Official Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 19. For eastern Pennsylvania and New Jer-sey: Probably showers and somewhat lower temperature tonight: Tuesday fair and cooler; moderate variable winds.
A trough of low barometric pressure extends from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the extreme southwest this morning, with centres of depression over the Gulf of St. Lawrence, western New York and Ari-zona, respectively. Under its influence showers occurred in the lake region and central valleys, with copious amounts in Missouri and eastern Kanaas. A strong high pressure area is following the dis-turbance, attended by temperatures considerably below normal in the upper lake region and from thence westward to Mon-tana and Wyoming.

DU PONTS DENY ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP POWDER PLANT

Stamp as False a Story That Intruder Was Chased From Gibbstown.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 19.—After an investigation the Liu Pont Powder Company announced that the police department of the company, headed by R. R. M. Carpenter, had reported that there was nothing in a published story of an attempt to blow up the plant of the company at Gibbstown.

This story was to the effect that a watchman had discovered that the lock of the Y magazine located in a meadow about a mile distant from the main plant at Gibbstown had been broken, that the door was open and boxes of dynamic had been scattered over the floor, a number being broken open. It was asserted that the discovery by the watchman had evi-dently frightened the intruders, who had fied before completing what was declared to be an attempt to blow up the plant. It was further asserted that the watch-man and several companions had pursued a man whom they had seen lurking in the tall grass near the building, but that he had escaped in the darkness.

The police department of the Du Pont company in this city called on (Hobstown for an investigation of this alleged at-tempt to blow up the plant there and the Gibbstown officals dented that anything of the kind had happened.

"NUT-CRACKER" THREATENING RUSSIA BUELOW BALTIC SEA GULF DANZIG BIELDIE GEN. VON WARRAW BREST RIERHIEWICE KALISCH (5) GEN. VON MACKENSEN

HINDICATES FARTHEST ADVANCE OF RUSSIANS INTO GERMANY, shows how three great German armies, under Generals Buelow, Hindenburg and Mackensen, are closing in on Warsaw. It is reported that the Kaiser's forces number 3,000,000 men, who are making a supreme effort to crush the Russian armies before starting another drive on the French coast. Buelow is less than 50 miles from Riga, the great naval base whose capture would be a serious blow to Russia. Hindenburg's capture of Przasnysz has made Berlin confident that his entrance into Warsaw is only a matter of time. It is declared that this German drive is the greatest offensive move in history.

CHILD LABOR LAW HAS ITS FIRST ACTUAL TEST

months. William Ash, principal of the Trades school, is in charge of these Continuation

Classes for Teachers in this city. "The child labor law provides that every child between the ages of 14 and 16 years who has gone to work shall return to school for a certain number of lours each week to continue the interrupted education," said Mr. Ash. "The school is not a trade or vocational school, as is generally misunderstood, but aims to train teachers to correlate the school work with the industry in which the pupil is engaged," In the opinion of prominent educators, the child labor law ought to be one of the greatest factors in eliminating the social driftwood of the city. Young boys and girls who heretofore have left school at an early age to engage in work which because of their unfitness must of neces-sity prove unprofitable become eventually ore-jobless. more—jobless.

By the corelation of their daily occupation with their school studies these children will become more efficient citizens, it is believed. Moreover, if their education is enforced at this critical period when, according to pedagogical experts, nearly every school child is smitten with the desire to leave school and get out to work, it is thought the desire for a higher education will be stimulated any many girls and boys will be inspired with the wish for a college education.

"It has become a recognized fact, Mr. Ash said in discussing the law and the Ash said in discussing the law and the probable effect of its enforcement, "that the majority of children do not leave school because of economic necessity. They leave because they want spending money, or better clothes, or because school does not interest them.

"The working children who will some children who will some clothes."

school does not interest them.

"The working children wno will come to the classes in January will receive a different sort of instruction from that which they got when they attended the regular grades. Every child's curriculum will be adapted to that trade or occupation in which he is employed. The teachers in their course this summer will take trips to the various factories and place trips to the various factories and place. trips to the various factories and places of industry so as to get a background for the instruction which they will have to give.

to give,"

One of the most serious complications which the enforcement of the bill presents, according to Mr. Ash, will be the adjustment of the children to their classes, Many of them have been out of school for some time, and it is not thought probable that they will be put back into the regular grades which they back into the regular grades which they left. This will mean that other places of instruction will have to be provided, since the bill provides that the school which the child is required to attend must be within a reasonable distance of his place of employment.

Charles Schlow and Leonard A. Lettinger, graduates of the Philadelphia School of Pedagogy, who have taught in the grade and trade schools, have been selected to instruct the teachers in their four weeks' courses. They were chosen

WATCH FOR BOMBS IN COAL SHIPMENTS

Infernal Machine Found in Extra Precautions Here.

The finding of a bomb in a carload of coal intended for export at Trenton has caused extra vigilance to be exercised at the coal piers where vessels of the belligerents are loaded at this port. All employes have been instructed to watch the cal carefully as it runs down the shutes into the holds. In addition to this the masters of the steamships loading there have detailed several members of the crews of the vessels to keep a "weather eye" out for infernal machines in the coal.

Coal shipments through this port for belligerent countries are not heavy, although an unusual number of cargoes recently have been sent to Italy. The trouble in the Welsh coal fields, however, has boomed our coal trade with South America and is expected to increase the European business.
