

FRENCH ROLLED FOE BACK OVER FIELDS OF GORE

Champagne Charges Made Across German Trenches Filled With Corpses

ARTILLERY BLAZED PATH

By C. F. BERTELLI PARIS, Sept. 28. Charging over blasted German trenches heaped with corpses, the French troops that rolled back the Germans in the Champagne region fought amidst such scenes of destruction and carnage as has not been seen in the western theatre for many a month.

Details of the engagement, which were reported here today by the first batch of wounded French soldiers to arrive from the scene, make up a thrilling chapter. Following a stupendous bombardment from heavy French guns for three days and three nights, the French infantry surged forward on Saturday in the first of the fiercest assaults which were to net the foe a gain of nearly three miles in some places.

Many of the German soldiers were so dazed and stupefied by the mighty cannonade that they could not resist, but others, who had been rushed forward to support the first line, engaged the French soldiers in a furious hand-to-hand struggle in the shell craters and amidst the piles of dead and wounded.

The Germans fought bravely, but they could not withstand the wave of steel that engulfed them.

Most of the slightly wounded French soldiers arriving here bore such trophies as helmets, petrol cans, officers' binoculars and German bayonets. One soldier calmly smoked a huge German pipe, which he had picked up on the battlefield.

An infantryman of the line, who was wounded in the first charge, gave this description of the battle:

"My regiment was detailed to support the first attacking troops and went into action at midday on Saturday.

"For three days and nights, previously thousands of guns had opened their fire around us, and none of us had been able to get any sleep in all that time. These were the guns that were smashing the first-line trenches of the German and prepared the way for our offensive.

"On Saturday morning a big ration of soup was served the men and afterward we were drawn up and inspected. Finally our chiefs were satisfied that all was in readiness for the attack with infantry and the order was given to advance.

"With fixed bayonets we sprang from our cover and, yelling like demons, ran toward the German lines. Already our comrades, who had charged in advance of us, had overthrown the German machine guns and were firing at the enemy.

"As we dashed upon the scene of the fighting fearful desolation met our gaze. Trenches were piled to the rim with corpses. All around us were huge holes torn into the earth by the French shells.

From behind piles of earth we could see arms and legs protruding. Fearing a trap we raked them with our rifles. The attack came from those quarters for the Germans were all dead or so badly wounded they could not move.

TROPICAL STORM ON GULF OF MEXICO

Sweeping Toward Mouth of Mississippi and Threatening Danger

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—Another great storm, similar to that which recently killed scores and caused immense damage on the Texas coast, is sweeping northward over the Gulf of Mexico.

The following warning was issued by the Weather Bureau:

A tropical storm, attended by dangerous winds, is centered off the Texas coast. It is moving northward toward the mouth of the Mississippi. Its influence will be felt late tonight and Wednesday.

WARMER WEATHER COMING

Weather Man, in Anticipation of World's Series, Promises Fine Days

Baseball fans who are looking forward impatiently to the world's series here felt awfully "blue" when they got up this morning. Their bluesness was both physical and mental, being in part due to the cold and in part to the fact that such cold weather isn't very reassuring to one who is thinking of baseball. But cheer up, fan! The weather man, in the same breath that he said the cool wave would not break up for a day or two, promised that it would surely end some time this week.

So it may be warm for the world's series games after all.

At setting-up time the mercury was down to 47, and in the afternoon, the same time yesterday, so that today has the rather doubtful honor of being the coldest day this fall.

The weather man made his usual prediction, however. "Rising temperature," he said. This early morning prophecy is never wrong.

The Weather Bureau today sent out a warning that another great storm, similar to that which recently killed scores and caused immense damage on the Texas coast, is sweeping northward over the Gulf of Mexico. It is a tropical storm, attended by dangerous winds, and its influence, it is expected, will be felt in the South late tonight and tomorrow.

The storm may eventually reach this city, but by that time its intensity will be spent and no damage is likely to be caused.

INTERCHANGE OF DYESTUFFS

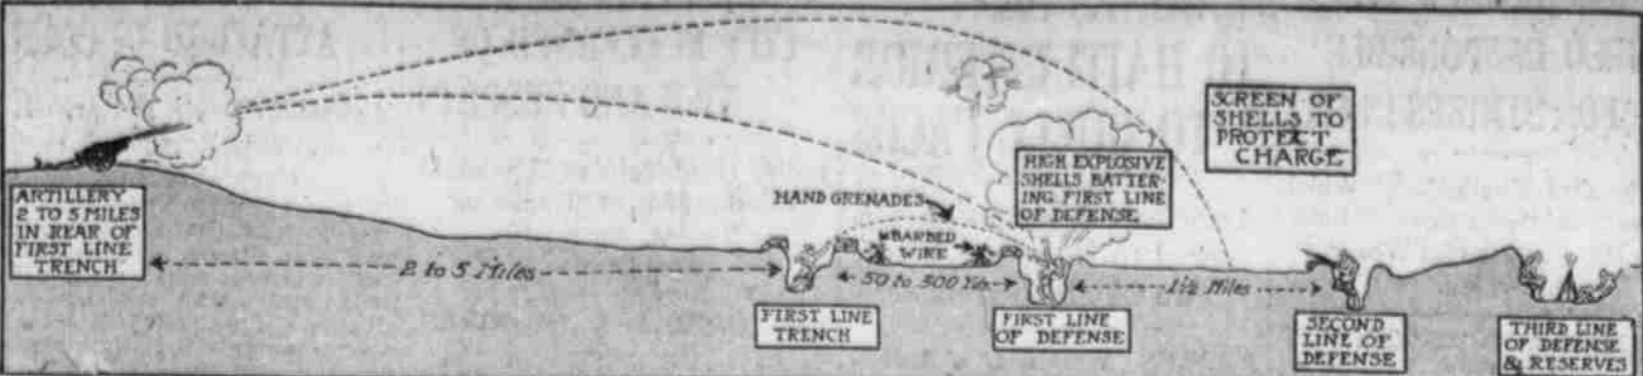

Manufacturers Take First Step Towards Solving Problem

An interchange of dyestuffs by hosiery manufacturers has been proposed by the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers to aid in solving the dye problem. A bureau will be established at the office of the association in this city and will be in charge of the interchange of dyestuffs. The association, which has a membership of 100, will be organized in the near future. Negotiations for the exchange of dyestuffs will be carried on in this way and the manufacturers who are long on one kind of dye will be given a chance to come to the rescue of those who are short.

Auto Racer Has Fighting Chance

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The Conroy Island Hospital today it was said that Harry F. Grant, the automobile racer, whose car caught fire yesterday as he was speeding around the speedway at Brooklands, has a 50 per cent chance of recovery, though he has a fighting chance of recovery.

HOW THE ALLIES BLASTED THE GERMANS OUT OF THEIR TRENCHES IN BIG DRIVE

This sketch illustrates the system the British and French armies followed in their assaults on the German lines in north France and the Champagne district. By this method, the artillery, situated from two to five miles back of the first line trenches, sprays the enemy's advance line with high explosives until the latter's first line trenches have been rendered untenable and its occupants demoralized. Meantime a hand grenade battle has been in progress. An infantry charge, for which sappers and wire cutters have prepared the way, follows. The rear batteries then change their range, causing shells to fall beyond the first line of enemy trenches so as to form a screen to protect the charging men.

BONES OF F-4 VICTIMS BORNE PAST 30,000 CIVIL WAR VETERANS

Aged Soldiers Stand With Bared Heads While Gun Carriages With Coffins Roll by on Way to Single Grave

INTERRED AT ARLINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Past 30,000 veterans of the Civil War, who stood with bared heads, four gun carriages, each conveying one flag-draped coffin, bore from the Washington Navy Yard today to Arlington Cemetery the remains of 14 men who perished in the disaster met with by the submarine F-4 beneath the waters of Honolulu Harbor last March.

The bones of these heroes, two officers and 12 enlisted men, were dragged from the bottom of the sea. Companions in death, their bones were commingled in the four coffins. They lie now in one grave.

Some were Protestants, some Catholics and that they might go to their account with the benison of their different faiths, a Protestant and a Catholic chaplain officiated jointly in the funeral services at the grave.

HISTORIC LINE OF MARCH

It was a fitting coincidence that the funeral should be held during the 4th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and that the line of march from the Navy Yard to the cemetery should include the stretch of Pennsylvania avenue, over which the veterans passed in review of President Lincoln 50 years ago and over which a few thousand survivors of that event will march tomorrow.

The honorary escort was commanded by Captain W. D. Leahy, commander of the Dolphin, Secretary "Daniels" official ship. In the first carriage following the funeral caissons were the widow of Lieutenant Alfred L. Ede, commander of the ill-fated craft, and a bride of less than a year; J. T. Parker, of Murray, Ky., the brother of Ensign Timothy A. Parker, a guest of Lieutenant Ede when the submarine made the fatal plunge, and a few of the friends and relatives of the enlisted men.

CREW OF ILL-FATED F-4

Besides Lieutenant Ede and Ensign Parker the 19 men who perished with the submarine were: Frederick Gillman, gunner's mate, first class, St. Louis; Frank N. Horozog, electrician, second class, Salt Lake City; George T. Ashcroft, gunner's mate, first class, Los Angeles, Cal.; Charles G. Back, gunner's mate, second class, New Orleans; Ernest C. Cauvin, machinist's mate, second class, New Orleans; Harley Colwell, chief electrician, Seattle, Wash.; Walter F. Covington, machinist's mate, first class, Byers, Tex.; George L. Deeth, electrician, second class, Portland, Ore.; Aliston H. Grindle, chief electrician, Mendocino City, Cal.; Edwin S. Hill, machinist's mate, first class, Etowah, Tenn.; Francis M. Hughson, machinist's mate, first class, Los Angeles, Cal.; Albert F. Jennie, electrician, second class, Festus, Mo.; Archie H. Lamer, gunner's mate, second class, Honolulu.

Ivan L. Mahan, machinist's mate, first class, Vallejo, Cal.; Horace L. Moore, gunner's mate, first class, Spring Lake, N. J.; William S. Nelson, chief machinist's mate, Los Angeles, Cal.; Frank G. Plerard, chief gunner's mate, Laverne, Cal.; Charles H. Wells, machinist's mate, second class, Norfolk, Va.; Henry A. Withers, gunner's mate, first class, San Diego, Cal.

Eighteen of the 21 bodies were recovered. Those of Ashcroft and Mahan were buried in the Naval Cemetery at Mare Island, Cal. Those of Herzog and Wells were buried by their families in Salt Lake City and Norfolk, Va., respectively.

Dr. Tomkins' Aunt's Funeral Today

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Dunham Davis, widow of Albert A. Davis, a New York physician, were held today at 11 o'clock at the Trinity Episcopal Church, 18th and Walnut streets. She died early Sunday morning at the home of her nephew, the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, following a long illness. Mrs. Davis was 95 years old. The Rev. Dr. Tomkins will officiate at the services and interment will be at Danville, Va.

VESTRY WINS POINT IN RICHMOND SUIT

"Curbstone" Board Is Permitted by Judge to Recite Proceedings

The "curbstone" vestry of St. John's Episcopal won the first legal point in the court proceedings to oust the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond from the rectory of that congregation today in Court of Common Pleas No. 2. Mr. Richmond's attorney, Edgar M. Black, was overruled by Judge Ferguson when he objected to a recital of proceedings before the Standing Committee of the Diocese on the ground that these actions were not germane to the case.

The session started today is the final hearing in the movement to force Mr. Richmond to turn over to the so-called "curbstone vestry" the keys, books and funds of St. John's. Mr. Richmond was deposed as rector of that church by Bishop Rhinelander, but declined to get out. A vestry was elected on the sidewalk in front of the church, and when Mr. Richmond refused to recognize it, suit was brought.

George Chandler Paul, Sr., formerly accounting warden, the latest target for Mr. Richmond's verbal fire, was between two fires when he appeared as a witness today. At the outset Mr. Richmond and Mr. Paul were friendly, but recently the clergyman accused the former accountant of misappropriating funds of the church to his own use. After Mr. Paul concluded his testimony today an effort was made by J. Wilson Bayard, counsel for the "curbstone vestry," to cross-examine him, but Judge Ferguson said he could not see the relevancy of such testimony and ended the cross-examination.

More than $5,000 had to do with the funds of the church. He said Mr. Richmond had taken charge of all collections since Easter, up to the time of Mr. Paul's handover of the funds of the church.

R. Francis Wood, secretary of the Standing Committee, was the next witness. He was called by Mr. Bayard. After the objection to this testimony had been overruled, Mr. Wood was permitted to read from the minutes of the meeting of the committee, at which it was decided to oust Mr. Richmond.

POISONED TONIC VICTIMS

Mrs. Farrell's Condition Unchanged, and Doctors Optimistic Regarding Effect of Accident

The condition of Mrs. May Farrell, who drank some nerve tonic with which bichloride of mercury had been accidentally mixed, was said to be unchanged at the Jefferson Hospital today. It is not believed that she is in serious danger. More than 25 persons who stopped at the booth in her charge at a Market street department store yesterday are believed to have sampled the poisoned tonic, but no cases of bichloride poisoning have been reported at the hospital.

Mrs. Farrell had prepared three gallons of the tonic for patrons of the store to sample. Into this she had poured a cupful of a bichloride solution, thinking it was water. The bichloride was used to sterilize the glasses used by customers. She was told by those who sampled the tonic that it was bitter, and drank some herself. When she discovered what had done she became hysterical and complained of nausea. Physicians said that, judging from the small size of the samples given to patrons, those who tasted the mixture between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning probably had small quantities of bichloride in their systems, but not enough to endanger them.

San Francisco's Mayorality Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—Mayor James Rolph, Jr., was a 19 to 7 betting favorite over Eugene E. Schmitz, who was deposed from the office of Mayor in 1907, in today's mayorality primary election. Candidates for 18 other municipal and county offices were voted on today.

WILSON STAYS IN CAR, PASSING THROUGH CITY

President Only Waves Hand Here as He Goes to Princeton for Primary Vote

President Wilson passed through Philadelphia today on his way to Princeton, N. J., to vote in the primary election. He remained in his private car while the train was halted at West Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The President took luncheon in his car.

A few railroad men had gathered on the platform when the train stopped. They cheered and the President waved his hand to them. When the President passed through Wilmington at 10:27 o'clock this morning he shook hands with several men on the platform.

Secretary Tumulty, U. I. Seem, his stenographer; Dr. Cary T. Grayson and Dr. Stockton Axson were in the Presidential party. The President made arrangements to see newspapermen in his car, after the train left the West Philadelphia station. The train arrived at Princeton at 12:33 o'clock. President Wilson will reach Washington at 6:25 o'clock tonight. He will address the G. A. R. tomorrow.

Mr. Wilson's fiscal residence in Princeton is over a grocery store on Nassau street, where he has an apartment jointly with his brother-in-law, Prof. Stockton Axson.

President Wilson voted this afternoon. He was in good spirits and walked briskly from the station to the firehouse of Engine Company No. 2, on Chambers street, as soon as he arrived. A battery of cameras and motion picture machinery was in front of the firehouse when he arrived.

President Wilson cast his vote on the Democratic primary ballot and then walked up Nassau street and over the campus. Students were at the station and grouped on the streets to meet him.

Only an hour and a half was spent here by the President and his party. He walked to the polls with Dr. Cary T. Grayson and Dr. Stockton Axson and secret service men.

Secretary Tumulty and Secretary of Commerce Redwood, who were on the train which carried the President's private car, continued on to Jersey City, where Mr. Tumulty will vote.

The President was in consultation with Mr. Tumulty during his trip here and refused to discuss the primaries, suffrage and national issues.

CARR ASKED TO LEAD THE PORTER FORCES IN INDEPENDENTS' FIGHT

Appointment of Chairman of Campaign Committee Expected to Be Made Tomorrow

George Wentworth Carr, who managed the Blankenburg campaign and who led the fight of the independents in 1912, may lead the fight to elect George D. Porter Mayor and to elect an unbossed Council this year.

The leaders of the independent movement are endeavoring to prevail upon Mr. Carr to accept the place of chairman of the Campaign Committee. According to friends of Mr. Carr, the place has been offered him, and he is now considering it. The appointment of the chairman is looked for tomorrow. The independents are hoping that Mr. Carr will take the reins in the fight, as he did in every campaign of the independents from 1906 until two years ago, but Mr. Carr's friends are urging him to stay out of it, as it would mean a personal sacrifice for him to accept, they said today.

The new party will be launched tomorrow. A definite statement to this effect was made today by members of the Public Service Committee of 106.

At noon tomorrow five men from each of the 48 wards in the city will assemble at the headquarters of the committee, 212 South Broad street, and there will sign the papers pre-empting the title of the new party in every ward. The papers for each ward will then be taken to City Hall in a group and the name of the party will be filed in just before they are filed there.

Every precaution is being taken to keep the name of the new party secret. When the Washington party was organized the name became known before the title was pre-empted, and the Republican Organization took advantage of the situation and pre-empted the title itself in some parts of the city.

The new party will be the vehicle with which the independent candidates will be placed before the voters at the general election on November 2.

TWO OF 11 ENTOMBED MINERS RESCUED

Little Hope Entertained for Other Nine Men Buried Beneath Mass of Debris

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 28.—Two of the 11 men who were pinned in a runaway of the east split of the mammoth vein of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, at Coaldale, yesterday, have been rescued alive this morning and were in good condition. The rescued man were William Watkins and George Hollywood. They attribute the cause of the fall to a drill striking through the face and opening up an old gangway, in which a great quantity of water had accumulated.

The list of those still entombed is as follows: JOHN BONER, Bull Run. The latter's brother, Elmer Boner, was killed in the same mine, and works also by a runaway. LEMER HERRON, of Coaldale. JOSEPH MURPHY, of Coaldale. JOHN McANTHREW, Coaldale. PETER McANTHREW, Coaldale. CHARLES MATKOSH, Coaldale. GEORGE LONDONIS, Coaldale. MICHAEL HARBURG, Coaldale. DOMINGO HODGKOCK, Centreville.

Four shifts of men are engaged in the work of removing the debris.

Mrs. Wigmore Replies to band's Suit With Allegation Charges

A $10,000 allegation suit against a woman who calls her affiant was answered by her husband in the divorce proceedings today. Mrs. Louise Wigmore, of 208 South 13th street, filed suit against Miss Elizabeth Hill, of 85 North Broad street, charging that she has alienated her husband's affections and wrecked her home. Mrs. Wigmore also says that her husband is at present engaged to Miss Hill, with a view to a divorce.

Mrs. Wigmore says she was deserted by her husband in 1912. She says she kept him from getting the divorce by marrying the other woman. Mrs. Wigmore has six children. She says that trouble started when her husband met Miss Hill in 1912. Judge DeLoe yesterday issued a capias for the defendant's arrest and bail was fixed at $500.

A Thirsty Argument for Perry's

Style at Perry's is a rule to which there are no exceptions, whether you pay $15.00 for a "N. B. T." garment twice that figure.

The difference between an "N. B. T." garment at $20 and at $40 is the difference between a glass of poison and a scidel—the quantity changes—the quality remains the same.

And the only fault with that figure is, the beer is a rather inappropriate beverage to associate with clothes that possess the snap and sparkle of champagne.
