British Operating From Gaba Tepe and Suvla Bay Form Junction

PARIS, Sept. 25. An official review of military opera-tions at the Dardanelles, issued here, claims important progress for the Allies and announces the sinking of five Turkand announces the sinking of five Turkish transports, besides the Jestruction of some smaller boats and the shelling of the docks and supply depot opposite Nagara. Four of these transports were sunk in one day by British submarines.
The British it is stated, have succeeded in effecting a junction between new troops landed in the Bay of Suvia and those which already occupied the heights dominating Gaba Tepe. dominating Gaba Tepe.

"At the Dardanelles," the report states, "the last weeks of August were marked by few movements. In general there were artillery duels and sapping and mining On August 24 one of our groups captured a telephone station before one of the Turkish trenches. This was filled with defenders, who presented our mitrall-leuses with an opportunity for a very effective fire.

"The edge of the plateau descending to Koreves Dero is the favorite theatre of operations for our patrols. Every time the Turks have shown the slightest opposition to us their enterprises have falled. Our curtains of fire have pre-vented a good many of the assailants from returning to their starting point. "Our infantry every day establishes its superiority over the brave but sluggish Turk. On August 30 our mountain guns forced the defenders of a small fort in the Koreves Dero valley to evacuate that fort, and on the coming of the night our soldiers completed its destruction.

"During this time our artillery continued its shelling of the batteries discovered by our aeroplanes on the hill of Achi-Baba and the Asiatic coast. The Turkish artillery is capricious. On some days it would be possible to believe that it has no more ammunition, and its silence, particularly that of the heavy guns, is almost complete. At other times, on the contrary, it sweeps our sone with the utmost thoroughness. We have, however, suffered only unimportant material damage."
