EVENING LEDGER-PHILADELPHIA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1915;

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Company BOOK III.

CHAPTER V-(Continued). "CO YOU swore at Mittau!" "I perjured myself."

"Well, what are you doing now?" "Ere. I am a man in failing health. Be-re the end I have come to tell you the

"Do you think you can do it?" "Birs." said Hellenger. "Your King is Louis XVIII," I reminded him. "He is not my King." "Taken your pension away, has he?" "I no longer receive anything from that

"And your dauphin?"

"And your dauphin?" "He was left in Europe." "Look here, Bellinger! Why did you treat me so? Dauphin or no dauphin, what harm was I doing you?" "I thought a strong party was behind you. And I knew there had been double dealing with me. Tou represented some invisible power tricking me. "I was beside myself, and faced it out in Mitiau. I have been used shamefully, and thrown aside when I am failing. Heling out in the bills ruined my health." "Let us get to facts, if you have facts. Do you know anything about me, Bel-lenger" Do you kno lenger?" "Yes, sire,

"Yes. sire." "Who am I?" "Louis XVII of France." "What proof can you give me?" "What proof can you give me?" "Tirst, sire, permit a man who has been made a wretched tool to implore for-siveness of his rightful sovereign, and a little help to reach a warmer climate before the rigors of a northern winter been."

"Bellengor, you are entrancing." I said. "Why did I ever take you seriously? Ste Pelagie was a grim joke, and tipping in the river merely your playfulness. You had better take yourself off now. and kep on walking until you come to a warmer climate." Bellenger, you are entrancing." I said.

He wrung his hands with a gesture that touched my natural softness to my

"Talk, then. Talk, man. What have

"Talk, then. Talk, indu trust active you to say?" "This, first, sire. That was a splendid dash you made into France." "And what a splendid dash I made out of it again, with a gendarme at my coat tails, and you behind the gendarme!" "But it was the wrong time. If you were there now:--the French people are so changeable-" "I shall nover be there again. His an changeable-" "I shall never be there again. His Majesty the eighteenth Louis is welcome. What the blood stirs in me to know is, have I a right to the throne?" "Sirs, the truth as I know it, I will tell you. You were the boy taken from the Tompia suffer."

"Who did it?" the "Agents of the Royalist party whose names would mean nothing to you if I rave them. I was placed in your hands?"

"You were placed in my hands to be taken to America." "I was with you in London, where two Royalists who knew me recognized me?" "The two De Ferriers." "Did a woman named Madame Tank se me?"

lenger was startled.

"You were noticed on the ship by a court-lady of Holland; a very clever cour-tier. I had trouble in evading her. She suspected too much, and asked too many questions; and would have you to play with her baby on the deck, though at that time you noticed nothing." where does the idiot come into my story? Sire, you have been unfortunate, but "Sire, you have been unfortunate, but I have been a victim. When we landed in New York, I went directly and made myself known to the man who was to act as purveyor of your malesity's pen-sion. He astonished me by declaring that the dauphin was already there, and had daimed the pension for that year."

"The country and the language were own to me. The agent spoke French, It is true, but we hardly understood each sther. I supposed I had nothing to do but present my credentials. Here was another idiot-I crave your majesty's

"Quite right-at the time, Bellenger." -"drawing the annuity intended for the - drawing the annuity intended for the dauphin. I inquired into his rights. The sent showed me papers like my own. I akked who presented them. He knew he more of the man than he did of me. Bay when Pierre Grignon came here and

The "Broad Highway" is the title of a new serial story which will begin in the EVENING LEDGER on September 14, 1915. The story is unique. In England it has had an unusual vogue, not merely because it is a well-written story, but because it describes with a truly vivid power the deeds and manners of a picturesque period.

full of good things. Midst the mass, see that you do not over-look the great new serial, "THE BROAD HIGHWAY"

The story begins in the September 14th issue of the EVENING LED-

GER and will be continued

therein daily. September

14 is the EVENING LED-

GER'S first anniversary.

The issue of that day will be

By JEFFERY FARNOL

know nothing, but which our faith lay up the Fox River and away from the bay. But more than one stormy evening, CHAPTER VI. BUT the chief's and Skenedonk's nurs-ing and Indian remedies brought me face earthward again, reviving the sur-lay up the Fox River and away from the bay. But more than one stormy evening, when we came back to the bay for sup-plies, I plunged into the rolling water and the visible world, whether you are great and have your heart's desire or not. When we had laid the foundation of the Indian settlement, I built my house with the help of skilled men. It was a spacious one of hewn logs, chinked with cat-and-clay plaster, showing its "white the or the hill above the Fox. Before the river closed and winter shut in. Skenedonk and I went back to Green Bay. I did not know how to form my household, and had it in mind to consult Madame Ursule. Pawnees could be had, and many French landholdors in the ter-ritory owned black slaves. Pierre Grig-nonkey, among the stately Indians. The little negro carried my saddlebags to the guest room. Skenedonk was to sleep on the floor. Abundant prepara-tions for the evening meal were going forward in the kitchen. As I mounted the starway, at Madame Ursule's direction, I heard a tinkle of ching, her yery har. geon's hope. When blood and life mounted, and my torn side sewed up its gap in a healthy scar, adding another to my collection, autumn was upon us. From the hunting autumn was upon us. From the hunting lodges on Lake George, and the Wil-liamses, of Long Meadow, I went to the scorched capital of Washington. In the end the Government helped me with my Indian plan, though when Skenedonk and I pushed out toward lilinois Territory, we had only my pay and a grant of land. Peace was not formally made until De-cember, but the war ended that summer. The Onefdam were ready to follow cember, but the war ended that summer. The Oneidas were ready to follow whorever I led them. And so were many families of the Iroquois federation. But the Mohawk tribe held back. However, I felt confident of material for an Indian State when the foundation should be laid. We started lightly equipped upon the horse paths. The long journey by water and shore brought us in October to the head of Green Bay.

stairway, at Madame Ursule's direction. I heard a tinkle of china, her very best, which adorned racks and dressers. It was being set forth on the mahogany board.

and shore prought us in October to the head of Green Bay. Green Bay, or La Baye, as the fur hunters called it, was a little post almost like a New England village among its elms; one street and a few outlying houses beside the Fox River. The open world had been our tavern; or any sod or beard. The upper floor of Pierre Grignon's house was divided by a hall similar to the one below. I ran upstairs and halted. Standing with her back to the fading light, which came through one fan win-for at the hall and was a woman's figworld had been our tavern; or any sod or log hut cast up like a burrow of human prairie dogs or moles. We did not expect to find a tavern in Green Bay. Yet such a place was pointed out to us near the fur company's block warehouse. It had no signpost, and the only visible stable was a pen of logs. fight, which came through one fan win-dow at the hall end, was a woman's fig-ure in a gray dress. I gripped the rail. My first thought was: "How shall I tell her about Paul?" My next was: "What is the matter with her?" She rippled from head to foot in the blowr of ravitar needing to her and Nightfall was very clear and fair in this Northwestern territory. A man felt nearer to the sunset. The region took hold upon me: particularly when one who stretched her arms to me, crying: "Paul! Paul!" CHAPTER VII. was neither a warehouseman nor a Cana-dian fur hunter, huried in and took me by the hand. OH. MADAME!" I said, bewildered, and sick as from a stab. It was no comfort that the high lady who

"I am Pierre Grignon," he said. Indeed, if he had held his fiddle, and turned it upon an arm not quite so stout. scarcely allowed me to kiss her hand be-fore we parted, clung around my neck. She trembled against me. "Have you come back to your mother. I should have known without being told that he was the man who had played in the Saint-Michel cabin while Annabel de Paul? Chaumont climbed the chimney, Paul?" "Eagle!" I pleaded. "Don't you know me? You surely know Lazarre!" She kissed me, pulling my head down in her arms, the velvet mouth like a baby's, and looked straight into my eyes. We sat and ta'ked until the light faded. The landlord brought a candle, and yelled to the loft, where Skenedonk had already stretched himself in his blanket, as he "Madame, try to understand! I am Louis! If you forget Lazarre, try to re-member Louis!"

"Chambermaid, light up!" "Never mind," said Pierre Grignon. "I'm going to take these travelers home She heard with attention, and smiled. with me. The pressure of my arms spoke to her. A man's passion addressed itself to a little child. All other barriers which had

"Now I know how a tavern ought to be kept," said the landlord. "But what's the use of my keeping one if Pierre Grignon carries off all the guests?" "He's old friend to everybody that loved to do:

largest in Green Bay

inthe child. All other barriers which had stood between us were nothing to this. I held her, and she could never be mine. She was not ill in body; the contours of her upturned face were round and soft-ened with much smilling. But mind-sick-ness robbed me of her in the moment of finding her. "He's old friend to everybody that comes to Green Bay. I'll never get so much as a sign painted to hang in front of the Palace Tavern."

"She can't be insane!" I said aloud. "Oh, God, anything but that! She was not a woman that could be so wrecked." Like a fool I questioned, and tried to get some explanation. get some explanation. Eagle smoothed my arm, nested her

"Madame, fo you know who this is?" "Madeline Jordan." "It is the Marquise de Ferrier." "The Marquise de Ferrier?" 'Yes, madame.' "Did you know her?" "I have known her ever since I can re

"I never knew her to notice a strange

"The Marquise de Ferrier! But, M's'r

Williams, did she know you?" "She knows me," I asserted. "But no as myself. I am sure she knows me! But she confusese me with a child she lost! I cannot explain to you, madama, how positive I am that she recognizes me; any more than I can explain why she will call me Paul. I think I ought to tell you, so you will see the position in which I am placed, that this lady is the lady I nce hoped to marry." "Saints have pity, M's'r Williams!"

"I want to ask you some questions." "I want to ask you some questions." "Bring her down to the fire. Come, dear child," said Madame Ursule, coaxing Eagle. "Nobody is there. The bedrooms can never be so warm as the log fire; and this is a bitter evening.' The family room was unlighted by candles, as often happened. For such an illumination in the chimney must have quenched any paler glars. We had a few moments of brief privacy from the swarming life which constantly passed in and out. CONTINUED TOMORROW.

MRS, ELLEN PATTERSON LEFT $16,000 ESTATE TO DAUGHTER

George Stewart Patterson Named as Sole Executor

The will of Mrs. Ellen Stuart Patter-son, who died at her home, Prospect ave-nue and Graver's lane, Germantown, August 16, admitted to probate today, leaves an estate valued at $16,000 to Eleanor Cuyler Patterson, a daughter of the decedent. George Stuart Patterson, a son, is named as sole executor. In her will Mrs. Patterson expressed the wish that her daughter leave the ca-tate upon her death to her children and grandchildren as she sees fit.

grandchildren as she sees fit. The will of Edwin F. Hinkle, 20th street and Susquehamna avenue, who died in the Woman's Homeopathic Hospital August 24, disposes of $1500. After bequests of $100 each to his three daughters have been deducted he leaves the remainder of his estate to his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude H. Bilyeu, who cared for him during the declining years of his life.

declining years of his life. The will of Cart W. Gosevisch, 757 South 52d street, disposes of an estate consist-ing principally of his house at 757 South 52d street, which he leaves to his son Charles and his daughter Anna. Inventories filed of personal estates are as follows: Mary T. Thomas, $52,780; George M. Thompson, $5317.71; Rosela Q. Hold, $19,331.29; Richard Ashurst Beyer, $15,719.23, and David Buchanan, $2563.36.

PULLED THE WRONG 'STRINGS'

"Neil, of the 17th Ward," Couldn't Impress Magistrate

"Nell. of the 17th Ward," who holds the Philadelphia record for defying things, was sentenced to ten days in the county prison today by Magistrate Glenn, of the 4th and York streets police station. He defied the Magistrate, called on "Dave" Scott, "Dave" Martin and "Dave" Lans to save him, and carelessly tossed a weighty and mysterious document on the Magistrate's desk, but "pull" falled to save him. The youth, who is Nell Mahoney, 224 Oxford sireet, was arrested for creating a commotion on a 5th street trolley car early Tuesday morning, after he demanded that the car "back up" a square to let him off. His case was set for the next morning and he was released. He failed to appear, evidently having gone in search of the numerous wires he prom-sed to pull, so a warrant was issued. Magistrate Glenn was not impressed by

"That doesn's help you," he said. "You defied the transit company, the police and the court. Ten days."

MEDIA CHAUTAUQUA OPENS

Week of Lectures and Entertainments for Delaware County

I demanded to face the man. No such person could be found. I demanded to see the idiot. He was shut in a room and fed by a hired keeper. I sat down and thought much. Clearly it was not the agent's affair. He followed instructions also. Months would follow instructions also. Months would have been required to ask and receive explanations from the court of Monsieur. He had assumed the title of Louis XVIII, for the good of the royalist cause, as if there were he prince. I thought I saw what was expected of me."
"And what did you see, you unspeakable scoundrel?"
"Who was that ifdiot?"
"Who was that ifdiot?"
"And what did you do with me?"
"And what did you agent have a so the down have a future of have a measure to please the young the plane and the young have a future of the young the plane and the young have a future of the young have a future of the yo and fed by a hired keeper. I sat down and thought much. Clearly it was not

"And what did you do with me?" "A chief of the Iroquois Indians can tell you that."

"This is a clumsy story, Bellenger. Try legs.

Ŕas

28 0

mer

eria

ablic

NE

NE

RS. ----

£,

n

Ha-

NR- In pol.

ala-r. Sa rill-

C

"If you knew so little of the country, an did you find an Iroquois chief?" "I met him in the woods when he was bunting. I offered to give you to him. pretending you had the annuity from Europe. Sire, I do not know why trick-"Thet him in the woods when he was huming. I offered to give you to him, pretending you had the annuity from Europe. Sire, I do not know why trick-try was practiced on me, or who prac-ticed if; why such pains wore taken to mit the clues which led to the dauphin. But afterward the same agent had or-dens to give you two-thirds and me only the court was in straits-when both Rus-ta and Spain supported it! I was noting but a court painter. But when in went to France I blocked your way with all the ingenuity I could bring." "T would like to ask you, Bellenger, was a man is called who attempts the is of his King?" "The tricks of royalists pitted us

I asked if Madeleine Jordan was a relative. This cho ther.' This enough Bellenger. I don't be-was word you say, excepting that part nur story agreeing with Madame do "Oh, no," Madame Ursule replied; "but the family who brought her here, went back to Canada, and of course they left her with us." "Poor child!" she responded. "I think "Poor child!" she responded. "I think "Belged himself to everything except faw shillings, weeping because his me me all the harm he could; so his he ther do ther matters to think about, and directly plunged into them. First the Manominees and Winnehagoes must be assembled in council. They held all the assembled in council. They held all the assembled in council. They held all the That's enough ,Bellenger. I don't be-me a word you say, excepting that part if your story agreeing with Madame de Farler's. Fut yor hand under my pll-lw and find my wallet. Now help your-self, and never let me see you again." Is helped himself to everything except for abiliting weaping heause his faw shillings, weeping because his stasities were so great. But I told him increating wore so great. But I told him was used to being robbed, and he had done me all the harm he could; so his tim to buck me naturally followed. The third to appear at my tent door may chief Williams himself. The sur-tion told him outside the tent that it was a dangerous wound. He had little the for me, and I had indifferent hope myself, tying in torpor and finding it an effort I did speak. The chief sat beside me, concerned and tent.

ther," I said. a chief harkened near to my lips, all me," I begged, after reating b brought me to you." a dark sullen face became tender, was a Frenchman," he answered. "I hunting and met bim on the lake two boys. He offerod to give you a We bad just lost a son." Man I rested sgain, I asked: b you know anything else about Bay when Pierre Grignon came here and built for the whole United States!" The Grignon house, whether built for the whole United States or not, was the Eagle emotined my arm, nested de-hand in my neck. "My little boy! He has grown to be a man--while his mother has grown down to be a child! Do you know what I am now, Paul?" I choked a sob in my throat and told her I did not. "I am your Cloud-Mother. I live in a cloud. Do you love me while I am in the cloud?" I told her I loved her with all my strength, in the cloud or out of it. "Will you take care of me as I used shiver of rapture peculiar to her, and to take care of you?" I swore to the Almighty that she should be my future care.

"I need you so! I have watched for you in the woods and on the water, Paul: You have been long coming back to me."

I heard Madame Ursule mounting the I heard Madame Ursule mounting the stairs to see if my room was in order. Who could understand the relation in which Eagle and I now stood, and the claim she made upon me? She clung to my arm when I took it away. I led her by the hand." Even this sight caused Madame Ursule a shock at the head of the stairs.

Madame Ursule a shock at the head of the stairs. "M'a'r Williams!" My hostess paused and looked at us. "Did she come to you of her own acord? "Yes, madame."

The Chautauqua Association of Penn-sylvania started its work of lectures and entertainments at Media this after noon, with a program said to be the best it has offered in the four years of its existence.

A parade, which marched to the tent. opened the festivities. The superint dent of the association, Mrs. Ida B. Cob, was the first speaker.

Other entertainers were Springer, mas-ter magician; Chauncey J. Hawkins, lec-turer on the "Northern Woods"; Elmer Crawford Adams, violin wizard: Colan-gelo's Italian band and orchestra; Dr. Thomas E. Green, travel-lecturer; the Boston Oratorio Artists, and Robert Careis, chrono-photographer, who will take pictures of the events of the week, which will be shown on the acreen

Explosion in Chestnut Street A shattering crash, followed by the swift ascent of two large manhole cov-ers, at 18th and Chestnut streets, at 8 o'clock today, endangered pedestrians and gave them a fright they will remember. One manhole sailed 25 feet into the air. The other rose about 6 feet. It was at the southwest corner. Mounted Police-man Ellison shouted a warning when the explosion occurred and the crowds acattered. No one was hurt. Sower gas, ignited by a spark from electric wires. is believed to have caused the accident.

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Mars

Varsity Fifty Five

The stylish suit for young men

THIS is the newest note in young men's clothes; the most popular of all suit designs. Pay about $25; you'll get the utmost of satisfaction at that price.

> Insist on seeing our label; it's sewed in the coat. A small thing to look for, a big thing to find.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothing For Sale in Philadelphia at Strawbridge & Clothier's Exclusively WE ARE now showing the new "VARSITY FIFTY-FIVE" in a variety of fabrics, as well as all the other smart new models from this famous house. Suits from $18.00 to $40.00, Autumn Overcoats from $18.00 to $35.00.

"Manufacturing and Circulating a Magazine"

In the Auditorium of the Curtis Building, Sixth street above Walnut, Friday evening, September 10; Tuesday evening, September 14, and Friday evening, September 17,

at 8.15 o'clock sharp

These motion pictures, showing the interesting operations which take place in the production and distribution of the Curtis publications, are in six reels; each performance lasts two hours.

Admission by ticket only. Tickets may be procured with-out charge at Ledger Central, Broad and Chestnut streets, and the following branch offices:

Schneider's Pharmacy, 3017 Frankford avenue; Durbin's Pharmacy, Kensington avenue and Orleans street; Fenner's Pharmacy, N. W. corner Broad street and Columbia avenue; Shenk Bros., N. E. corner Broad and Ellsworth streets; Rumsey-Borell, N. E. corner 52d and Market streets.

Tickets to the capacity of the Auditorium only will be distributed. Guests are therefore asked to request only the number of tickets they are reasonably sure to use.

sometimes took hor stick and stepped through a measure to please the young people. Laughter and the joy of life filled the house every waking hour of the 24. Funerals were never horrible there. Instead, they seemed the mystic begin-ning of betteg things. "Poor Madahe Tank! She would have been so much more comfortable in her death if she had relieved her mind," Madame Uraule said, the first evening, as

Is pluck me naturally followed.
Third to appear at my tent door third to appear at my tent door third to appear at my tent door the summer of the memory of the summer of the summer