While this diagram is submitted as a matter of interest and importance, I do not for a moment wish to be understood as even suggesting any measurements in taking a stance to drive a golf ball or in making any mathematical calculations in regard to it.

It is shown for the purpose of proving It is shown for the purpose of proving that the great golfers, consciously or unconsciously, are mathematically correct in their stance, and thus get the greatest "leverage" into their strokes. They have, most probably, found this stance by a process of elimination, experimenting until a position of greatest power was found. But it is interesting to know why it is so.

The 19th hole lived up to traditions yesterday when it furnished a real live and crawly reptile. Miss Griscom, for-mer national champion, and Miss Eleanor Chandler were carried to an extra hole in their match.

Miss Griscom was too anxious and put her drive in the grove on the left, from which she made a good try, but was one stroke to the bad when both got on the green. Her long putt was too hard, and though it hit the back of the cup it would not go down.

Miss Chandler then stood up to hole out the winning shot. But, horror of horrors, she found a large and bristling caterpillar lifting its head between her ball and the hole. It was a dead stymic, so she advanced trembling to the task of lifting. She spoke kindly to the worm; trying to stroke its fur and coax it away.

It meewed but would not move.

Taking all her courage in one hand and the reptile by the scruff of the neck in the other, Miss Chandler finally tossed it to one side. But the beast made her lose her putting eye and she missed her four, but she laid Miss Griscom a halfstymie which the latter failed to get

of Wilmington, 6-1

MANHEIM, Pa., Sept. 23.—Miss Alice Cunningham, Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, triumphed, with unexpected ease, over Mrs. J. S. Taylor, Wilmington, holder of two State titles, in the round before the semifinal of the women's Phil-adelphia and district lawn tennis champlonship tournament in progress on the turf courts at the Germantown Cricket Club, Manheim, today.

Miss Cunningham's companions in the penultimate round are Miss E. G. Ost-heimer, Huntingdon Valley; Miss Sarah Myers, Merion, and Miss Frances Ker-baugh, Belfield. Miss Myers, who holds the girls' junior championship of Phila-delphia, and Miss Cunningham are the only players still in all three events, the singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

The Boston girl's victory over the Delaware and Maryland champion today was in straight sets, and with the loss of but one game in each set at 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Osthelmer returned a straight set win over Miss Sarah Nellson, Germantown, at 6-2, 6-2, and Mrs. Kerbaugh was forced to a hard match by little Mollie Thayer, Philadelphia Cricket Club. Mrs. Kerbaugh lost but one game in opening set, but Miss Thayer forced her to 14 games before she could claim the second, at 8-6.

In the doubles event Miss Phyllis Walsh and Mrs. I. H. Schlichter, Jr., Walsh and Mrs. I. H. Schilchter, Jr., runners-up to Mrs. Marshall McLean and Miss Molla Bjurstedt for the Pennsylvania State championship, went down to defeat after one of the hardest-fought and best-contested doubles matches secular here in many moons. The victors were Miss Cunningham and Mrs. F. M. Melton, of the Longwood Cricket Club, Bos-ton, but the New England twain barely squeezed through with the match at 7-9, 6-3, 6-4. Throughout it was the brilliancy of Miss Walsh against the brilliancy of Miss Cunningham, and the steadiness of

Mrs. Felton against the steadiness of Mrs. Schlichter. At the net, with her partner serving. Miss Walsh was invincible, and on the other side Miss Cunningham's backhand strokes resulted in many an earned point. The summaries:

THERE may be those who take "with a grain of salt" the statement that a $1350 car can be made to ride as easily and be as comfortable as a car selling for $6000 or more.

Nevertheless, it is absolutely true that no car, at any price, rides any easier or is more comfortable than this $1350 Chalmers Six-40, and a ride in it will thoroughly convince you of this fact.

Comfost must be built into a car, but it is not difficult if you know how.

The seat backs and side walls of the Six-40 are built for comfort—according to scientific principles that years of experience have taught us.

The seats and side walls are deep and soomy, the upholstery is luxurious and is of full leather. The leg-room is ample.

Truly, you ride in this car-not on it.

The rear springs are 57 inches longthe longest on any car in the world at the price. Aside from the great comfort they give you will find that their resilient action will save you tire bills.

And, finally, there is always in the Six 40 the comfort of steady power—the quick acceleration—the easy, vibrationless sull of the marvelous valve-in-head over-
