Marchers Decide to Wear Dark Skirts and Yellow Sashes and Carry Oriental Lanterns

Washington Woman and "Suffrage Beauty" to Help Deliver Final Blows for Vote

The dress question for the suffrage parade and pageant on October 22 was decided at a board meeting of the Equal Franchise Society held at headquarters, 25 South 5th street, yesterday.

Dark suits and hats will be worn and each marcher in the Equal Franchise brigade will wear a bright yellow sash and yellow pom-pom on the left side.

Bright yellow Japanese lanterns will be carried in the right hands. The equal franchise contingent will muster at 13th and Moore streets. The hour is 6:45 p. m.

The parade will be headed by an automobile section under the direction of the Equal Franchise Society. Arrangements are being made for an unusually large number of bands.

Mrs. Antoinette Fank has completed plans for the suffrage rally which will be held in West Chester tomorrow night. Mrs. Mary Manning Gash has sent word from Washington that she will arrive within a day or two to help in the cause until election day.

She will be the guest of Mrs. George A. Dunning, of West Chester. Mrs. George A. Piersol will address a meeting next Friday in the home of Mrs. J. C. Gabriel in Oak Lane.

The last call to arms before election has brought several more zealous workers into the ranks of the local suffragists. All are hopeful of the final result and have expressed the determination to work almost day and night continuously until the great day in the Pennsylvania suffrage calendar, November 2.

Mrs. Elizabeth Methuen, of Uniontown, and Miss Louise Hall, of Harrisburg, are among the workers who recently joined the ranks of the Equal Franchise Society. Although new to the work in this city, both have been active for the suffrage cause. Miss McShane is unusually attractive and has been mentioned as one of the "suffrage beauties." She feels sure of victory in Pennsylvania. After the election, she will resume her study of law.

Miss Hall toured with the suffrage liberty bell through 50 counties of the State.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE ON LAWN

Husband Finds Wife Dead on Return From Work

Mrs. Minnie Hamberger, 31 years old, was found unconscious on the lawn of her home on Derouss avenue, Delair, N. J., with a bullet in her head, at 8 o'clock last night. She died two hours later. The woman was found by her husband, Charles H. Hamberger, Jr., who only an hour or so before had telephoned to his wife from his place of business in this city and asked her to accompany him to a theatre. The husband says his wife complained of feeling ill and declined the invitation.

Upon going home, the husband says, he went upstairs, but could not find his wife. His revolver case was empty. He said he then went into the yard and discovered her. The revolver was only a short distance away. Hamberger summoned his neighbors and Doctor Whitzy, of Riverton.

The police regard as peculiar that a note, which had evidently been once pinned to the woman's dress, was missing and only a small scrap of the missive was found when the lawn was searched. A pin with which the note was fastened was also recovered. Announcement of the tragedy was made by the Camden authorities today.

The husband says his wife has been despondent ever since their baby died. Coroner Schroder issued a certificate of suicide.

KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO

Pedestrian Bewildered by Traffic on Intersection Suffers Serious Injuries

John Diehl, 50 years, of 2036 Ridge avenue, is in a critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital as the result of being struck by an automobile at Ridge and College avenues last night. He became confused in the midst of heavy traffic, the police said.

Jacob H. Smith, of 727 South 12th street, who drove the machine which hit Diehl, took the injured man to the hospital and then surrendered to the police of the 19th and Oxford streets station. He will have a hearing tomorrow before Magistrate Morris.

Diehl has a compound fracture of the leg and other serious injuries.

EVA BOOTH ANSWERS CRITIC OF "ARMY"

Leader of Salvationists in America Says Organization Has Great Work to Perform

"Go into the byways and highways and help those who need it."

This advice was given by Miss Eva Booth, daughter of the late General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, in an address today before the officers of the Army, in council at the Chambers-Wyke Memorial Presbyterian Church, Broad street below Spruce.

Miss Booth took issue with the Rev. Charles Spurgeon, the noted divine, who said that the Salvation Army brought religion into contempt, and declared that the Army reached a large class of people whom the churches could not reach.

"Instead of being too common, as the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon said," she declared, "it is not common enough to do the work mapped out for it. We should bear in mind to conduct our meetings in a way that would appeal to the mind and soul of the people we approach."

"We should also be more careful in the selection of hymns. Sing salvation hymns. Often you can sing people to Heaven quicker than you can preach them there. And hold more open-air meetings."

Topics of great importance to the future of the work in the East and South are also being discussed at the meeting.

The council followed an elaborate reception in the 5th and Vine streets citadel last night, when Captain Edith Marie Holz, commander of the province, and Captain Claude E. Bates, of West Chester, spoke. Colonel Holz officiated. The entire afternoon will be occupied with councils and tonight there will be a public council by soldiers and former soldiers.

Miss Booth, commander of the soldiers of America, is presiding at the sessions. Sunday night she is to give her famous lecture on her father's life.

Miss Booth said that the European war has offered great opportunities for work by the Salvationists. There are now more than 15,000 of the men and women with the troops of the different warring nations at the front. In Germany, as well as Belgium and France, the Army is well represented, according to Commander Booth.

Other speakers at today's session were Colonel John Dean, of New York, formerly principal of the International Teachers' College, of London; Colonel James Margetta, young persons' secretary who spoke on "The Boy Problem," and Colonel A. M. Daman, national field secretary.

J. W. CONVERSE SETTLES SUIT

Long Litigation in Accident Case Ends by Mutual Agreement of Parties

A verdict for the defendant, by agreement was rendered today in Court of Common Pleas No. 5, after several years of litigation in the case of John L. Douglas and his son, John L. Douglas, Jr., against John W. Converse, noted polo player. Mr. Converse's horse trampled young Douglas on June 30, 1909, after playing over the low boundary fence of a polo field at Devon.

The verdict followed the decision of Judge Frazer in the Superior Court that the case should be decided by a jury. It had been non-suited previously by the lower court on the ground that the complainant failed to prove negligence on the part of the defendant. The terms of the settlement today were not made public.

Alleged "Dope" Peddler Held

Sam Ash, of 10th and Winter streets, known in the Tenderloin as the "King of the Cokes," according to the police, was held under $1000 bail for court by Commissioner Edmunds in the Federal Building today, accused of peddling heroin and cocaine. Several witnesses testified that they had seen Ash attempting to sell "dope" to employees of the du Pont Powder Company at Pennagrove, N. J.

SHRINERS KIDNAP BRIDE AND HUSBAND IN AUTO

Newlyweds Thought They Were Sure to Miss Train, but Just Caught It

Mystic Shriners, attired in the uniform of their order, dragged a bridegroom from his auto and kidnaped a bride, following an exciting auto chase down Broad street. This was all part of the wedding festivities of Charles G. Cope and Miss Edna Spangler Kohn, who were married yesterday under the auspices of the Mystic Shrine.

Husband and wife started from the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson Kohn, 2363 East Dauphin street, with a certainty that they would have a peaceful trip to Broad Street Station, where they were to board a train for New York.

The Shriners were there in numbers. Among them were Receiver of Taxes W. Freeland Kendrick and Superintendent of Police Robinson. The bridal auto had scarcely turned the corner when a band of other autos started in pursuit. A merry chase followed down Broad street. After many squares had been traversed bride and bridegroom were captured.

They dragged the protesting bridegroom from the auto and whisked him in another machine out to Fairmount Park. Meanwhile the happy bride was being taken out along the Northeast Boulevard in ignorance of the whereabouts of her husband. And both of them had in mind that they had to catch a train, and they knew that railroads don't wait.

But just as they were beginning to despair of ever catching the train, their captors started to spin southward. The happy bride and the happy bridegroom were destined to meet again. They ran into each other in Broad Street Station just in time to catch the train for New York, from where they left for Bermuda.

The wedding was a Shriners' affair throughout. The couple first met at the Lulu Country Club, at Edge Hill. The bridegroom, like many of the guests, wore the colorful uniform of the Shriners. The marriage was performed by the Rev. H. Watson Barras, of the Frankford Avenue Baptist Church. Miss Jennie Biggin was bridesmaid and J. Lodge Nicholson best man. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cope will live at 5403 Angora terrace.

MRS. GALT RETIRES BEHIND THE VEIL OF DOMESTIC PRIVACY

President's Fiancee Annoyed by Circulation of Rumors Concerning Plans for Wedding

TRACED TO VISITORS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The bars are up to casual callers at the home of Mrs. Norman Galt, President Wilson's fiancee. This is due to two reasons. First, and naturally foremost, is the desire on the part of the mistress of the home to complete her trousseau, on which expert Washington designers are hard at work. The second reason is a desire to secure the privacy which both President Wilson and Mrs. Galt believe highly desirable at the present time.

It is reported that a number of rumors regarding the plans of the engaged couple which have been given circulation and have caused Mrs. Galt annoyance have been directly traced to persons who called at the Galt home in the guise of intimate friends. Because of this, announcement was made today that hereafter all information regarding the plans of either the President or Mrs. Galt will be made public at the White House executive office.

Mrs. Galt and her mother, Mrs. William Bolling, personally are directing the completion of the trousseau. It is stated that it is the intention of Mrs. Galt, following her wedding, to discard to a great extent the dark colors which have been associated with her for the last seven years, but she maintains a sphinx-like attitude when questioned as to her favorite colors.

President Wilson sends a magnificent bouquet of roses to his fiancee daily. Despite the fact that the White House conservatories are fairly jammed with blooms of the rarest character, the President purchases the flowers for his fiancee at a local florist's, as was his custom before the formal announcement of the engagement was made. The next public appearance of the engaged pair will be on Saturday of this week, when they are to be present at an out-of-door demonstration in honor of the various public bands which delighted the Washingtonians with concerts during the summer.

Police Seek Thieves Who Robbed Mill

The Germantown police are searching today for thieves who entered the Crossingham Knitting Mill, at 24 Ashmead street, last night. The extent of the thefts has not yet been discovered. A few articles were missing this morning and stock was thrown around and strewn throughout the building. Entry was effected by climbing on a shed, by means of packing boxes, and prying open a second-story window with a jimmy.

You can be sure your milk is wholesome

WHOLESMENESS can't be put into a food product. Milk to be at its best must be wholesome from the source—must come from healthy herds. Science has devised the tuberculin test so that you may know that the cows are healthy. There is no other sure means—and for that reason we have seen to it that every herd from which comes Fairmount Farms Milk is tuberculin-tested.

We do not know of any other milk selling in Philadelphia at the price of which this may be said. Make sure of absolutely wholesome, health-giving, nourishing milk, by stopping the Supplee wagon today.

POLICE WORKERS HAMPERED BY LACK OF FUNDS

Department Employees Spent $8000 of Their Own Money in Work

Special officers of the Department of Public Safety are creditors of the city to the extent of $8000, because of money they have taken from their own pockets to pay salaries and other expenses while engaged in the task of obtaining evidence against criminals.

This unusual situation is fast becoming a custom, as Councils have repeatedly failed to provide for criminal work and for special investigations of gambling and disorderly houses. Because of this situation the heads of criminal investigations have been compelled to go ahead with the small fund obtainable and to make up the deficit themselves.

At the beginning of the year an appropriation of $12,000 was asked for investigation expenses and only $3000 was allowed. Far larger sums than the one asked for this year have been appropriated under previous administrations.

Last year the same trouble was encountered and the officers who advanced their expenses out of their own funds were compelled to wait many months until their expenditures were provided for in a deficiency bill. This condition has been repeatedly referred to by Mayor Blankenburg in messages to Councils.

The members of the Finance Committee of Councils are thoroughly conversant with this situation, but as yet have taken no steps to pay the officers or to provide any funds for expenses and investigation work to be made between now and the close of the year.

Breaks Leg in Fall From Wagon

A street torn up by workmen today caused Walter Van Sandt, 25 years old, 2509 North Opal street, to break his leg, when he fell from the milk wagon he was driving, on Germantown avenue near Dauphin street. He was taken to the Episcopal Hospital in a police patrol. Van Sandt is an employe of Charles Gross, a milk dealer, 212 Westmoreland street.
