A Country Fair With Attending Freak Show, to Say Nothing of Educated Dogs, Was Held This Week for Suburban Club-Entertainments

augurated at Oak Lane Wednesday and Thursday nights, with a country fair given by the Review Club, a literary club which is not only a prominent factor in the intellectual and social life of the suburb, but is foremost in any cause of civic betterment. The affair was held at 6th avenue and 8th street, Oak Lane.

In charge of the fete were Mrs. Bateman Saddington, 6317 Camac street; Mrs. W. P. Siegert, Lawnton street and 66th avenue, and Mrs. William C. Yerkes, 6604 Lawnton avenue. One of the features that evoked great applause was an extraordinary Punch and Judy show. Foilowing this were the "big doings" in the main tent, including the performances of an educated dog, the trained human lion and the only Zulu chief in captivity.

Among those who also generously con-tributed of their time, talents and energy were Mr. Samuel Noble, as the gnat; Miss Elizabeth Siegert, as an animated Miss Elizabeth Siegort, as an animated Jumping jack; Mr. Linwood Mose, the fat lady, and Professor Kirschbaum, the bearded lady. Mrs. Paul Fisher, as the yokel, and Mrs. Raymond White as Jim Dandy, kept every one in high good humor. Mr. Harry Wagner impersonated the Prince of Wales, and Mr. Charles Breidenbaugh, Beau Brummel.

One of the particularly successful features of the affair was the sale of

THE new season was happily in- | little buttons, inscribed in gold and white, "The Review Club of Oak Lane." Alto-gether the fair added a pretty penny to the building fund of the literary club.
