Are old tunes sweetest because distance lends enchantment to the music?

The President's Great Victory

NOTHING can be said of President Wilson's magnificent victory in his controversy with Germany which will add in the slightest degree to its effect on the people of this country.

By the privilege of democracy it found its detractors at the same time. Those who would have rushed to war, who spoke with ardent words of note writing, of national cowardice and of national betrayal have now to rejoice at the failure of their worst hopes.

He has accomplished this astounding thing without preaching or praying, without hypocrisy and without condescension.

Getting Ready for His New Life

THE removal of the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce from the Bourse to the new Widener Building is likely to be coincident with the beginning of a larger activity of the organization.

An Opportunity for the Alumni

THE election of a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania affords a splendid opportunity for the best sort of criticism on the part of the alumni.

Best Thing to Raise on City Farms

THE fourth annual Highberry fair is more interesting as an outdoor entertainment than as an agricultural exhibition.

Border Outbreaks in Texas

THE reported ravages of Mexican guerrillas across the border of the United States should not cause violent surprise.

No Politics in National Defense Today

NATIONAL defense can become a partisan issue only by the failure of one of the parties to perceive its importance.

Cut-throat Competition

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Sun informs the editor of that paper that a rooster has been discovered which cannot crow.

Fate is trying to conceal "Harmony" by naming it Smith.

What would Matthias Baldwin think of the "locomotives" that the works he founded are now making?

Thomas Most Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, is not the first man to be boomed for a governmentship by a lot of crooks.

Only the chief knew whether it was a redbird that got served hot with a cold bottle last night. It may have been a sparrow.

German merchants have offered to pay 15 cents a pound for 1,000,000 bushels of American cotton delivered in a German harbor.

It is the words that make life sweet and true? Or the true that, working as it were, does faithfully the task it has to do?

than advance the cause for which they are working. It is understood that the President favors a standing army of 300,000 men, and is considering the organization of some kind of a reserve force for a second line of defense.

Deceit, Infamy, Humiliation!

THE EVENING LEDGER published last Saturday a statement to the effect that Governor Brumbaugh and the Vares had perfected an alliance, the object of which was the elimination of Senator Penrose from control of the Republican State Organization, and that "Bill" Vares would run for Mayor.

The information came from reliable sources, close to the Executive Mansion in Harrisburg. It appears now that the Governor was hog-tied and delivered over a living sacrifice to his betrayers.

His innocence is no excuse for the foul innuendo and assistance. If the bait offered him was the Presidency, from that goal he has been removed so far that he will never even glimpse it.

A ruined reputation for the Governor, an insulted and humiliated city, and "harmony"! Truly there has been enough tragedy for one day, and men may hide their heads in shame.

Kentucky Democrats Perceive the Obvious

THE indorsement of President Wilson by the Democratic State Convention in Kentucky seems to have given the delegates a great deal of satisfaction.

The Colonel's Weak Spot

THE German Kriegerbund of North America must have thought that it was saying something nasty when it characterized Colonel Roosevelt as a "monumental egotist."

Preparing a Masterpiece

BUT another large part of his education was obtained in the university of books. His son writes, in the "Life of Henry George," of his boyhood days: "Though he had left school, his real education suffered no interruption."

HENRY GEORGE'S TWO UNIVERSITIES

One Was His Varied Experience in California; the Other, the University of Books—His Boyhood in Philadelphia

By ELLIS RANDALL

WITHOUT question "Progress and Poverty" is one of the world's great books. You don't have to ask a single-taxer about that. You don't have to believe in Henry George's economic philosophy, or a tenth part of it, or a hundredth part. It is the book of a downright thinker.

The author of "Progress and Poverty" was born in Philadelphia seventy-six years ago today. The anniversary will be celebrated by single-taxers of Philadelphia and other parts of the country.

Around the Horn

At the age of 14 Henry left school for good. The financial condition of the family had changed and Henry resolved to go to work. He obtained employment in a china and glass importing house on South Front street at $2 a week.

SETTING IDLE DOLLARS TO WORK

William A. Law, a Philadelphia Banker, Is Taking a Leading Part in Solving the Financial Problems Raised by the European War—A Bankers' Banker

By WILLIAM A. MCGARRY

A PHILADELPHIAN will play a large part in shaping the financial policies of the American Bankers' Association at the annual convention, which begins next Monday at Seattle.

which originated in England about five years ago. New York and other cities in the United States have also experimented with serving nourishing food in schools.

Each of the 25 schools, all of which are in the southern section of the city, will have a kitchen and a lunch counter where, for 3 or 4 cents, a wholesome and nourishing luncheon may be secured during the morning recess hour.
