season. CAPE MAY, July 20 .- The most thrilling excitement of the week at Cape May was caused Sunday when "Sam," the hokey-pokey man, who was walking along the beach, suddenly came upon his wife and child, the latter of whom he declared he had not seen for three months. His joy overcame him, and he grabbed at the youngster in the coach-the mother, too, grabbed, and between them the child's neck and legs were nearly torn from its body. The mother declared the man body. The mother declared the man would not support his child, and made frantic efforts to pull it away. A large crowd had gathered around them. A policeman arrived, however, and pro-ceeded to punch the fond father into order. He was then hustled off to the station house to continue his argument before fudge Heberthel before Judge Hebenthal.

Last week drew a large crowd to the shore-the boulevard drive was thronged with motors and the strand crowded with bathers anxious to take advantage of the splendid beach and refreshing waves. Mr. and Mrs. John Strubeing, of Chestnut Hill, motored to Cape May for the week-end.

The Marine Casino had an unusually large throng of dancers Saturday night. The excellent music provided by John-son's Orchestra played tunes which even the older society matrons could not resist.

How We Helped One Father to Find the Right School for His Son

A gentleman from Norfolk, Va., came to Philadelphia some two weeks ago, called at LEDGER CENTRAL and asked us for advice concerning the proper school for his son, who had been attending a private day school, but had not been doing satisfactory work. He was behind his class, and, to use a popular phrase, needed "jacking up." [After getting the facts in the case we suggested a boarding school of splendid reputation and put both parties in touch with one another. The headmaster of the school secured an appointment, journeyed from Harrisburg to Norfolk, and the parents of the boy were so impressed by his personality and what LEDGER CENTRAL had told them about the school that they registered him at once. IThe matter was settled with the minimum amount of trouble and expense. The mother wrote us a sincere letter of appreciation, which well repays for the service rendered. "You can obtain as good service for your boy or girl by getting in touch with the "School Man" at LEDGER CENTRAL. He has inspected the schools and studied them and he knows the strong and weak points of each. [Call if you
