"JUDGE" VAN OSTEN HALE AND HEARTY ON 90TH BIRTHDAY

Time Has Dealt Gently With Veteran, Who Attends to Business With Strict Punctuality

MISSES HIS OLD FRIEND

William Van Oaten, or "Judge" as this ar nd old man is affectionately called by sons who remember this city when it was a good many decades younger than at present, is celebrating his 90th birthday today.

September 16 has long been looked upon by "old timers" of Philadelphia as a day to be looked forward to with pleasant been cast across the festivities which usually mark the return of the day, for Culonel M. Richards Muckle, life long friend to "Judge" Van Osten, and jokingis called the latter's twin because their birthdays occurred on the same day in 150% is no longer living to take part in the annual celebration.

"It won't be like old times." he said. without the Colonel. I knew him pretty near all my life, and he certainly was a grand old scout. We had been looking forward to our 90th birthday for a long time, and we were going to make something great of it, I tell you. And now Judge" Van Osten doesn't look to be wer 60 years old. He smokes and chews a sec (often doing both at the same (the) and has no objection to a sociable class of whisky. He is the owner of an ess, which has been in his possession the last 68 years.

I started keeping a public house," he wid, "when I was 21 years old, and I have kept one ever since, which is more than 68 years. This place I have hed koing for the last 62 years, which is a world's record, I believe.

"I joined the Good Will Engine Company, Race attest below Broad, in October, 18%, as a volunteer. I am still president of the association of surviving members of the old fire company, and am the old-est one of them."

Mr. Van Osten became an Odd Fellow n February of 1848, and was made a fason in April of 1855. He admits that was somewhat of a "sport" in his ounger days, but asserts that he never a lowed a gambling game of any kind to be played in his establishment, nor has a woman ever been allowed to obtain a drink there.

"Not that I am opposed to gambling," smiled, "but I didn't want it in my these."

The "Judge" continues a habit of 67 years' standing by driving in Fairmount Park every morning behind a spirited horse. He arises at 5:30 o'clock in the morning and attends to the family marketing before indulging in the daily outling. He explains that he is rather well mown in the racing world, because he as the "starter" for practically every arge race in this country for 40 years, a Mr. Van Oaten was a member of Councils for 14 years and served on the Firis for it years and served on the Fi-cias for it years and served on the Fi-hance Committee of that body for 10 years. Today he is spending in company with George W. Kendrick, former vice president of the Third National Bank, and a number of friends. This little group had celebrated the dual birthday of the "Judge" and Colonel Muckle for the

PLAN BIG TRANSFER OF STOCK OF AMERICAN ASSURANCE CO.

Certain Legal Obstructions, However, Must Be Removed

A controlling interest in the American Assurance Company, 13th and Spring Garden streets, will be sold to a Pennsylvania Insurence Company today, if certain legal obstructions attached to 77,000 shares of the stock now in possession of former Attorney General John C. Bell can be removed.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the company will be held today in the offices of Mr. Bell in the Land Title Bullding.

It is expected that A. J. Simpson, president of the company, who has been miss-ing since the $62,000 impairment of capital was discovered by Insurance inspectors several weeks ago, will tender his resig-nation through his attorney, John C. Sibble, and turn over the balance of the stock in his possession so that the sale may be completed. At a meeting early this week Mr. Sibble said he was ready to turn over the stock.

The negotiations are being closely watched by the State insurance inspecanticipation, but this year a shadow has tors, but it is said that unless some action is taken soon toward covering the impairment, criminal proceedings will be instituted.

SEGREGATION BRINGS PROTEST

Negro Children Assigned to Old School Building

Segregation of negro children in Morton, Delaware County, has aroused a storm of criticism, and a mass-meeting of protest against it will be held tonight. The chief objection is that the negroes who represent 40 per cent. of the school children in the district, are being as-signed to the old structure while the new $15,000 building for which they helped to pay is being reserved for white children J. Irving Benkert, one of the five members of the Board of Education, ways the segregation plan is an injustice to the negroes. He pointed out that negro citizens had to pay the 25-mill tax imposed to build the new school. In the old structure the negro children are under teachers of their own received. of their own race.

Girl Hurt, Climbing "Like Boy"

Showing her playmates how she could "climb like a boy" resulted in two acci-dents for 6-year-old Margaret McVeigh, 1540 North 23d street, who is in a serious condition today. She climbed to the top of an awning pole at 23d and Redmond streets late yesterday, but slipped and fell in front of a wagon driven by Joseph Debau, 2543 Gordon street. Her head was severely bruised. Debau was held in $400 bail today for further hearing Sep-tember 24 by Magistrate Morris, of the 28th and Oxford streets station.

Funeral of Captain Johiel Corliss

ELECTRICAL MEN TO FROLIC

Mardi Gras Will Give Chance for Fun and Nonsense at Hilarious Outing

Volts, watts and other symbols of the electrical vocabulary will be forgotten tomorrow afternoon when about 7500 electrical men of this city and their friends gather on the grounds of the Philadelphia Electric Company's Athletic villa interment at Southampton. Pa. phia Electric Company's Athletic Club, Kelly's lane and the West Chester pike. for the annual mardi gras.

The committee in charge of the affair is composed of about 50 men identified with all of the large electrical concerns of the city. Gilbert Smith, of J. S. Buchanan & Co., is chairman. W. W. Cloud, of the Philadelphia Electric Company, who is indicated and the company of the Company. chairman of the Grounds Committee, has completed the decorations and made ar rangements to receive the guests.

During the afternoon nonsense and fun will hold sway among the crowds of costumed merrymakers; burlesque "cops" will maintain confusion and prevent similitude of order, clowns will eavort to their hearts' content, while mummers may in-dule in confetti throwing unhampered by police regulations, provided they maintain a strict neutrality.

The mardi gras will be conducted by the electrical firms for their employes, but a welcome will be extended as well to those who have never head a dyna-mo buzz or an ampere sizz.

A number of prizes wil be awarded for costumes, clog and folk dancing and for the athletic events. One of the features of the program is a baseball game between a team composed of men and an-other composed of women.
