BULGARIA UPON VERGE OF WAR WITH RUMANIA

King Ferdinand's Departure for Maneuver Camp Believed to Foreshadow Break

> LONDON, Sept. 14. Skilled diplomats see war clouds growing large in the Balkans. The signs all point, they assert, to war between Bulgaria and Rumania. It is apparent from carefully worded dispatches coming from Sofia and Bucharest that great events are developing at each capital. A Bucharest dispatch of considerable length, received here today, carried a report that King Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, had cone to the "maneuver camp" of his army. The remainder of the dispatch was valueless, and apparently had been sent as a foil for the important news that King Ferdinand had left his capital.

Heavy reinforcements for the British nd French are being landed on Gallipoli Peninsula. The disembarkation of the new expedition to the Dardanelles was preceded by a terrilic bombardment directed by the Allies' warships upon the Turkish batteries on both the Asiatic and Euro-pean sides. Many of the batteries were completely silenced, and others have been able to reply at intervals.

Unconfirmed reports of a clash between Rulgarian and Rumanian border patrols, in which 10 men were killed and a dozen injured, reached Athens today. The advices intimate that the Bulgarians were the aggressors, attacking the Rumanian patrol without warning.

CONFLICTING OPINIONS HINDER INVESTIGATION INTO CASHIER'S DEATH

Mother of John Yost Declares Man With a Grudge Had Been a Constant Source of Fear to Her Son

SOME BLAME ACCIDENT

Conflicting opinions regarding the death of John Yost, the cashier of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, whose body was found along the tracks near Collegeville, is making the investigation of the mystery difficult.

Coroner McGlathery contends that the man was murdered and points to the fact that 30 cents were found in his pockets a short time after he was seen with a large roll of money. It also is contended by the Coroner that a slit in the man's pocket was made hurrledly by his murderer to get the money. But the robbery, he believes, was committed to hide an-other motive—that of revenge. Investigation by the Coroner has brought out the fact that Yost had an enemy who had nursed a grudge against him for years because of a fight over a woman. Not long ago Yost told his fiances.
Miss Edna Uliman, that a man living in Lansdale had threatened to "ket" him.
He also told his mother that he might be found dead at any time.

His parents are convinced that Yost was murdered and are endeavoring to engage detectives to bring his murderers to justice. Mrs. Yost declares that some of the officials are working against Coroner McGlathery, and she asserts that they fear the man who killed her son will be found.
