of the Guila Lipa has been abandoned and the Russians are withdrawing from the upper Bug River. This withdrawai has been conducted with wonderful strategy along a front of 250 miles without losing touch in any part, fighting a stubborn rear-guard action all the time and taking an enormous number of prisoners, which, accoordings number of prisoners, which, according to an Austrian estimate, amounts to 40,000 men, in the counter-attacks around Lemberg alone since June 23. Military experts here say this reflects the greater credit on the ability of the Grand Duke Nicholas and the other Russian commanders.

BERLIN, June 30. The army of General von Linsingen which has been so strongly opposed by the army of General Ivanoff along the Driester, has at last broken down the resistance. The Russians who attempted to defend a line along the Gniia Lipa were forced to retire, and it is believed they have withdrawn it miles east to the Ziota Lipa. There they are endeavoring they have withdrawn 14 miles east to the Ziota Lipa. There they are endeavoring to straighten their line and effect a junction with the Russian armies holding a little strip in Bukowina and the armies of the Grand Duke in the north. The War Office says fighting is continuing over every foot of ground with success rewarding their arms.

General von Mackensen has straightened out his lines today east of Lemberg. Beginning at Przemysiany, southeast of Lemberg, he ran his line almost due north to Kamionka, and is now threatening Busk and the Bug River.

AUSTRIANS PREPARE TO FALL BACK UPON BOTZEN IN THE TYROL

Council of War Held at Innsbruck Advised by Crown Prince Rupprecht to Abandon Trent to Italian Invaders.

ROME, June 30. Fresh plans for the resistance of the talian invasion of Austria have been nade at an Austrian war council, which was dominated by Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, one of the ablest generals in the German army, according to nformation received by the newspaper Idea Nazionale.

The council of war was held at Inns-bruck last Thursday and lasted all day. The chief question under discussion was how to stop the rush of the Italian army in Trent. While the decision is unknown, enough transpired to authorize the statement that the territory below Botzen will be abandoned by the Austrian defenders. The defense will begin immediately south of Botzen, where the second line defenses of the Austrians begin.

The rapid occupation of the peaks dom-inating the passes into Italy by the Ital-ian forces upset the original plans of the Austrian General Staff, for it had been be-lieved that the natural fortifications, so well equipped with heavy guns, would prove an insurmountable barrier to the invaders.

In addition to Crown Prince Ruppreoht, the council of war was attended by Crown Prince Charles Francis Joseph of Austria and many generals of the German and Austrian armies. When the meeting broke up Crown Prince Rupprecht left on a special train, which sped away toward the battle front in France, where the Bavarian Crown Prince is commanding the German troops that have so long withstood the siedge-hammer blows of ing the German troops that have so long withstood the sledge-hammer blows of the French around Arras.

The concentration of Austrian and Hunsarian treops above Toblach continues, many German trains being sent into Austria to help in the work.

NEW YORK, June 30 .- Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, at the Adirondack camp of her dancing partner, Jack Clifford, today was served with a subpoena to be a witness for the State in her husband's sanity trial before Justice Hendrick and a jury in the Supreme Court here. She will go to New York July 6 to testify, it is understood. Dr. Charles K. "Harry K. Thaw is genuinely sorry that he killed Stanford White, and he was sorry a moment after the abooting," declared Doctor Mills.

"A paranolac never expresses regret for his deed of violence, because he always believes his act justified."

Deputy Attorney General Becker cross-examined Doctor Mills with vigor. The alienist declared Thaw told him that he believed the State's attorneys and alienists tried to "railroad" him to Matteawan during the first murder trial in 1907. Becker attempted to draw from the alienist that Thaw believed a conspiracy existed between the authorities and the alienists to put him away, but Doctor Mills refused to let it go into the record with that wording, saying, "No, I didn't put it that way."

General Cadorna Contented to Hold Ground Gained While Forces Are Brought Up to Full Strength and Equipped.

Shepherd has scored another first-time story, the following dispatch being the first personal eyescitness story from the Italian front, Having been the first American correspondent to get to the Austrian front and the first American to be given the freedom of the British trenches, Shepherd has now succeeded in landing with the Italian army, where even the Italian journalists have been barred.).

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD

Copyright, 1915, by United Press. UDINE, Italy, June 30.—No really great sattle is possible along the Austro-Italian frontier for many weeks. Troops are pressing forward occupying positions of vantage; important preliminary fighting is occurring almost daily, but Italy is not yet ready to launch her great smash to win back Trentino and Trieste. The man who leads the Italian armies has the satisfaction of knowing that the men behind at Rome know what is going on at the front. King Victor Emmanuel is continuing his tour of the battle line; Premier Salandra is showing the greatest interest in the conduct of the campaign and other administrative heads are planning tries to the front heads are planning tries to the front heads are planning trips to the front. The Prime Minister passed through here Sunday in a private car en route to head-quarters. MEN FROM UNITED STATES.

The Italian army quartered here is composed of the biggest men physically I have seen in any army. Through many of the regiments are distributed Italians from America, cheery fellows, with a love of fighting. One of them waved his hand at me and yelled: "Oh, you kid."

Correspondents are absolutely barred from general headquarters. Officials told me. "You must get out of Udine or sub-mit to arrest. General Cadorna's secretary put it a little differently.

"If you stay here you run the risk of being shot," he said—then smilingly—"the Italian army won't be ready for corre-spondents for months."

There has been no delay in moving the Italian armies to the front. Mobilization went forward with clock-like precision. Italian troops marched over the frontier and selzed points of strategic importance within a fortnight after the declaration of war. But General Cadorna is determined that when the Italian offension.

of war. But General Cadorna is determined that when the Italian offensive starts rolling down upon Austria, everything shall be in readiness. Italy is not "going off half-cocked."

The Italian losses in the preliminary skirmishing have been very light. Everywhere along the frontier I saw magnificently furnished, but idle, Red Cross trains. The hospitals at Yenice, in Udine and elsewhere near the firing line are practically empty.

GUNNERS ACCURATE.

GUNNERS ACCURATE.

The Italian commanders are elated at the brilliant performances of their troops to date. The accuracy of the Italian gunnery in particular has occasioned surprise. At Monfalcone, for instance, large guns are hurling shells 12 miles over a mountain peak a mile high with wonderful effectiveness, crashing upon the Austrian forts, every shot counting.

General Luigi Cadorna, Commander-in-Chief of the Italian armies, is a master of details. Often he directs as many as 30 small battles simultaneously, moving armies like pawns across a chess board. And in the midst of all this maze of duties General Cadorna does not neglect his religious duties. He goes to Mass every Sunday.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

T IS instructive to learn from the U.S. Department of Agriculture that never before have brewers, malsters, distillers and wine-makers made so large a contribution to the agricultural prosperity of the nation as during the fiscal year 1913.

WHAT the liquor industry means to the Farmer can be appreciated, when it is shown that in 1913 grain and other farm products to the enormous value of $113,513,971 were used in the manufacture of liquors; and this was the actual amount received by grain growers, not counting the largely-increased value and profits reported in the markets of Chicago and other distributing grain centers.

THIS $113,513,971 worth of farm products, used in the production of distilled spirits and fermented liquors, consisted of barley to the value of $55,236,641, corn $30,924,335, wheat $889,938, rice $7,288,786, hops $11,155,215, rye $4,604,476, and other products of the farm to the value of $3,433,580.

ADDITIONAL information in this connection to enlighten citizens who have been misled by FALLACIES from a realization of the cost and consequence of a Prohibition law, are findings of FACTS that the average barrel of beer yields the farmer more than $1 of the selling price, or to be exact, $1.33—and that farm products used by the brewers and distillers in the last fiscal year provided a total payment for farm labor of $13,485,480, a sum sufficient for the employment of 74,919 persons for six months at the average wage of $30 a month each. ADDITIONAL information in this connection to

AND from these same figures we find that the manufacturers of distilled spirits and fermented liquors in Pennsylvania alone used farm products in 1913 to the value of $12,674,736.

THE American farmer is not wanting in resourcefulness, but is it not a FACT that it would cause him grave embarrassment and heavy financial loss for products that annually return him $113,813,871 cash for his labor if the FALLACY of Prohibition were to become a law?
