

RED MEN WIGWAMS OFFICIAL DEDICATION

Teocco Tribe's New Start in Get-a-Member Moon—Dakota Anso. at Paconta

Teocco Tribe dedicated its new wigwam on the last sleep before a gathering of several hundred red men. The room was elaborately decorated and dedicated in a highly interesting way by Chattahoochee Tribe, Past Sachem L. P. Kurts and his suite receiving hearty commendation. Using the four principles of the order, "Freedom, Friendship, Charity and Union," they extended their best wishes for the welfare of the tribe.

Past Sachem Bunn, of Teocco Tribe, acting chairman, then turned the proceedings over to Oagee Tribe, who raised the chiefs in a creditable manner. Past Sachem Joe, in his address, said that the Teocco Tribe and its suite performed the work in a short form and were highly commended.

Brother Bunn made an address of welcome and introduced as the speaker for the evening in words of praise Past Sachem Harry Reinhardt, Chief of Records of Teocco Tribe, who made an address on the advancement of the tribe during the last year, showing how, with no money in their wigwam, they worked with progressive spirit until they owned their own wigwam and accumulated a large treasury.

Past Sachem L. P. Kurts declined the offer for a speech in favor of Sachem L. Oberger, who is quite an orator in his tribe, and who delivered a great address on the perpetuation of the lives of the American Indian.

Past Sachem Joseph Leake, captain of Oagee Tribe and the newly elected leader of the wigwam, extended congratulations to the Teocco Tribe. He related a humorous story. Great Sachem Joseph Leake, who is a member of the Teocco Tribe, related a humorous story. Great Sachem Joseph Leake, who is a member of the Teocco Tribe, related a humorous story.

Teocco Tribe had an interesting meeting with a few inactive members present at the last sleep. Brother Chris Encheffler, an old member, related from his home in East Kansas that the members of the Dakota Association were present.

The membership contest during the night of its allotted time the workers are striving to have the largest number of names on the list for tomorrow's election and the "dedication degree" will be performed. Members are urged to attend early and take part on the team if possible.
