V. S. MAY STOP ALLIES' LOAN TO KEEP NEUTRALITY

Washington Sees Governmental Interference Unless Collateral Is Offered

OPPOSE BOND SECURITY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.- A portentous, new complication was injected today into America's international relations:

Shall the United States Government be come "banker" for the Allies?

This was the question raised by the proposal of the Anglo-French banking commission in conference with New Yorkgnanciers. It was an issue which was looked upon as ranking in importance with the submarine controversy,

The two questions were inter-related. That Germany and Austria might protest scainst the proposed mammoth loan as quarters.

Intimations from high officials that the Washington Government would disapof the nations asking it.

The Government is represented in the conferences, although unofficially, it was learned today. A Treasury official is meeting with the European and American Spanciers. Secretary of the Treasury piling in daily. McAdoo is watching the course of the negotiations carefully.

It was reported today that the American bankers will sound out the Adminis-tration before completing any loan. A nittee may come here to meet Mc-

Officials pointed out that the Government has already indicated that it frowns on loans to any of the belligerants. Thus far it has not actually stepped in to prevent a loan, however. But there was excellent authority for today's report that, if the national bonds, otherwise unsecured, are the only security out to by the Allies for the proposed $1,000.000. 600 advance, the Administration is disposed to prevent the transaction as gross-

500,000 STRAW HATS TO VANISH TOMORROW

They Would Make Four Stacks, Each Towering Far Above Mt. McKinley's Summit

It is midsummer, as far as the heat is concerned, but it is also September 14. so, therefore, the straw hat must make a hasty exit tomorrow. Incidentally, statisticians could do many things with these cast-off straws. The average straw hat is about three inches in height. If the half million hats were niled one on ton of the other, they would piled one on top of the other, they would extend upward of 1,500,000 inches, or 125,000 feet. Therefore, if one could sit on top of this straw tower. Mount McKinley would look like a small plate of ice cream in the distance.

Placed end to end at tangent these 500,000 straw hats, averaging 14 inches in length, would cover 7,000,000 inches, or length. prove, if not actually forbid, the loan to more than 1325 miles, reaching all the the Ailles if it is made solely upon bonds way to Topeka, Kan. CANDIDATES DODGE CONTRACTORS' DINNER

Three Leading Men in Mayoralty Race Absent from "Good Humor" Affair

Not a one of the three candidates of the mayoralty appeared at the luncheon of the Contractors' Association of Philadelphia in the Hotel Adelphia today. Director George D. Porter, Thomas B. Smith. would all meet at the luncheon.

Mayor Blankenburg was represented by Director Cooke, of the Department of Public Works, who praised the association and its purposes. This purpose is to pro-mote friendly relations between the contractors and the people of the city and to promote co-operation with the city govern-

A. Manwaring, secretary, and Senator Vare. The latter was the only prominent figure in the political world who was present. About 75 attended. Among the contracting firms represented were the American Sewer Pipe Company. the Bath Portland Cement Company, the Vulcanite Cement Company, Coplay Ce-ment Company, Eastern Paving Company, Keystone Brick Company, and the Pearson Ludascher Lumber Company.

Although the dinner was supposed to be a nonpolitical affair, it was generally believed to have been fostered by the Organization to put the contractors good humor.

City Suffragists Pleased

Suffragists were elated today over the announcement that the next State convention of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association will be held in this city on November 30. "If we win on city on November 30. "If we win on November 2," said Miss Patterson, State chairman, "the 1915 convention will take the form of a jubilee. If we lose it wil be a short session, with merely official reports and elections." The invitation to hold the 1915 convention in Philadel phia was issued by the Woman Suffrage party of Philadelphia, and was signed by Dr. E. M. Heistand Moore.

GIRL, FEARING FATHER'S BULLETS GO ASTRAY WRATH, TAKES POISON

Victim Tries to End Life, Dreading Parent's Anger. Will Recover

Fear that her father would punish her because she had visited her aunt after she had been forbidden to do so so worked upon the imagination of 15-yearold Catherine O'Brien that she attempted and Colonel Sheldon Potter had all been to commit suicide jast night by swallowinvited and it was expected that they ing poison. She is recovering in the Samaritan Hospital today, and doctors believe that her act will bring about a reconciliation with her father.

The girl took the poison last night just to her father was telling the sergeant in the Germantown and Lycoming avennes police station that he wanted his daughter taken from the home of her aunt, Mrs. John Nagel, at 3925 Nice street. An officer telephoned for the patrol and asked for the wagon on a "rush call." When the father, John O'Brien, heard the address of the aunt he gasped and jumped aboard, saying he though was his daughter who was the victim The house was made in short tin the girl was rushed to the hospital on her father's lap.

Last Saturday, according to the story told the police, the girl was severely re buked by her father and forbidden to visit her aunt. The girl immediately went to her aunt's and stayed there unt lust night. The father, missing his daughter on Sunday, followed her to her aunt's, but was told that his daughher aunt's, but was told that his daugh-ter was not there. He stayed around the neighborhood all day Sunday and Monday in order to get proof that Cath-erine was there, as he thought.
