Only in the first set was McLoughlin at his best. This he captured after 12 games, most of which went to deuce. In the next three sets the Philadelphian un-covered such a variety of cheek that Mc covered such a variety of shots that Mc-Loughlin was bewildered. After the third set it was freely predicted that the Comet would not carry the match to five full sets.

in the way of the German forces advance ing toward Brest Litovak from the north-west. Its capture virtually splits the Russian line in half.

The Russian defenders were driver

East of Kovno the Germans have taken 450 more Russian prisoners and six ms chine guns.

The troops of Field Marshal von Mackensen have advanced through the sector of Koterka and also from the mouth of the Bug River to Pulwa. The Austro-German troops east of Vlodava are push-ing forward closer to the defense of Brest Litovak.

Austro-German troops have invested Brest-Litovsk from three sides. From the west bank of the river heavy guns are shelling the forttifications, and news of the fall of Brest-Litovsk is confidently awaited here. The capture of Novo Georgievsk has released 160,000 German soldiers who were sed in the operations against that stronghold. It is believed that part of these will be used to reinforce Field Marshal von Hindenburg's left wing on the Niemen River front and the remainder dispatched toward Brest-Litovsk.

The Russians are still in possession of Grodno and Ossowietz, but Berlin military experts predict their fall in the near future. Grodno is imperiled as a result of the fall of Kovno and Bielsk, while the advance of General von Gallwitz's army is taking his forces toward Ossowietz.

A dispatch from headquarters to the Tageblatt states that von Mackensen is now storming the southwestern front of Brest-Litavsk.

They are retreating as rapidly as possible, and delaying in every way the German advance, but it is feared that part of them may be cut off. When Grand Duke Nicholas escaped the Vistula trap set by the Teutonic Allies it was thought his armies would be safe on the Niemen-Bug front, but the fall of

That and the advisability of centering upon public Service Commis-sioner Thomas B. Smith is believed to have been the subject matter of the Pen-rose-Lane talk.
