CANOE ASSOCIATION HOLDS THREE-DAY CELEBRATION

Atlantic Division of American Canoe Association Encamped on the Wissahickon-Representatives From Four States-Marriages Announced

division of the American Canoe Association has been going on, and the Philadelphia Canoe Club made elaborate preparations for the celebration. There have been representatives from Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey encamped on the Wissahickon adjoining Colony Castle, the club house of the Philadelphia Club. Dr. David J. Boon is commodore of the entertaining club; Mr. Howard R. Lord, vice commodore; Mr. Joseph W. Blair, secretary; Mr. Bugene H. Hunter, treasurer; Mr. Earle F. Kerber, quartermaster, and Mr. Alfred H. Kress, fleet captain. The board of directors includes the officers and Messrs. Arthur F. Ehrlinger, Frederick J. Ehrlinger, Otto R. Stoeckie, Howard F. Fell and George F. Eisenhardt.

Tradition states that at the time of the Revolutionary War, Colony Castle, orig-inally a mill, was owned by the Smith family, who lived in what is now known as Riverside Mansion. During the tem-porary absence of the Smiths the Doane brothers, celebrated outlaws, who stole from the rich and gave to the poor, used from the rich and gave to the poor, used the mill for headquarters of their lawthe mill for headquarters of their law-less band. Later it became a nail mill. the water for running the mill came from a race, after having previously turned the wheel of a sawmill that fronted on Ridge avenue. From the nail mill the water was carried on its way to the creek. The castle after being unto the creek. The castle after being un-occupied for years was fitted up as the upriver home of "The State in Schuyl-kill." a society devoted to fishing, of which the late John Wagner (whose uncle, Professor Wagner, founded the Wagner Institute, at 17th street and Montgomery avenue), was president.

The building, which is included in Fatrmount Park, in time became the home of the Philadelphia Canos Club, which has added a number of improvements, and the old structure, with its roomy parlor and large, picturesque fireplace, is often used for dances and other social gather-ings, while the shaded veranda affords a pleasant and cool place for the friends and relatives of the members to view the river and watch the races.
