resulted from successive doubles by Cravath and Luderus in the fifth inning. Bancroft's single in the sixth was the only other hit made by the Phillies. These three safe raps represented the united efforts of Moran's champions to get to first base. Foster's pitching, plus the breaks, which continued to pile up against the Phila, was responsible for the Red the Phile, was responsible for the Red Box's victory.

Beside hurling one of the most brilliant games ever pitched in a World's Series, Poster made two singles and a double in four times up. It was his last smash to centre field in the ninth inning with two down that sent Larry Gardner over plate with the winning run.

Hooper was on first base with one own and three balls and two strikes had been called on Speaker. Tris just grazed Mayer's next pitch, which hit into the centre of Burns' glove, but Eddie dropped the ball. Speaker then singled to right, and on an attempted double steal Hooper scored when Burns dropped Nightoff's return throw to the dropped Niehoff's return throw to the plate. Had Burns held the ball he would have had Hooper by six feet. Niehoff saved further trouble after Hoblitzel had singled and started to steal by neatly picking up Burns' low throw and tag-ging Dick at second.

Another great play by Jack Barry saved Foster from trouble in the first half of the first inning. Stock and Bancroft had been retired when Paskert smashed a flerce roller through Hoblitzel, but, as usual, Barry was in the right place at the right making a spectacular stop to Foster, who covered first, re-

SECOND INNING BETTER

The second inning went by with both pitchers showing better form than in the first. In this inning Mayer fanned Lewis and Barry then knocked down Thomas' hard drive and threw him out. Foster showed a wonderful amount of stuff, fanning both Cravath and Luderus and retiring Whitted on a grounder.

In the fourth inning the Red Sox were not dangerous, although Lewis slapped a single over second, which Nichoff stopped. In their half of the round, however, the Phillies aga'n had some bad breaks. Stock started the fourth with a low fly over short. Speaker happened to be playing well into left-centre and saved a base hit for Foster by a fine running catch. Fos-ter himself saved some trouble when he covered first and retired Bancroft after Hoblitzel had fumbled the grounder. Paskert then came up and hit the ball the only solid blow the Phillies had made up to this time. The ball speed on a dead line toward the flagpole, but again for-tune favored the Red Sox, for Hooper was playing not only far back, but also up in centre field territory, consequently he was able to make the cutch on Pas-

Whitted had one strike called, when he was hit by a pitched ball, but, unfortunately, the ball also hit his bat, and instead of there being runners on first and second with nobody down, there was only one man on after Whitted had grounded out. The second break in this inning came then Nichoff hit a sizzling liner on thich it appeared that Luderus would likewise the third. Then Luderus struck out on the same kind of a ball that fooled Cravath. Whitted made no effort to hit the first pitched ball, and it went for a strike. The second was wide of the plate and the third, too low. The next was high and outside. The next pitch cut the plate for a strike. Whitted hit to Scott, whose throw heat him to first. No runs, no blts, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Foster drew two balls out of the first three pitched him; he fouled the fourth, making the count even. The next heave was outside of the plate. Foster missed the next pitch. Burns dropped the ball. but picked it up and threw to Luderus in ample time to retire the Red Sox pitcher. Hooper fouled off the first two. Mayer then tried to work him and two balls followed; Hooper then fanned. Mayer gave Scott a strike and a ball in succession. The Boston shortstop misses the next one cleanly, and the next one he missed by a foot, and the side was re-tired. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Niehoff saw the first ball glide over the Niehoff saw the lift on gine over the plate for a strike and then fouled one into the seats. Foster then iried to work Niehoff with two wide curves and then he let two go by. The next the umpire called a strike and Niehoff had fainted. Burns grounded to Hoblitzel. Foster covered the base and took the throw, retires him. With the count two and two ing him. With the count two and two Foster sent another of his tricky curves over the plate and Mayer made no effort to handle it, the umpire calling him out on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Speaker was quickly disposed of on a high fly to Bancroft. Mayer slipped over a strike on Hoblitzell, then served up three balls in succession: Hobby then hit to Luderus, who gobbled up the ball and then ran to the base, putting him out.

Niehoff ran over second base and scooped up Lewis' grounder, but the Bos-ton outfielder easily beat the throw to first and was credited with a hit. Boston tried the hit-and-run play, but Gardner fouled to the stand. Whitted then made a pretty running catch of Gardner's fly wn the left foul line. No runs, one hit

The hend of the Phillies batting order was up again in this inning. The crowd started cheering and calling for a run. Slock lifted a fly over shortstop tha looked good for a hit, but Speaker came in and made a neat catch. Bancroft hit to Hoblitzel. Again he fumbled the ball. but Foster covered the bag and he recov ered the ball in time to retire the batter Paskert slashed a liner to right centre t another one of Boston's great fielders, Hooper, cut over close to the bleachers, snatching the ball. PIFTH INNING

Stock made a beautiful play of Barry's grounder, taking the ball over the bag and beating him to first by an accurate throw. After giving Thomas a ball, Mayer served up twpo strikes. The next was too close, and it was called a ball. Again Stock made a good play on Thomas's grounder. His throw to first beat the atcher by a step.

Foster waited patiently until he had the count, 3 and 1. The next was a strike. Poster made the first long hit of the series, hitting the ball high up against the right-field fence for two bags. Mayer purposely walked Hooper to take a chance on Scott. The wisdom of this was proved, as Scott filed out to Whitted. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Foster gave Cravath two balls. The big slugger then watched the next slip over for a strike. The next ball Cravath lined over third base for a double, the feet by of the game for the Phillips, and lined over third base for a double, the first hit of the game for the Phillies, and the crowd went wild. Laderus was careful, and allowed the first pitch to pass, it being a ball. He then fouled into the stand. Again Luderus fouled, giving the pitcher the advantage of two strikes. Luderus sent the crowd up cheering wildly when he bit against the blencher wall in centre field for a double, acorting Cravath and tying the score.

Whitted played the same properly when he tried to marrifice Luderus to third, but he tried to sacrifice Luderus to third, but the bunt rolled fool. The next pitch was wild and Foster bit Whitted, but the ball hit his bat and it was called a strike. Whitted then hit to Scott, who tossed him out at first, Luderus moving up to third. Nichoff lined a terrific hit straight into Hoblitsel's hand, a fortunate break for the Red Sex. Luderus managed to scramble back to third.

Foster's spit ball almost hit Burns in the head. The Phillies' little catcher fouled the next into the stand and then put another into the seats, and Foster had the advantage. Foster then sent Burns back to the bench with a high curve that the Phillies' catcher missed cleanly. One run, two bits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Spenker went out on a high fly to Ban-croft. Hoblitzel was careful and, after missing the first strike, waited while Mayor gave him three balls. Another strike followed through the centre of the plate. Hoblitzel then went out on a tow-ering fly to Niehoff. Duffy Lewis hit the first ball pitched high up into the left-held stand for a foul. He again hit at the first ball, but missed it by a foot. He then struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Harry tossed Mayer out at first. Foster Harry tossed hayer out at first. Foster settled down and gave Stock two strikes in succession, one bing a foul. The next was clear over his bead. He hit what looked like a safe drive to right, but there. The first ball pitched to Bancroft was a strike. A ball followed.

Bancroft made the Phillies third hit, a PENN LOSES 13-3 GAME Texas Leaguer over Barry's head. Pas-kert drew a ball on the first try. On the hit and run play, Gardner knocked down Paskert's smash and threw him out at first. No. runs. One hit. No errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Gardner flied out to Whitted. On the first ball pitched Jack Barry slipped a nice single over Stock's head. The Boston tried the hit and run play, but Mayer defected Thomas' hit into aBncroft's hand and Bancreft threw to Niehoff, forcing

Foster again came through for Boston dropping a hit over Bancroft's head. Janvin was sent in to run for Thomas. Hooper sent a dinky hit to the right of the box and beat the throw to first and the bases were filled. Henrikaen was then sent in to bat for Scott. The first ball pitched to Hen-riksen was a strike. Mayer saved the situation by making Henriksen pop to Luderus. No runs, three hits, no errors. Luderus. No runs, three hits, no errors. "Cady was sent in to catch and Janvrin at short for Boston. Cravath took an awful swing and missed Foster's offering and fouled the second one into Cady's glove. The next was close and high and he fanned on three pitched balls. Luderus also passed up the first strike. He then filed out to Hooper. With the count one and one, Whitted fouled one in the bleachers and waited till the count was three and two and fouled into the stand. He then sent another foul into stand. He then sent another foul into the stand and then he sent a high foul which fell into Cady's hand for the third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Luderua fileided Speaker's grounder to Mayer in time to retire the Boston alugger. Hobbitzel looked over two balls, but the third was a strike. He then hit to the right-field wall, but Cravath pulled it down with his back to the boards. Duffy Lewis hit the first ball over second be. Lewis hit the first ball over second base, but Bancroft made the stellar play of the game when he snatched it on a full run with be gloved hand and whipped it to first in time to retire the runner. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Gardner smothered Niehoff's hard smash and beat him to first with his throw. January can out into centre field.

throw. Janyrin ran out into centre field to take Burns' short fly. Mayer fouled the first two balls pitched, and then sent a high fly to Speaker. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Mayer sent over two successive strikes on Gardner, Maher then served three balls. Gardner tapped the next over Stock's head for a single. Barry tried twice to bunt, but both times the ball rolled foul on the first-base line. Mayer wasted the next, thinking Gardner would steal, but he never moved. Barry then flied to Paskert, Gardner remaining at first.

Janvrin was next up, batting for Thomas, whose place he had taken in the Janvrin dumped a hit thomas, whose place he had taken in the latting order. Janvrin dumped a hit down in the field and Mayer barely got it to first is time to retire him. The sun then came out and the game was then stopped while black glasses were brought out to Cravath. Foster then produced his third hit of the game to centre and Garders, lead home which put the Red. ner raced home, which put the Red Sox in the lead, Foster going to second on the throw in to the plate. WILSON AND HIS FIANCEE GET BIG OVATION AT PARK

Great Outburst of Cheers and Applause Greets Mrs. Galt

PRESIDENT ALL SMILES

By M'LISS

The baseball world like all the rest loves a lover; loves him vociferously, loves him with screaming, shouting oices, frenziedly waving arms and stamping, thumping feet. More than 19,000 fans, one of the largest audiences President Wilson has ever faced, rose to their feet with wild hurrahs when he entered the ball park at $:04 o'clock with Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt and their party, and took their places in the box between President Baker's and Mayor Blankenburg's, decorated in honor of the Chief Executive and his flances.

A President who not only loves but loves the great American game, and has had the good taste to pick out for the future first indy of the land, one who is an ardent baseball enthusiast, was bound to "get" the crowd, and for at least five minutes after the presidential procession had made its appearance, the big fact that the second game of a world series was to come off became a forgotten fact.

was to come off became a forgotten fact.

More than 25,000 eyes were glued on the President to see just what sort of a lover he made after all. Wilson the President, the Governor, the college professor, and Wilson the man, are known quantities, but Wilson in the role of lover was something that Philadelphia and its visitors have been waiting for.

In a midnight-blue tailleur, with black satin underbodice and sleeves, and in a satin underbodice and sleeves, and in a broad-brimmed black velvet hat trimmed with a band of fur and a feather ornament, the Virginia beauty made a picture which those who saw her will never forget. Although the couple have done nothing but deplore the publicity to which they have been subjected, their whole attitude today seemed to say "We're going to have a good time today and forget to have a good time today and forget that we're persons of consequence who ought to be very dignified and not show their happiness.

As they made their way to the box the band struck up. "Tipperary." The crowd yelled even louder than it had been yelling before. The President's light felt hat was off in a second. He kept it off. Mrs.
Galt smiled and those who thought she gard looking before now held was merely good looking before now held their breath at the beauty of that smile. The tvory white of her beautiful teeth enhanced the brilliance of her complexon and made her a vision of sheer love-

Like school children very much in love with each other and not caring who knows of it, the pair proceeded down the the secret service men. Halfway down the President took hold of his flancee's arm and she blushed a flery red and smiled again. The McAdoos followed them, looking equally as happy and lover-

like.
Mayor Blankenburg, who arrived before the presidential party, arose when they entered their box, and President Wilson, after greeting him cordially, presented Mrs. Bolling and Mrs. Gait. The latter took the sent nearest the Mayor's box and chatted amiably with him, while the President assisted Mrs. Bolling to a seat. They were followed by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, Secretary Joseph Tumulty, the Misses Smith, of New Orleans, cousins of the President, who are guests at the White House, and Colonel E. T. Brown, cousin of the first Mrs. Wilson. The party occupied two front boxes and one in the Hardly had the party seated itself and the fans become quiet before the feminine part of the crowd began to utter ecstatic murmurs over the brilliant beauty of Mrs. Gait. Her rich coloring, set off to advan-tage by her dark hat and costume, her deep brown eyes flashing with the ex-citement of the uproarious reception she had received, the President's finnees proved herself every inch the beauty that the reports have said her to be.

Many necks were craned in an endeavor-to get a glimpse of the engagement ring which was purchased in New York this morning. It is known to be a beautiful solitaire of startling proportions set in platinum, but the fans were not given a peep at it, for Mrs. Galt kept the be-trothal finger well hidden in her lap.

The President seemed to divide his in-terest between the game and his fiances, with the preponderance of attention in favor of the lady. The game had scarcely begun before the President-lover switched his chair to as affectioners. begun before the President-Jover switched his chair to an affectionate proximity to that of Mrs. Galt's and whenever there was a particularly thrilling run he patted her arm with a gentle little love tap to call her attention to it. She, in turn never failed to respond with a smile that showed she didn't mind in the least.

The Superb, the President's car, arrived at Broad Street Station at 2 minutes of 1 this afternoon. The party was ctill at luncheon when the train came to a stop under the trainshed, and they did not alight. At 1:06 Secretary and Mrs. McAdoc came up from Westle. McAdoo came up from Washington with the Misses Smith and Colonel Brown, and they went immediately to the car. Later the presidential party went to the ball ground.

When Paskert's fly to Speaker ended the same the Chief Executive arose and 20,000 rooters removed their hats while a band crashed out "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then the presidential party, surrounded by secret service men, went out through the press gate, where another huge throng awaited.

The police, however, had cleared the street for a radius of 100 feet 20 minutes before the same anded to "Great!" was the word used by the President when asked how he enjoyed

President when asked how he enjoyed the game.

"Very much," smiled his fiancee. Both bowed and smiled repeatedly as the cheering crowd yelled its approval, President Wilson standing in his car and holding his hat aloft. Then a screen of mounted police surrounded the car and it moved rapidly away, followed by six other cars in the party.

As in the story books, the lovers beat the crowd to Broad Street Station, where 200 persons were waiting for a glimpse of them. They were ushered up the private stairway to the trainshed and hastened into the private car Superb.

President Wilson and Mrs. Gait then appeared on the back platform and bowed to the crowd, the President entwining his arm in his fiances's. In this position they waved addes to Philadelphia at 5.25 p. m., as the train pulled out slowly for Washington.

FOSTER PRAISED BY BOTH SIDES AS GAME WINNER

Luck Helped Him, Says Phil Manager-Proud of Beaten Team

CARRIGAN EXPECTED IT

NATIONAL LEAGUE BASEBALL PARK, Oct. S.—Manager Moran declared his pride in the Phillies, despite the defeat, while the throng still cheered. Re and Captain Luderus said Foster's superb work and bad breaks explained it. Manager Carrigan said the victory was what he had expected when luck was even. He credited Foster with a hig share in the victory.

Jack Barry, the Sox captain, praise Foster.

Foster.

Jack Barry: "All the credit of today's game should be given to Foster. The Phillies only hit him three times and he neither walked a man nor hit a batteria. Our fellows played with a lot more giograted by than they did yesterday. I feel that this victory ought to offset the loss of yesterday's game and give us a man better chance to win out, as the next two games will be played in Boston." Carrigan: "I was sure after years day's game that we would win tolar with Foster in the box. Everything was against us in the first game, but the afternoon, when we were favored by a few fortunate circumstances, we say able to win and do it decisively. Foster pitched a wonderful game, and deserves a world of credit for both his olteriors.

world of credit for both his pitching and batting Pat Moran: "It was a tough one for us Fat Moran: 'It was a tough one for us to lose. The fellows fought hard and showed that they are a game bunch of ball players. I am proud of them even in defeat, for they played a brand of bashall that could not fail except against the most exceptional pitching and had breaker.

brenka. Luderus: "We must credit Foster for pitching a fine game. At the same time those who were in the stands could not those who were in the stands could be fall to have seen that the breaks seen all against us. In the fifth inning when I was on third after Cravath had scored I was on the country of on my double nothing would have been more discouraging nor worse luck than for Niehoff's hard drive going into Hoblitzel's hands. If that ball had gone a couple of feet either way I would have scored, and there is no telling where the rally would have ended."
