Please Don't Tumble

"I have seen many signs, quaint and otherwise, in the mining districts of the West," says a Chicago engineer, "but it remained for a mining superintendent in Idaho to reach the climax of sign politeness.

'At the entrance to the mine over which he is the guiding spirit this man has caused the following to be posted: 'Please do not tumble down the shaft.' "—Exchange.

Deaf old gentleman (unconscious of his remarkable escape): "Dear me! I feel certain that maid's left the door open behind her again."

Her Dad—No, sir; I won't have any daughter tied for life to a stupid fool.

Her Suitor—Then hadn't you better let me take her off your hands?—Boston Transcript.

—AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

Easily Answered

A Chicago woman has been noted since girlhood for her ready wit.

The other day a young amateur humorist exclaimed in her presence:

"What could be more dreadful for a woman than, after mending her husband's coat, to find in one of the pockets a love letter from another woman?"

"Fortunately," she said, "that could never happen. The woman would find the letter first, and then she would not mend the coat."—Exchange.

"He's a self-made man, is he not?"

"Yes, except for the alterations made by his wife and her mother." — St. James Gazette.

WITH THE ENEMY

—London Opinion.

The Kaiser signing the death-warrant of certain English correspondents.

Double Trouble

"Mein Gott, it iss too much! Ain't it enough dot I fight for der Vaterland? Now der Emperor says we should marry before leaving for der front."—Life

Shows It

Knicker—Does your wife understand the use of history? Bocker—Well, she is constantly pointing out to me how she might have married Smith.—Judge.
