Too Soon Yet

Personally, and impersonally, our opin-tion on the subject is still vague. We have looked right along for a grand driv-ing finish into the September stretch, with White Sox, Red Sox and Tigers well bunched—and the club drawing the breaks carded to win. Having better pitching for a defensive foundation, the two Soxes have something on the Tigers—and hav-ing a fair edge now the White Sox have the advantage of a healthy start on the Red. But no one of these three clubs yet has shown any conclusive advantage over the other two.

Cornell's Return

Cornell's Return

Cornell was about due to resume her old place in front at Poughkespale. She had won 12 out of the 20 races rowed before this last, and at no time had three years ever passed without a Cornell victory. Syracuse won in 1912, Columbia in 1914—so Cornell was due again to sweep hack into line. And only a shade less deserving than Cornell was the Leland Stanford achievement. To come from the Pacific to the Atlantic, across a continent, and make a game, hard-fought hattle of it to the last paddle dip is a deed that deserves applause. deed that deserves applause, Motoring never faced a touring season like the present one. Never was it possi-ble to get such value for small outlay. Every element seems conspiring to bring down the cost of motoring in the year when conditions are making it the most popular of vacations.

Prices of automobiles are tumbling. Makers of cheap cars are presenting six-cylinder models to the public. Low-priced four-cylinder machines are having their prices cut almost to the vanishing point. Even manufacturers of the standard, high priced machines have felt the call of the times and are not only im-proving the character of their output, but are selling their cars at prices that would have been considered impossible a year son," says an official of the Empire Rub ber and Tire Company, Trenton, N. J. "Europe's war is keeping at home thousands who would have spent their vacasands who would have spent their valua-tion money on the other side of the Atlantic. Automobiles will play a big part in their home pleasuring plans. Cars, from little fellows up to the luxurious mammoth, are being sold as never before. The difficulty is not to make sales. It is to get cars for prompt delivery.

"Tire makers are helping touring by extending the automobile's radius of action. The touring car is always at the mercy of its tires. The finest engine is useless if tires won't hold their air. In the earlier stages of the industry the automobile outstripped the tire in dura-bility and reliability of performance.

Richard F. Reed, Philadelphia representative for the National, is enthusiastic over the 12-cylinder model brought out by the National factory for 1916. He says that the 12-cylinders operating on one crank shaft cause an overlapping of impulses, which results in an effect of steam.

Seven body types are included in the 1918 Hupmobile line, says George G. Browntee. They are: Seven-passenger touring; roadster, all-year touring, all-year coupe, five-passenger acdan and seven passenger imousine.
