Germantown Boys' Club athletes swamped the other entrants in today's Middle Athantic Association track championships by piling up 85 points. Meadowbrook was second best

Ted Meredith, world's champion halfmiler and record-holder, competing for the Mesdowbrook Club, of this city, won both the quarter and half-mile races at the annual track and field championships of the Middle Atlantic Association, held on Houston Field, this afternoon.

Ted had alighted from a train which had borne him from an outdoor camp in Maine, just an hour before the race. His time for the half mile was 1:59 3-5, while he trotted to the wire in the quarter in 50 2-5 seconds.

In the half-mile race, which was run about half an hour before the quarter-mile. Ted was forced to go the limit by Frank Dorsey, of the Germantown Boys' Club, while Eddie Meehan, of Meadow-brook was third, with Hoffman, of the Northwest Boys' Club, fourth. Doc Steele, of Germantown, outgamed the second medal in the 440-yard run. Henry and O'Donnell, of the German-town Boys' Club, were third and fourth, respectively. Only two starters made the mile walk. Rutter, of Mercury A. C., won the event in 9 minutes 45 2-5 seconds. The event is new one in this city. Comerford, of Shanahan, had no trouble winning the shot-put with a heave of 42 feet 10% inches.

Metropolitan Rowing Club gained further honors in the regatta by capturing the junior quadruple sculls, winning by two lengths. It was a thrilling finish. Fifty yards from the judges' stand the Potomac crew, from Washington, was battling, stroke for stroke, with the New York boys. Then they faded.

FRANCE MAY RESUME HORSE RACING IN SPRING

Minister of Agriculture Will Consider the Proposition

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Resumption of horse-racing in France in the spring is being considered by the Ministry of Agricul-ture and by turf authorities, says the Petit Parisien. It is proposed to hold pri-vate meetings, with prizes provided from the ceserve fund of the racetrack asso-ciations, which, while far from amount-ing to the sums usually offered as purses for the classic events, would be sufficient to enable breeders to continue their efforts to improve their stock.

TEN EYCK NOT ASKED TO COACH QUAKERS

Duluth Man in City, but Will Not Appear Before Rowing Committee

In spite of the fact that James Ten Eyck, Jr., is in the city with the Duluth. Minn., Boat Club he will not be asked to accept the position of rowing coach for the University of Pennsylvania crews, to succeed Vivian Nickalls, who resigned to enter the English army. As previously announced in the Evening Lepons, the Quaker rowing coach will be selected by the College Boat Club in accordance with the terms of ite agreement with the University Athletic Association.

Pennsylvania's rowing authorities rep-resenting both the Rowing Committee and the College Boat Club expected to see young Ten Eyck pefore he leaves the city o learn whether or not he wiehed to be onsidered a candidate and under what conditions he would accept the position f it were tendered him.

But nothing further than this has been one toward the engagement of a coach. All that is now being done is to find how the various candidates feel. It is even denied that an offer was made to William Heines, of the Union Boat Club, of Boston, who has since signed with this club and Harvard for another term. He was saked like the others to consider was asked, like the others, to consider the proposition.

Within a short time there will be a meeting of the special committee ap-pointed by the College Boat Club to consider the rowing situation, and then the qualifications and attitude of the various men considered will be discussed, and the club is prepared, it will make

McLOUGHLIN DEFEATS PELL IN SEMIFINALS

Loughlin, increasing his speed as the match were on, drove out some brilliant placement shots in the third and fourth games. He placed both of these to his credit with the loss of only two points. Although not as steady as in the Davis Cup matches of a year ago, McLoughlin employed all his old-time dashing tacemployed all his old-time dashing tac-tics. The Californian was all over the court and handled Pell's choicest shots with apparent ease. Mac did not depend on any one particular style of play, but changed his tactics repeatedly, being just as deadly at the net as in deep court.

There was no stopping McLoughlin once he got started, and the Californian lost only one more game in the set. This was seventh, which Pell served and won on two outs and two fine placement shots to the corners. McLoughlin won the set by 6 to 2 McLoughlin put up his best tennis o the tournament in the second and Pell never had a look-in. The amashing tactics of the Californian appeared to throw Pell completely out of his game and the latter made errors on the easiest kind of chances. There was nothing to the set but McLoughlin, the ex-champion winning, in straight games, by 6 to 0, nd showed flashes of the placing ability that won him a place in the semifinals. The New York man was not consistent, however, and just when he appeared to have his opponent worried would lapse into the streaks of wildness that marred his play throughout.

McLoughlin, however, continued to show a high-class exhibition and pulled out the set without any great difficulty. The score was 7 to 5. Point summary of the match;

McLoughlin Pell Immediately the McLoughlin - Pell match was concluded, Williams and Johnston took the championship court for the other semifinal, and right from the out-set it was evident that a furiously fought match was on.

cific coast player was putting up some of the best tennis of his career, while the champion was very erratic. Instead of sticking entirely to the deep court game that has marked his matches to date, he was mixing up his deep court shots with easy lobs. For a time this change of tac-tics baffled Williams.

With the score 5 to 1 against him, Williams regained his wizard-like control over the ball and made a wonderful re-covery, pulling out the set by 7 to 5. The champion gave an exhibition of the same remarkable placing that won the title for him a year ago and his little opponent was completely outplayed.

Williams' judgment of distance was really uncanny. He dropped the ball just inside the corners with a frequency that made his rival look on in amazement Johnston was very steady and almost every point Williams made was carned. The Philadelphian, however, gamely stuck to his task, and when he finally pulled out the set received a remarkable ovation from the gallery. Point sum-

The next four games were di-vided, but the champion won the seventh and eighth games and evened up the score. It was at this point that Johnston showed his best tennis, and, by tearing off a succession of placement shots that rivaled the best ever made by Williams, the Californian won the set by 6 to 4 SECOND SET.
