SCHOOLBOY "HAZING" ENDS IN AUTO WRECK

Machine Ditched and 'Freshies' and Their Tormentors Thrown From Car

A hazing bee engineered by the upper clashsmen at the Lansdale (Pa.) High School last night ended seriously when the motor truck in which the hazers and their victims were crowded was ditched and wrecked on the Welsh road on the brink of the Wissahickon Creek. The truck belonged to Harvey Nace, a wealthy Lansdale contractor, and was taken without his permission by Stanford Nace, his son, a junior at the Lansdale High School.

Before the start the legs of the "fresh les" were painted green and they were tied together with ropes. It was intended to take them to Montgomeryville, about two miles from here. When they got to the Wissahickon bridge young Nace was blinded by the lights of a passing ma-chine and ditched the truck. An axle was broken and the "freshies" and their tormentors were thrown out. This ended hazing. An axle of the truck was broken and the frightened occupants of the machine fied.

Jacob Garner, a Lansdale textile manufacturer, heard of the hazing, and rushed to the scene in his big touring car. He rescued his son. Samuel, one of the "freshie" victims. Frank Boyer also came to the assistance of his son Warren, another of the victims. A telephone message to the Heebner garage here brought assistance, and a big hauling van was used to tow the broken truck, and the hazers and "freshies" who remained back to Lansdale.

MISS PUNCHEON NOT OUT FOR SCHOOL CHIEF

Principal of Girls' High School Makes Surprising Announcement on Eve of Meeting

Miss Katherine E. Puncheon, principal of the Girls' High School, announced today that she would not be a candidate for the superintendency of schools. The surprising announcement comes about a week before the monthly meeting of the Board of Education, when the board may choose a new head of the school system. Miss Puncheon had been generally considered as a candidate for the office and was indersed by prominent members of women's clubs. Suffragists, insisting that the superintendency was a woman's Job, boomed Miss Puncheon and Dr. Lucy L. W. Wilson, head of the department of biology of the Philadelphia Normal School and principal of the William Penn Evening High School for Girls. Miss Puncheon was in the public limelight several years ago when she waged a fight for the position that she now holds. She was successful in the contest in spite of the unwillingness of members of the School Board to recognize the right of women to hold executive offices.

"I have been away all summer." said Miss Puncheon, "and was surprised to learn through the newspapers that I was mentioned as a possible successor to the late Doctor Jacobs. While I am obliged to my friends for their kindness I have no intention of striving for the honor." Dr. John P. Garber is acting as Superintendent of Schools pending the selec-tion of a permanent appointee.

MOTHERS' PENSION MUDDLE SOLUTION

City Treasurer Acts to Break Deadlock Between County and Commonwealth

Sums of money due deserted wives, children and widows from the Mothers' Pension Fund, but which have been delayed since last May by a decision of Attorney General A. W. Powell, will be paid in the near future as a result of correspondence between the Auditor General and City Treasurer McCoach.

The act creating the fund provided that all counties in which the fund is operated must appropriate a sum of money for the purpose equal to that provided by the State. Early this year it was contended that all unexpended portions of the appropriations made in 1913 and 1914 for this purpose lapsed. A controversy followed which resulted in the withholding of the State funds in the month of May. These funds were also withheld in June, July and August, the pension fund during these months operating on half the money it was to receive under the provisions of the

The deadlock is finally broken by the letter sent by the City Treasurer to Deputy Auditor General Willock. It is as

In reply to Your communication of August 27, permit me to state that on December 13, 1913, the City Coun-cils of this city appropriated to the mothers' pension fund the sum of $80,000, and on November 27, 1914, a further appropriation was made of $3890.28, a total of $45,890.28 for the wo years, as provided for in the act expended the sum of $32,569.25, leaving a balance unexpended of $11,721.05, which amount, I take, has not lapsed to the general fund, and we are very willing to continue paying the several beneficiaries now on the list until our Councils can make an appropriation for this purpose, as provided for in the act of 1915, provided the State of Pennsylvania will make their pay-ments as if Philadelphia City Coun-cils had made the appropriation. This, I feel, is a very worthy cause and one to which we can conscientiously stretch a point to meet.
