FAMILY SOUND ASLEEP AS ROBBERS CART AWAY SAFE, CASH AND GEMS

Police Puzzled by Burglars' Feat in Carrying Out 500-Pound Object Without Rousing Occupants of House, Despite Boom of Operation

"Br-r-oom-m, boom-m." A 500-pound safe rumbled across the parlor floor, Unstairs a family slept.

"Cr-a-ck, rr-rr!" The safe swept aside a musty cabinet and tore off a shower of mahogany splinters. Still drums were undisturbed.

"Br-r-oom-boom." Into the hall and toward the front door the heavy safe clumped progressed. The door opened and three men emerged from the house into the dimly lighted street.

They dragged the safe down the steps and across the sidewalk to a truck. With black rags they covered it to the wagon, and, their work completed, they mounted the conveyance and drove away.

This morning Mrs. Beckie Simon and her three daughters, who live in the house at 22 Scotch Bodine street, found that the safe had disappeared with its contents of $100 in cash and $100 worth of jewelry. They reported the theft to the police of the 7th and Carpenter streets station. Traces left by the marauders, picked together from statements of neighbors, who had seen three mysterious men drive up to the house with a truck before sunrise, supplied an explanation of how the robbery was effected.

The men entered the house by breaking a kitchen window. They left the front door open when they departed with their booty.

Part of their loot, if they have succeeded in opening the safe, is the engagement ring of Lizzie Simon, one of the daughters. The safe had been kept in the parlor of the house since the death of Mrs. Simon's husband, and was a repository for money and jewels. Neighbors said they doubted that it weighed 500 pounds, and the police were incredulous as to the ability of three men to take away so heavy an object without being detected, but "weight 500 pounds" is the way it is described in the report made by the owner.

CAPTAIN ALFRED DREYFUS Now in command of a Paris fort, where he expects to rehabilitate himself in the eyes of the French army.

DREYFUS NOW COMMANDS FORT GUARDING PARIS

Hero of Famous Spy Trial Volunteers for War Duty

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Alfred Dreyfus, hero of the notorious spy trials that split France into bitter factions several years ago, has reentered the army and is now commanding one of the forts surrounding Paris.

This fact was learned today, though French officials are still reluctant to discuss Dreyfus' affairs. Dreyfus, who was a captain of artillery when he was convicted of having sold to Germany plans of a new French gun, was promoted to the rank of commandant (major) after his retrial and acquittal. He holds the same rank now.

Though he is 54 years old, Dreyfus volunteered his services at the outbreak of the war because he was eager to rehabilitate himself in the minds of any doubters. He was at once placed in command of a Paris fort, but has had no chance to distinguish himself, since the Paris forts have not been in action. According to men who know him best Dreyfus lives quietly and has but few intimates.

WALL STREET, FEARING CRASH, GIVES WARNING

Stock Exchange Calls Halt on Wild Speculation in "War Babies"—Danger Seen

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Wall street is uneasy and today shut down the brakes hard on a wildly fluctuating market.

Alarmed by the frenzy of speculation in "war babies" and with a sense of impending danger, "the Street" took measures to curb reckless speculators who have made Stock Exchange history in the last two weeks.

Brokers notified their customers that the usual margin of from 20 to 40 points were doubled. Some frankly advised their clientele to quit the game, as a crash could not be far off with the market running like a wild steer.

The Stock Exchange, officially, warned members against carrying accounts with a suitable margin was not kept up, pointing out the penalty for such breaches of exchange law. Unofficially, the exchange advised its members against carrying accounts of clients and persons whom they considered unable to withstand losses, and banks also took a hand.

Wild stories of one-minute fortunes have caused the greatest flood of speculation in the street's history and Wall street is considering the reaction even while the action is at its height.

BRITISH LOSS EXCEEDS NEW ENLISTMENTS

Volunteer System a Failure and Army Growing Smaller, Admits London Paper

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A strong article against the volunteer system of filling the British army was printed today by the Daily Express. Following so closely upon the announcement that Lord Derby, one of the leaders of the conscriptionists, has been put in charge of the recruiting service, the article is regarded as one of the utmost significance.

In referring to the heavy casualties in the recent fighting in France, the Daily Express says: "Our losses at Gallipoli and in Flanders week by week now exceed the volunteers who are entering the army. It requires a miracle to work out the inevitable sum at the end."

"It is absolutely immaterial what form the methods of filling up the ranks will take, but whatever is decided on, since voluntary enlistment is definitely known to be a failure, let it be done now without reservation or evasion."

GEM THIEF TAKES RINGS Stranger Obtains Valuable Diamonds by Trick in Lancaster Store

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 6.—A stranger yesterday called at C. E. Hinkle's jewelry store at Ephrata and requested the boy, Webster Leed, who was alone, to show him some diamond rings. Selecting two, he asked that they be put in a box.

When Leed returned with the box the stranger said he would call later for the rings. Afterward it was found he had stolen three diamond rings. He has not yet been found.

BARKER SAYS U. OF P. BOARD NEVER OFFERED NEARING YEAR'S PAY

Prominent Trustee Asserts Colleagues Did Not Authorize Provost to Take Step

Wharton Barker, a trustee of the University, questioned today, said: "No, the trustees did not vote to continue Doctor Nearing's salary."

He refused to go further into the matter, but pointed out that the statement issued by the Provost today is subject to two interpretations. The statement was: "I told the dean (McCrea) of the Wharton School that I was prepared with the approval of the trustees, to pay Doctor Nearing his full year's salary."

This, in the opinion of Mr. Barker, may be taken to mean that the provost would make the offer if he obtained the consent of the trustees. The other meaning possible is that the provost intimated the sanction of the trustees in the matter.

The statement is as follows: "First—Doctor White's statement that Doctor Nearing had been kindly and considerately asked if he could not help lessen a growing feeling (which many of us thought unjust to him) by a better adaptation of his arguments to the understanding of his audience is entirely correct. I did not ask him to modify his views of teachings as to child labor, or as to poverty, or as to any other specific view or doctrine. The whole purpose of the only interview I have had with him, which was about four years ago, was to get him to try to give no ground for some of the exaggerated misconceptions of his views. The only example discussed had reference to that recently published statement, that he had utterly lost faith in the courts and the law."

"Second—Doctor Nearing says, in a recent announcement: 'Neither the board, nor the provost, nor any officer of the board, has offered me a continuance of salary.' The fact is that on three separate occasions I told the dean of the Wharton School that I was prepared, with the approval of the trustees, to pay Doctor Nearing his full year's salary, and on each occasion the dean, speaking for Doctor Nearing, declined the offer. On one of these occasions I proposed, if Doctor Nearing objected, under the circumstances to receiving pay from the University, to draw my personal check for the full amount, but this offer was also declined.

"The proposition was made because both the trustees and I desired Doctor Nearing to understand that the fact of his resignation was not accompanied by the very least desire to injure him personally, or by any lack of appreciation of his merits."

"As a matter of fact, the record of the board shows conclusively that it has always heartily favored the fullest academic freedom. I cordially endorse the following statement made by Doctor White in his recent letter to the alumni: 'So far as I know, nothing could be more unwarranted or further from the truth than the statement that the action in the Nearing case was part of a so-called policy to carry out a reactionary policy of net free academic discussion and free of individual speech. There never has been, and never will be, any thought of such a policy at the University. There never has been, and never will be, any such action taken by the board. There is not now, and I doubt if there ever has been, an element in the board that could influence any votes toward such an end.'"

"Another important development in the affair is the stand taken by Doctor Nearing's former colleagues at a faculty meeting in College Hall last night, when it was unanimously decided to fight the 'academic freedom' issue to a finish. A committee was appointed at the suggestion of Prof. Edgar Singer, of the department of philosophy, to investigate and report on professors' tenure of office in other universities and colleges of the United States."

"Among the influential members of the faculty who opposed the stand taken by the board of trustees were Edward P. Cheyne, professor of history; Cornelius Weyandt, professor of English, and Prof. Felix Schellinger, head of the English department."

"Dean Quinn and Dean Frasier, of the college department and the engineering college, respectively, were among the prominent men who attended. Throughout the entire meeting not one word was said in defense of the board of trustees on the arbitrary stand which they have taken in the Nearing case."

"This 12-story concrete and steel structure is the highest point of development as yet attained in apartment construction and may be properly styled a perfect place of abode."

"An earnest effort has been made to offer a matchless home to those whose first consideration is not to count the cost alone, but to procure that which they desire; where there is only perfection, the size and character of which may be selected and shaped according to the distinctive requirements of the individual."

"Suites are arranged from two rooms and one bath to seven rooms and three baths."

"The location is excellent, being convenient to the business and shopping centers and yet not too near."

"All things considered, the rentals are moderate."

"Building will be formally opened November 1, 1915."

"Further information may be obtained and reservations made through NORMAN S. SHERWOOD 1411 WALNUT STREET"

REGISTRATION BOARD APPROVES CANVASS

Clinton Rogers Woodruff Praises Move in Letter to Director Dripps

Official approval of the police canvass of registered voters in Philadelphia in order to throw out fraudulent names has been given by the Board of Registration Commissioners in a letter written today by Clinton Rogers Woodruff, chairman of the board, to Robert D. Dripps, Director of the Department of Public Safety.

The board's approval of the police canvass was first instituted by George D. Porter as a surprise to politicians, for the organization's opposition to the canvass has been bitter. It was even said that an effort would be made to enjoin the police from canvassing the registry lists.

A desire to co-operate with Director Dripps' campaign against fraudulent voters, but an admission of inability to accomplish such service today, also expressed today by Mr. Woodruff.

Woodruff said the board was anxious to work with the department to eliminate fraud in registration, but that the press of other work would prevent giving much attention to the rooming-house question. Other work included placing on the lists those who were absent during the three registration days, the arranging of the lists, hearing appeals from local boards and other things.

Furthermore, wedding friends would require detective work. Woodruff said, and this the board was not ready to provide.

Up to noon today 47 names have been added to the list since the last registration day. Of this number 37 were Republicans, 2 Democrats, 2 Washington party, 2 nonpartisan and the rest scattered among small parties. Among those who got their names on the registry lists today were George W. Norris, formerly director of the Department of Welfare, Docks and Ferries; Samuel Milken, W. Linton Landreth, G. S. Benson, John Caldwell, Joseph C. Bailey and Charles W. Bailey.

World's Series Victim in Court An argument over the World's Series, the police say, was responsible for the appearance of Abe Stine, of 26 North Franklin street, before Magistrate Beaton at the Central Station today. Stine was arrested at 9th and Vine streets last night after he is alleged to have had a fight with another man who got the worst of the argument. "The prosecutor, whose name the police failed to get, did not appear against Stine and the latter was discharged."

Runaway on New York Elevated Crashes Into Crowded Car NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A runaway elevated car, traveling at high rate of speed, ended a wild dash early today by crashing into a crowded Bay Ridge car, injuring about 50 persons. None is thought to be fatally hurt.

The car was being taken out of the yards by a new motorman and it stalled. Getting down from his station, the motorman applied a "jumper" and the car lurched and whizzed away. The motorman made a futile attempt to grab the handlebars as it sped, but failed, and, unguided, the car swept on.

The guards on the elevated train saw the runaway, but were unable to avert the crash.

Eight of the injured persons were taken to hospitals. The rest were taken to their homes.

MANY HURT IN COLLISION Powder Company Head Says Real News Will Be Given Public WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 6.—On account of the many rumors of activity of the du Pont Powder Company officers and the company itself in various enterprises, Pierre S. du Pont, president of the company, before going to Scranton, Pa., where he will be married today, issued a statement of the position of the company.

He declared it would neither confirm nor deny any rumor, but when it has any information to give to the public it will notify the newspapers.

The statement was made particularly on account of the recent rumors that the company was taking over the Baldwin Locomotive Works, but it was declared that it applied with equal force to all other rumors which may become current.

Cigarette Blamed for This Fire Fire, believed to have been caused by a reckless throwing of a lighted cigarette, damaged the third floor of a dwelling house at 614 North 8th street today. The fire was discovered in the room of Mrs. Mary Sullivan during her absence. Harris Joffe, owner of the house, rushed to the top floor and made his way to the roof, where he became unconscious. He was rescued by Lieutenant Schwarzkopf, of Engine Company No. 26. Damage is estimated at $500.
