Fine or Go to Prison

Accused of operating a jitney without a license, Edward Harvis, 1341 South 20th street, was given the choice of paying a $5 fine or spending five days in the county prison by Magistrate Emely in the Park and Lehigh avenues police station today. Special Policeman Mellon told Magiatrate Emely that he boarded the jitney at Broad and Cumberland streets and asked to be taken to the City Hall. Harvis, according to the policeman, charged him 25 cents, but failed to produce a license when questioned.

Harvis is said to be the first driver to be sentenced under the jitney ordinance. Magistrate Emely, in imposing the choice of fine or imprisonment, said that there was too much evasion of the law going on by certain drivers who have collotions on by certain drivers who have solicitors on the street, and that it is time a stop is put to the practice.

"There is nothing that people will not pay a man, nothing almost, that they will not forgive him, if he will only make them laugh. The eagerness with which the average man seeks the companionship of the man who has a reputation as a wit, who has a ready flow of humor and drollery, or is a good storyteller, is something almost pathetic, and would be astonishing if it were not so com-
