

WHAT MOVIE FANS MAY EXPECT FROM "V-L-S-E"

Summing up the Coming Feature Production of Filmdom's New Organization.

By the Photoplay Editor

August 2 begins the second quarter of the V-L-S-E organization's existence, and announcement was made last week of the big feature planned for release during that period.

The District Attorney, Lubin's production of the play by Charles Klein and Harrison Gray Fiske, will start the quarter off.

A bunch of Keys, Esanay's contribution for August 16, is the film version of Charles Hoyt's successful stage comedy, June Keith and Johnny Slavin will be seen in the leading parts.

Thompson's "The House of Mystery" will be presented by the Selig Company on August 23, with Grace Darmond and Harry Metcalf presenting the principal characters.

Instead of the ordinary reversing lever there is a cable reversing mechanism operated with a hand wheel, which mechanism is so arranged that a mere operation of it is sufficient to tell the driver whether his valves are dry or sufficiently lubricated.

Each driving axle carries a weight of 700 pounds and the driving wheels are 30 inches in diameter. The total tractive effort equals 36,000 pounds and the factor of adhesion is only 1.99.

Four of these engines have been ordered from the Reading shops and will be tested by actual service before the orders are placed with the Philadelphia and Reading City and the Philadelphia and Reading City.

Dr. J. A. Holmes Succumbs to Tuberculosis in Denver.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the Bureau of Mines, died today in Denver.

Pat O'Malley With the Edison company.

which will be released the first month of the second quarter of the V-L-S-E program, the Vitagraph will offer "Mortmain."

390,800-POUND ENGINE NOW PULLING TRAINS TO READING

The new monster, known as Engine No. 110, was recently on exhibition at Atlantic City and is now undergoing tests in actual service.

READING'S BIG LOCOMOTIVE IN PASSENGER SERVICE

Drawing Fast Trains Between This City and Reading.

Back from Atlantic City, where it was on exhibition for the benefit of the railroad men's convention, "110," is pulling fast passenger trains between Philadelphia and Reading for the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

One of the most remarkable features of the engine is the axle arrangement. Another departure is that aluminum has been used to reduce the weight of the frame and allow every pound of extra weight possible to be put into the boiler, which carries 240 pounds pressure.

Instead of the ordinary reversing lever there is a cable reversing mechanism operated with a hand wheel, which mechanism is so arranged that a mere operation of it is sufficient to tell the driver whether his valves are dry or sufficiently lubricated.

Each driving axle carries a weight of 700 pounds and the driving wheels are 30 inches in diameter. The total tractive effort equals 36,000 pounds and the factor of adhesion is only 1.99.

Four of these engines have been ordered from the Reading shops and will be tested by actual service before the orders are placed with the Philadelphia and Reading City and the Philadelphia and Reading City.

Dr. J. A. Holmes Succumbs to Tuberculosis in Denver.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the Bureau of Mines, died today in Denver.

Pat O'Malley With the Edison company.

which will be released the first month of the second quarter of the V-L-S-E program, the Vitagraph will offer "Mortmain."

SEA SCOUTS TO CRUISE IN BARNEGAT BAY

Nautical Troop Will Spend Two Weeks on the New Jersey Coast.

The second troop of nautical Boy Scouts will leave Monday for Island Heights, N. J., for a two weeks' cruise in Barnegat Bay and surrounding waters.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

Scouts John Rudolph and James Kahn, of Troop 10, camped out overnight on Cobb's Island, where they fished and sheltered saplings, bark and grass.

The Daily Story

Her Father's Birthplace JEAN WINSLOW strolled leisurely through the little old village streets.

The quaint architecture, the odd, unexpected turns into narrow lanes and the entire primitive aspect were all new to her.

Yes! There it was, its big wings reaching over the brow of the hill and well shaded by giant fir trees.

"It was locked!" Jean looked at the door and then at the keyhole.

The door opened suddenly, after a great sound like an explosion.

A high man loomed up in the doorway. His face was smeared and his hair was that of a wild man.

When she regained consciousness, she found that she was lying on a wide, soft couch, the face bending over hers was that of a grimy man, not, in fact, anything that suggested a man.

"Where is that awful room and where am I now?" she said, "and it is as if I were in a dream."

"Who are you and where did you come from? You don't live in the village—that I know."

"I have heard of Jean Winslow." Jean looked at the man and then at the keyhole.

"Oh-h!" Jean cried after a moment, "your head! Did something hit you—before he could stop me?"

take place tomorrow afternoon from the undertaking parlors of Emanuel Asher & Son.

Interment will be at Chelton Hills Cemetery. Mr. Kind died at Atlantic City on Sunday following an illness of 10 days.

During the revival period, Doctor Dunn went from door to door and brought nearly 300 to the Bible class.

Doctor Dunn, who was 56 years old, became pastor of Tiooga Church in 1901. Through persevering work he increased the membership from 400 to more than 1000.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

OBITUARIES

Rev. C. E. Dunn, D. D. Arduous work during a recent revival developed a nervous breakdown which caused the death of the Rev. Dr. Charles Eugene Dunn, pastor of the Tiooga Presbyterian Church, yesterday at Spring Lake, N. J.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Police Court Chronicles

No one deplores the lack of chivalry in the world more than Pud Corrigan. What has become of the heroes of yesterday? he asked himself, and their deeds of daring.

It was the finding of a sword of ancient vintage which caused Pud's thoughts to wander thusly. The weapon, which looked as though it might have been carried by one of Nero's followers, was lying on the sidewalk at Hope and Huntington streets when Corrigan happened along.

And he was just in the mood for such things, for the spirit of heroism was strong in him. He picked up the sword and sheathed it in his belt.

Several corner loungers who expressed their opinion of his military stride, felt the side of his sword with force and the sidewalk was soon strewn with critics.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

Police Court Chronicles

No one deplores the lack of chivalry in the world more than Pud Corrigan. What has become of the heroes of yesterday? he asked himself, and their deeds of daring.

It was the finding of a sword of ancient vintage which caused Pud's thoughts to wander thusly. The weapon, which looked as though it might have been carried by one of Nero's followers, was lying on the sidewalk at Hope and Huntington streets when Corrigan happened along.

And he was just in the mood for such things, for the spirit of heroism was strong in him. He picked up the sword and sheathed it in his belt.

Several corner loungers who expressed their opinion of his military stride, felt the side of his sword with force and the sidewalk was soon strewn with critics.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

Vaudeville

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Keith's The pacemaker of comedy sketches was unfitted at Keith's last night with the modest title of "Married." It is something new in the playlet world.

Deaths

BROWN (nee Bayler).—On July 11, 1915, VIOLA E. wife of Harry W. Brown, Bayler, Pa., died at her late residence, 345 West 23rd St., Philadelphia, Pa.

CLOSSON.—On July 11, 1915, A. YARDELL CLOSSON, aged 80 years, died at his late residence, the Fairfax, Robinsons Landing, Pa.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

Interment at West Lawn Cemetery.

FALSE WITNESS

By EDMUND B. D'AUVERGNE Author of "Her Husband's Widow," Etc.

The story of a man and a girl, and circumstances which were altered through the intervention of a kindly disposed fate.

desk—not the code books and Government plans, but only the designs for a new torpedo, which nobody but Arrol and Huron seemed to have known of, and which the brother of the woman he had wronged should never have escaped the rope if I had faced the music.

Sydney spoke hoarsely. He looked haggard and scared. His eyes roamed round the room. "Can I have a whisky, Eustace?" he asked feebly.

He brother went to a cupboard, produced a bottle of whisky and a glass and passed the glass over to Sydney, who drank half a glassful of the spirit "neat." He gulped. "That's better," he remarked approvingly.

The engineer resumed his seat and sat chewing the end of his cigar. "Well," he said at length, "it's a pretty miserable story. You leave Alvin in the lurch, he runs away with a British officer and ends by shooting himself in an optum paper, trades an old gun for a new one, and are now a suspected murderer."

"Nonsense, man! Your skewed to death!" Eustace shook his head impatiently. "The only evidence to connect you with the crime is those plans, which I can transfer from the safe to the fire in the most distant note of danger. And as to Mrs. Plessey being a spy, I don't credit that for a moment. Where is Arrol now?"

Police Court Chronicles

No one deplores the lack of chivalry in the world more than Pud Corrigan. What has become of the heroes of yesterday? he asked himself, and their deeds of daring.

It was the finding of a sword of ancient vintage which caused Pud's thoughts to wander thusly. The weapon, which looked as though it might have been carried by one of Nero's followers, was lying on the sidewalk at Hope and Huntington streets when Corrigan happened along.

And he was just in the mood for such things, for the spirit of heroism was strong in him. He picked up the sword and sheathed it in his belt.

Several corner loungers who expressed their opinion of his military stride, felt the side of his sword with force and the sidewalk was soon strewn with critics.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

And when the energetic awabushker turned to charge on some of the villagers the cop gave him the Tipperary trip and down he went.

KILLS ON THE SPOT

RATS, MICE ROACHES

DEVIL'S PASTE

PER WEEK

WALL TENTS

Razor Blades Re-sharpened