

CANCER CURSE GROWS IN STATE, DOCTORS TOLD

Scranton Physician Says 16 Die of Disease in Pennsylvania Each Day

5000 VICTIMS YEARLY

Great Majority of Patients Can Be Saved by Education, Dr. Wainwright Asserts

A warning that the curse of cancer is gaining strength in this State and that each year it brings death to nearly 5000 victims...

Efforts of the society to deal a powerful blow at the evil were described by Doctor Wainwright as being centered in the education of doctors, nurses and the public...

The death rate from cancer in this State is increasing faster than the general death rate, he said, adding that 18 persons in Pennsylvania die of the disease each year.

Doctor Wainwright in his address on the cancer problem laid down principles for the direction of doctors. He said:

"What the patient in a cancer operation wants is to know the cancer will not return—she is not interested in the kind of incision that is to be made, as one might think from hearing some lectures.

"Do not rule out cancer because the patient is not old. Ten per cent. of cancers happen before 35."

Dr. Christian Longenecker, of this city, gave an illustrated address on the effects of delayed operation, following which Dr. John G. Clark, of Philadelphia, conducted a discussion of the two papers.

Commissioner John Price Jackson, of the State Department of Labor and Industry, addressed the delegates, explaining the purpose and operation of the employer's liability statute and the child labor law.

The enactment regulating child labor, he said, places great responsibility on physicians by giving them opportunity to detect and prescribe for physical defects before a child begins working.

"Head of driving the manufacturer to the wall, our State laws are of a kind that will increase the prosperity of the Commonwealth," he declared.

Dr. John E. McAllister, of Harrisburg, president of the society, in a speech calling for wider publicity by doctors as to medical matters, emphasized the need for national licenses to practice medicine in place of the present system where different States maintain varying standards of requirements.

Doctor McAllister as a means of standardizing the medical profession. The necessity for doctors to take the public into their confidence was set forth in connection with unstated praise of newspaper publicity.

"The doctor's best friend and the world's best friend is the newspaper," he said.

"In the public mind there is great curiosity about what doctors are doing; this is news the public has a right to know about."

"Because we do not take the public into our confidence sufficiently there is skepticism about the value of much in medicine and surgery."

"Co-operation between the doctor and the newspaper is needed to circulate medical discoveries and to suppress inaccuracies."

"One of the great needs of our profession is a system of national instead of State licenses to practice medicine, so that a physician from California will be privileged to practice in Pennsylvania or New Jersey."

"Standardization of the profession embodies almost every other problem of modern medicine in America today."

Major Blankensburg, welcoming the physicians, said:

"It is your duty not only to heal the sick, but to help bring about in this country a spirit which will make impossible such a devastating war as that in Europe."

"No other body of men has the opportunity to get in closer touch with the homes of the city than do the doctors. I beseech you—not as a partisan, but as a man who loves his country better than his life—to use your influence for civic righteousness."

The need of three or four great city hospitals was stated emphatically by Dr. E. E. Montgomery, president of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, who cited the inadequacy of the Blockley Hospital to fill the requirements of Philadelphia.

"It is questionable if Philadelphia can continue to be considered the foremost city of the nation in the field of medicine," he added, "in view of the great strides other cities are making by building hospitals and endowing medical schools."

A smoker for members of the society will be held tonight in Scottish Rite Hall, and women physicians are making a "smokeless smoker" at the Women's Hospital.

MEDICAL MEN ELECT OFFICERS American Academy Names Dr. G. A. Hare, of California, President

The American Academy of Medicine, at a meeting in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, elected officers for the year 1915-1916, following nominations made at the annual meeting in San Francisco this summer.

The officers chosen were: Dr. George A. Hare, of Fresno, Cal., president; Dr. R. W. Corwin, Pueblo, Col., and Dr. Bruce Peterson, Ann Arbor, Mich., vice president; Dr. Wray Grayson, Pitts-

Largh, secretary; and Dr. Charles McIntire, Easton, Pa., treasurer.

SHOT TO DEATH IN NEW YORK

Philadelphia Dies From Wounds Accidentally Inflicted

John Boggi, a 17-year-old boy, who lived in this city until two months ago, died today in New York from bullet wounds inflicted by a friend who mistook him for a burglar.

Boggi formerly resided with his uncle, John Boggi, 732 South Darien street, with his brother Peter, 31 years old, he came here from Italy, leaving behind a third brother, Lewis, who is fighting with the Italian army. John and Peter decided near to enter the huckster business in New York.

The shooting occurred at the home of a friend, where the brothers were attending to work. During the night John became ill. He went to the fire escape for fresh air and accidentally fell against the window of Charles Lamina. The latter, believing that the intruder was a thief, fired a shot into his abdomen.

THREE WIVES MAY FACE MAN IN COURT

Wife Number One Declares Hubby Has Married Two Other Women

The charge of bigamy pending against Charles Reinhardt, of 2919 Aspen street, assumed a more serious aspect today, when he was accused of having three wives instead of two, as had been alleged when he was arrested a week ago.

When Reinhardt was brought before Magistrate Eisenbrow in Central Station today, Mrs. Florence Reinhardt, said to be wife number 1, took the stand and said she had learned, since Reinhardt's first hearing, of a third Mrs. Reinhardt, who before her marriage was Anna Preston. She then lived with her mother at 352 North Hancock street.

The Magistrate held Reinhardt in $500 bail for a further hearing Friday, when efforts will be made to have in court all the women to whom he is said to have been married.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Florence Reinhardt, who lives at 1310 Wornath street, Reinhardt was married first to her. The second wife, she says, was Anna Preston. The third was Helen Lutz, and Mrs. Reinhardt asserts that her husband now lives with his last wife at 2919 Aspen street. None of the women mentioned by Mrs. Reinhardt appeared in court.

Mrs. Albert Preston, the mother of Mrs. Anna Reinhardt, who is said to have been the prisoner's second wife, said this afternoon her daughter was married to Reinhardt on May 23, 1912, by the Rev. Dr. William B. Chaffant, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman of this city. The courtship was brief, the couple having agreed to live together only about two months. Mrs. Reinhardt was a widow with a little five-year-old daughter when she married Reinhardt.

Mrs. Preston also said that Mrs. Florence Reinhardt, wife No. 1, came to see her daughter one day last week. She failed to meet her, as she is now living in the vicinity of Tenth and Diamond streets and is supporting herself and child by working in a hosiery mill.

Mrs. Reinhardt, who is said to have been the prisoner's second wife, said this afternoon her daughter was married to Reinhardt on May 23, 1912, by the Rev. Dr. William B. Chaffant, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman of this city. The courtship was brief, the couple having agreed to live together only about two months. Mrs. Reinhardt was a widow with a little five-year-old daughter when she married Reinhardt.

Mrs. Preston also said that Mrs. Florence Reinhardt, wife No. 1, came to see her daughter one day last week. She failed to meet her, as she is now living in the vicinity of Tenth and Diamond streets and is supporting herself and child by working in a hosiery mill.

Mrs. Reinhardt, who is said to have been the prisoner's second wife, said this afternoon her daughter was married to Reinhardt on May 23, 1912, by the Rev. Dr. William B. Chaffant, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman of this city. The courtship was brief, the couple having agreed to live together only about two months. Mrs. Reinhardt was a widow with a little five-year-old daughter when she married Reinhardt.

MRS. MARY S. LEWIS SUES FOR DIVORCE

Enters Counter Suit Against Evan B. Lewis, Candidate for Judge

Mrs. Mary S. Lewis entered counter-suit for divorce today against Evan B. Lewis, an attorney and candidate for Judge in Court of Common Pleas No. 2. She does not seek an absolute decree of separation, but desires a divorce "from bed and board."

About a year ago Attorney Lewis sought to get a divorce from his wife on the ground of cruel and barbarous treatment. The case was referred to Cornelius Haggerty, Jr., as master. He recommended that Mr. Lewis be refused a decree. The attorney took exception to the master's report and the case was heard in Court of Common Pleas No. 5 and approved the report of the master. Mrs. Lewis subsequently decided to institute a counter-suit.

She is represented by Attorneys Hepburn, Carr and Kraus.

GOING AFTER NEW FACTORIES Chamber of Commerce Organizes "Industrial Bureau" to Seek Plants

An "Industrial Bureau" was organized by the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting this afternoon. The bureau will have for its chief purpose the bringing of industrial plants to Philadelphia.

At the meeting, it was said, although no effort was being made at this time to induce manufacturers to establish themselves here, an average of 19 inquiries a month were being received. It is believed that this number will be largely increased when the new bureau gets under way.

The members of the committee in charge of the new bureau are Howard B. French, Harry B. French, Charles Z. Tryon, Thomas B. Harrison and Charles P. Vaughan.

TYPHOID DANGER ENDED Cheltenham Township Farm Found Clear of Germs of Disease

Tests of the blood of employees of the Cheltenham Township Farm, to determine whether there is continued danger of typhoid fever germs in the milk from that source have shown that none of the employees is stricken with the disease. The tests were completed today at the State Department of Health Laboratories, 26th and Arch streets, under the supervision of Dr. Samuel H. Dixon.

The authorities of Cheltenham township as well as those of other townships and suburbs in the Old York Road section are now convinced that the trouble is at an end. It is expected that within two weeks the State authorities will make final exhaustive tests of the milk of the Francis Farm and then allow the owners to continue distribution. Tests on milk from that and all other sources in the neighborhood will be rigidly continued for some time to come.

Trousers A Specialty JONES 116 Walnut Street

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS

Will Form New Power Company

A new power equipment concern will be established in this city following the resignation of G. D. Bradshaw, chief consulting engineer of the Cambria Steel Company. Mr. Bradshaw will form a partnership with J. J. Underhill, of the Anderson-Bradshaw Company.

Orthopedic Rooms for Amputees, 2845 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FLAVELL'S SPRING GARDEN

THE WORLD'S SERIES NEWSBOY

HARRY GOLDBERG

NEWSIE SAYS HE WILL BE FIRST TO BUY WORLD'S SERIES TICKET

Harry Goldberg Training for Feat That Will Get Him First Place in Long Line of Phillies' Enthusiasts When Rush Begins

"I'm going to sit the first world series ticket if I have to stay up for a week." Harry Goldberg looked determined when he made the declaration. He sits papers at 8th and Market streets, and, unlike most newsies, he doesn't bowl in his spare as you pass by. He always has the latest editions, and what's more, he keeps up to the minute by reading the news himself. That's why he knows that the Phillies are in line for the buntings and probably the biggest prize of all. He may not be able to discuss the details of the war loan or the ship purchase bill, but he can tell you all about averages.

Harry has been following the race of the local club all season, and felt just as badly as the Phillies did every time they were chalked down on the wrong side of the ledger. When business and finances would permit, Harry had a seat on the right field bleachers, where he rooted with all the energy of his 12 years every time a famous Phill cracked the ball.

It is any wonder that he wants to be first in line for the fight of the Philly clan? Although there's many a slip between the cup and the lip, Harry does not think he will be out of the game. He'll do it, he predicts, and one game ahead in as good as a hundred. There "won't be nuthin' to it but the Phillis," the youngster thinks, when they battle with the American League leaders.

And he's training for his long vigil on the soap boxes. As he is used to hustling, he can keep awake nearly 24 hours "without setting an eye," as he puts it. Any gang of speculators or "wise guys" who try to out him will run up against a snag, as the youngster says he can take care of himself.

It was suggested that maybe his stomach would interfere, but Harry said with a mysterious wink, that he would "fix it."

He lives at 56th street and Lyons avenue. Darby, at a distance from the center of the city, he declares, will not keep him from first place in the ticket line.

Now Harry can't see why any Camden kid should get ahead of a Philadelphia boy and be the first one to get a ticket for the Phillies' big fight. "Joe Banks will have to get up early and stay up late," said Harry. "I got two boxes ready now for my seat, and they will be fixed up so that I can eat and sleep without moving away. I can sleep standing up just as well as stretching out. I'm not going to get the place just to sell it to some other guy. I'm going to keep it for myself, and buy me own ticket. Every kid ought to do something for them Phillis. It ain't no good watchin' fingers on a bulletin board. I want to hear the crack of the bat, and see Cravat an' Loodruss bang up again the wall an' see 'em run 'em all that stuff."

Harry said it was going to be a tight squeeze for Moran's masters, and he wouldn't be surprised to see them just nose out by one or two games. But they'll do it, he predicts, and one game ahead in as good as a hundred. There "won't be nuthin' to it but the Phillis," the youngster thinks, when they battle with the American League leaders.

And he's training for his long vigil on the soap boxes. As he is used to hustling, he can keep awake nearly 24 hours "without setting an eye," as he puts it. Any gang of speculators or "wise guys" who try to out him will run up against a snag, as the youngster says he can take care of himself.

It was suggested that maybe his stomach would interfere, but Harry said with a mysterious wink, that he would "fix it."

He lives at 56th street and Lyons avenue. Darby, at a distance from the center of the city, he declares, will not keep him from first place in the ticket line.

BROTHER ATTACKS SISTER

Man Who Tried to Choke Girl Arrested

Cries of "Help! murder!" issuing from a house at 344 Rodman street marked the start of many minutes of excitement in that neighborhood this afternoon. Several calls were sent to the police of the 6th and Pine streets station, and when district detectives Mahaffey and Falvey rushed upon the scene they found Messrs. McGuigan, 20 years old, crowded on the front steps, surrounded by a crowd. She told them she was afraid to enter the house because her brother, James McGuigan, tried to choke her to death.

Before McGuigan was subdued his head was cut and bruised. He was locked up and will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

Philadelphians in New Concern

The American Cardboard Company, which will have a plant at Red Bank, N. J., was incorporated in the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton today with a capital of $25,000. The concern will manufacture and deal in cardboard novelties and specialties. The incorporators are Thomas Grant, of 902 Upland street; W. Williams, of 1631 South 27th street; and Mortimer V. Pack, of Red Bank. The latter is the registered agent of the company.

Hurled From Wagon Struck by Auto

Harry Dougherty, a farmer from Drexelton, Pa., and his 16-year-old daughter Beale, were thrown from their wagon when it was struck by an automobile at Wayne avenue and Manheim street, today. Neither was badly hurt, but the girl became hysterical. The wagon was demolished. Dougherty was on his way to this city with farm products.

N. Y. Subway Tied Up by Accident

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The entire 20 miles of the main artery of New York's subway system was paralyzed for nearly half an hour today in the heart of the rush hour by a short circuit. All the power was turned off and thousands of persons were caught in the tube and made late for work.

DIXON The Dependable Tailor

We've Written This for Particular Men

MORE TROOPS RUSHED TO PROTECT EL PASO; VILLA ATTACK FEARED

Field Artillery and Infantry Regiment Go to Border as Convention Leader Mobilizes

MAY RESIST EMBARGO

U. S. Recognition of Carranza May Precipitate Assault by First Chief's Foe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The 8th regiment of the field artillery and a regiment of infantry to be selected by the commanding officer at Texas City were today ordered to reinforce the troops on duty at El Paso.

The order was made after a report by Brigadier General J. J. Pershing, commanding at El Paso, that Villa was massing his forces at Juarez, across the Rio Grande from Texas City. General Pershing made it very plain that he feared trouble should the Villista officials get the idea that Carranza was to receive recognition at the hands of the United States and an embargo was to be laid on their securing munitions from this side of the border.

How to raise the vast sums of money that will be required to rebuff Carranza and to pay the damage claims of the nations of the world is the question now under consideration by Carranza's representatives in this country. With the return to this city today of Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance in the Carranza government, it was reported he was in New York making arrangements for the huge loan.

There is authority for the belief that he has received assurance that if recognition is given and an embargo placed against Carranza's enemies all the money needed will be forthcoming. The cash is needed for foreign claims, to refund the national debt and to rehabilitate the national railway system.

"The question of finance is in the hands of First Chief Carranza himself," said Eliseo Arredondo, confidential agent of the Constitutionists, today. "I do not think the loan can be negotiated until we have been recognized."

Arredondo has wired the result of the New York conference to his chief, and will not ask for a conference with the Secretary of State until he receives instructions. Local officials closely in touch with the financial resources of Mexico declare that the floating of the big loan will be easy.

TRIES TO SHOOT HIMSELF

Demented Man Creates Excitement in Station House

A demented man, who pulled a revolver from the pocket of a special policeman in the 5th and Pine streets station today and tried to shoot himself, was subdued only after a terrific struggle with four men that lasted half an hour.

The prisoner is Joseph Courtney, of 324 M. Marine, Morrisville, Pa., and Allen D. Richards, Chester County, Pa., and Sarah E. Beer, Appleton, Md.

Falvey, Graham and Sergeant Stuckert joined in the struggle that followed to get the revolver away from Courtney. The man had the muzzle of the weapon to his temple when Mahaffey knocked down his arm. In the struggle Mahaffey and Falvey were badly bitten by Courtney.

Acting Sergeant Graham realized that the man was insane. While Special Policemen Mahaffey and Falvey were talking to Courtney the latter suddenly reached over and snatched the revolver from Mahaffey's pocket.

Acting Sergeant Graham realized that the man was insane. While Special Policemen Mahaffey and Falvey were talking to Courtney the latter suddenly reached over and snatched the revolver from Mahaffey's pocket.

Falvey, Graham and Sergeant Stuckert joined in the struggle that followed to get the revolver away from Courtney. The man had the muzzle of the weapon to his temple when Mahaffey knocked down his arm. In the struggle Mahaffey and Falvey were badly bitten by Courtney.

Nine Couples Married at Elkton

ELKTON Md., Sept. 21.—Nine couples were married here today, as follows: Thomas J. Gillen and Bertha Taylor, Louis A. Benz and May Pierson, Elmer J. Suttera and Elizabeth A. Woolsey and David M. Greenberg and Sarah E. Brode, all of Philadelphia; Harry B. Lake, Frederick, N. C., and Alice Wulff, Philadelphia; Charles D. Hamlin and Ethel H. Lecombe, Riverdale, N. J.; Russell E. Dennis and Mary C. Henry, Port Deposit, Md.; Charles M. Carver and Edith M. Marins, Morrisville, Pa.; and Allen D. Richards, Chester County, Pa., and Sarah E. Beer, Appleton, Md.

SEGER AT MOTHER'S BEDSIDE

Councilman Absent During Primaries for First Time in 15 Years

For the first time in more than 15 years Solicitor General Charles Seger, who is the Republican Organization leader of the 7th Ward, is absent from his home ward at a primary election. He is at the bedside of his mother, Mrs. Jane Seger, 89 years old, who is seriously ill at Atlantic City. Shortly after casting his vote in the 16th division of the 7th Ward, Seger received a message that his mother's condition was critical. He left for the shore in an early train.

Mrs. Seger is the widow of the late Jacob Seger, who was employed at the Frankford Arsenal. Mrs. Seger lives at 132 Wolf street. She has another son, Mitchell L. Seger, of 513 Spruce street, who is a tipstaff.

The cream in your morning cup of coffee

IS it real cream—does its flavor tell of rich pasturage, splendid herds, perfect methods of preparation? For the cream should be exactly right to be the making of the coffee or the cereal.

And Supplee cream makes the perfect morning cup. Rich, delicious in its appearance, and of a decidedly "better flavor."

The Supplee Alderney Dairy

Milk-Cream-Ice Cream Eight Gold Medals

LEG SUPPORTS

VARICOSE VEINS, ULCERS, SWELLINGS, BRUISES, ARE EVENLY SUPPORTED BY THE USE OF THIS

Corliss Laced Stocking

Sanitary, as they may be worn day or night, they are comfortable, made to measure, SO ELASTIC, adjustable, loose fitting, light & durable. ECONOMICAL. Cost $1.25 each or two for the same limb, $2.50 postpaid (call and be measured free or write for self-measurement). Black No. 12.

Also make non-elastic Ankle Straps in 25¢. Black No. 12. 6 to 4. Price, Corliss Laced Specialty Co. 422 Broad St., Newark, N. J., 121-15 Elyse St., Falls, Pa.

MAGISTRATE FIGHT IS A MAD SCRAMBLE

Almost 200 Men Would Like to Fill 17 Places—Organization Has Slate

The election of new Magistrates this year has virtually resolved itself into a mad scramble for office. While there are only 17 places to be filled at the November election, a total of nearly 200 names are on the ballots of the Republican, Washington, Democratic and Keystone parties at the primary election today. In addition to these there are about a score of names appearing exclusively on the Socialist ballot.

Of the 17 to be elected finally it will be from the majority party and 6 from the minority party. Each party today, however, will nominate 12 men whose names will appear on the ballot for the November election.

The Republican Organization has "slated" 11 candidates, 8 of whom are at present Magistrates. The names of these 11 appear only on the Republican ticket. The names of the majority of the other candidates, however, appear on the ballots of several and sometimes all of the four parties. The Organization is distributing hundreds of sample ballots to "save trouble" for the voter, especially in the selection of Magistrates.

The Democratic party has "slated" six men from a total of 80 on the ballot today. Three of the six are "Old Guard" men and the remaining three are with the reorganization wing of the party. The "Old Guard" Magistrates are prominently on the assistance of the bipartisan machine to elect their three candidates.

These men are: Thomas E. Fitzpatrick, William H. McQuillan and Magistrate James H. Toughill. The reorganization candidates are William H. Belcher, Joseph S. Boyle and "Old Guard" Magistrate James H. Toughill. The names of the majority of the other candidates, however, appear on the ballots of several and sometimes all of the four parties. The Organization is distributing hundreds of sample ballots to "save trouble" for the voter, especially in the selection of Magistrates.

The Washington Party City Committee has prepared no slate for magistrates, leaving the nomination entirely to the choice of the voters today. The various ward committees, however, in a number of cases took it upon themselves to endorse several candidates. The ward committees thus working independently have given sectional endorsement to nearly all the 22 men whose names appear on the ballot today. This action has only served to confuse further the election.

The formation of a new party by the Committee of One Hundred and the independent leaders after the primary election today will have an important bearing upon the election of the magistrates. This party will, in all probability, endorse the candidates who have been nominated on the Washington party ballot today. There is little possibility of any fusion with the Democrats, and for this reason the formation of the new party will work strongly to the disadvantage of the Democrats in the selection of minority magistrates.

All of the 17 magistrates whose terms expire this year are running for re-election, except William Haggerty, who was originally elected as a Republican. The Organization this year, however, slated John F. Collins to succeed him.

The present magistrates slated by the Organization for re-election are: George K. Hoge, Joseph Coward, John J. Harrigan, Leslie Yates, William J. Glenn, William J. Harris, John Mcleary and Byron E. Wrigley. In addition to Collins the new men slated are Thomas F. Watson and George A. Persch.

Good things for early autumn menus at Martindale's

The choicest selection in scores of departments of staple and fancy groceries here at Martindale's—and each article at a price that saves something because each is priced on the basis of "small profits many times repeated."

Viv Hams, an unusual value at the price of 18c lb. Family Kits of plump, little mackerel, $1 the kit. Crown Butter, a saving of 4c to 8c a pound, now 34c lb. Longfellow Pretzels, brown and crisp, 18c lb.; 3 lbs. 50c. Pacific Minced Clams, extra fine, 15c tin. Luncheon Roe, enough for six people in each tin, 18c tin. Comb Honey, the real clover honey, fresh and fragrant, 25c comb. Viv Grape Juice, none better at any price, 25c and 45c bottle. Swan's Down Prepared Flour, 33c pkg. Bermuda Onions for the salad, or for other dishes where the finest onion is desired, 8c lb. Jumbo Peanuts, fine big fellows, 12c lb. Premier Salad Dressing, delicious mayonnaise, 25c jar. Kipperd Herring, without heads or tails, 10c tin. Peanut Butter, 27 oz. jar for 25c. Giant Olives, 10c, 15c, 25c jar. Shad Roe, delicious broiled for breakfast, 25c tin. Foss' Celebrated Assorted Chocolates, 60c lb. Royal Claret, a fine blood-builder, 25c bottle; 77c gal. Styrian Olive Oil, the best in the world, 25c, 50c, $1 a bottle. Curry Powder, 15c, 25c, 45c a bottle. Viv Cocoa, healthful, delicious, 12c and 22c tin. Boston Brown Bread, baked in our own ovens, 10c loaf. Prepared Crab Meat, 25c tin. Edam Cheese, $1 a head. Spring Garden Spinach, 15c tin. Old Abe Selected Early June Peas, 15c tin; $1.70 doz. Hickmott Asparagus, 2 1/2 lb. Signature Long, 40c tin; 24c lb. Round Golden Crown Tins, 20c tin; $2.25 doz. To have your bills come to you monthly, instead of paying cash for each purchase, is a time saving and convenient plan. We shall be glad to have you open an account at the store.

Thos. Martindale & Co. 10th & Market

Established in 1850

Shell Phone—Elbert 3070, Elbert 3021, Keystone—Hovey 200, Hovey 202

HOT STRUGGLE RAGING IN CONTEST FOR OFFICE OF CITY SOLICITORSHIP

James Alcorn, Independent, Principal Opponent of John P. Connelly, Organization Man

LARGE FUNDS AT STAKE

The position of City Solicitor will be the centre of one of the most spirited contests in the nomination of candidates for the various row offices at the primary election today. While each of the parties has prepared a complete slate for all the row offices, the importance of the City Solicitorship during an administration when millions of dollars are to be expended on permanent public improvements has made this office the centre of the most bitter fight.

To oppose John P. Connelly, the McNichol-Penrose candidate, who has been "slated" by the Organization, the Independents have endorsed James Alcorn, Assistant City Solicitor for nearly a score of years and City Solicitor for one year, filling the unexpired term of J. Edward Gendoll.

Mr. Alcorn has been endorsed by the Washington Party City Committee and by the executive committee of the Public Service Committee of One Hundred. The executive committee also recommended that the general committee endorse Mr. Alcorn. Although this action was never formally taken, his friends point out that his semi-endorsement will insure his nomination over Samuel B. Scott, the other Washington party candidate.

"Engineering Societies and Publicity" will be the subject of an address by C. E. Dreyer, of Cleveland, Ohio, before the Engineers' Club, of Philadelphia, at their clubhouse, 1317 Spruce street, tonight.

Speaking of Apprehensions

A lot of clothing shops this season will be found to have bought lightly—they are apprehensive about conditions.

We also are apprehensive about conditions—so apprehensive that we have assembled the biggest stock we ever had.

The fact is, there are two things we always believe in—the prosperity of American business and the eternal excellence of "N. B. T." Clothes; and nothing short of fire, flood and famine will ever shake our belief in either.