

VARES ARE MICE, NOT MEN, MAYOR TELLS DOWNTOWN

Should Rise Up and Say "We Think More of Honor Than Contracts," Blankenburg Tells Big Audience

PORTER SEES VICTORY

Mayor Blankenburg and George D. Porter, independent candidate for Mayor, last night invaded the Vares stronghold of South Philadelphia, and received ovations that rivaled those given Blankenburg in 1911.

Both the Mayor and Mr. Porter fired more broadsides into the Organization camp. The Mayor asserted that "if the Vares were men and not mice they would rise up and say we think more of our honor than contracts, and ask you to vote the straight Franklin party ticket."

Mr. Porter asserted that the Republican Organization had sent out word to every ward leader that there was no hope for the "yellow dog" tickets and that they should throw every vote that could be controlled or gained direct to the Organization candidates. He said the Organization was making a last desperate effort to pull its ticket through.

The Mayor made his first appearance of the evening at Turner Hall, Dickson street and Point Breeze avenue, where more than 1500 voters had packed the auditorium. Previous to the rally 1200 members of the George D. Porter Club, headed by Walter Ward, paraded the streets in the Vares ballwick. He then proceeded to Fraternal Hall, 178 Jackson street, which was filled to overflowing. Mr. Porter, upon his arrival at that place, addressed more than 250 men who were unable to gain admittance to the hall.

Mr. Porter before invading the so-called Vares wards addressed several hundred members of the U. S. of A. in the Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church, York and Sopris streets. He then spoke to more than 500 men in Garrick Hall, 557 Street in front of New City and Fraternal Hall. He concluded his speech-making for the evening before the big assemblage at Turner Hall.

"When the polls close on November 2," said Mr. Porter, "I do not intend to be a dictator or boss. I want to be the servant of the people."

"If any further assurance were needed by the independents of Philadelphia that they are going to win next Tuesday by an overwhelming majority, that assurance was contained in the action taken late this afternoon by the Organization leaders. It requires a little recital of recent political history.

"At the opening of this contest, when the Organization believed it had a walk-over, its leaders entered into an agreement with certain in-partisan Republicans, whereby 6000 votes were to be thrown into columns other than the Republican, in an effort to elect not only the Organization's slate, but the minority offices, such as magistrates and county commissioner, as well."

"That was the fond dream of the contractor boss two weeks ago. But let this change of front: this sudden realization of their dire peril—which is more than a peril, and is a certainty."

"This afternoon the Organization leaders ordered that every vote that could be controlled or gained by thrown direct to the Organization candidates. Every deal by which it had hoped to elect arrogant men to minority offices was called off."

"The word was sent out to every ward leader that from today every ounce of energy, every argument, every persuasion, was to be used in a desperate effort to pull the Organization ticket through."

"It means that the Democratic adjunct of the contractors' machine has already been abandoned to its own obscure and well-justified fate."

"It means not only that the Franklin party ticket is already elected, but that the Franklin party will also elect two County Commissioners—George F. Holmes and Andrew F. Pfaff."

"It means that the voters of this city—the freemen of Philadelphia—will elect their own magistrates, and that the minority party representatives in the minor judiciary will be men nominated and elected by the people, and not the puppets of the contractors' Organization."

"It means, too, that the price of Dr. Clarence Gibbons' recent pitiable contributions to the Gang case, which price was the re-election of Frank J. Gorman as minority County Commissioner, has been withdrawn, and that Gorman, along with the others, goes into the discard in this last desperate effort of the machine to elect its own ticket."

$5000 IN JEWELS STOLEN WHILE THEIR OWNERS DINE

Thieves Force Entrance to Home of Broker in Oak Lane

Jewelry valued at $5000 was stolen from the residence of Newton P. Jackson, 16th street and Oak lane, a broker with offices in the Real Estate Trust Building, by thieves who looted the second story of the house while the family was at dinner and made their escape by leaping from the veranda roof. The theft, which occurred last night, was reported today to the police of the Branchtown station.

The thieves ransacked the rooms of Mrs. Jackson and her daughter, Miss Ruth Jackson, seeking some found in jewel cases. Apparently they were frightened away when Mrs. and Miss Jackson went upstairs after dinner. The rooms were in disorder.

The screen at one of the windows was broken through from the inside, indicating that the thieves forced it hastily from the inside and climbed through to the roof, leaping to the ground.

District Detective Bramwell, of the Branchtown station, who is working on the case, said today that an arrest was expected.

The residence of Mrs. T. Jeffries, 1808 De Lancey street, was entered by a thief who forced a dining room window and escaped with $300 worth of silverware.

A cellar window gave entrance to a thief who stole in cash from the home of Eber Speakman, 124 South Markoe street.

Four automobiles were stolen from Dr. Edwin J. Klatt, 122 Spruce street, from in front of his residence, and from William Bacharach, of 554 North 2nd street, while he was calling at 23d street and Columbia avenue.

FISH DEALER DIES SUDDENLY

Isidor Levin, Stricken as He Starts to Eat Lunch, Succumbs in Patrol While on Way to Hospital

Isidor Levin, of Merion, a wealthy fish dealer, fell unconscious today in Hook-hammer's restaurant, 125 Walnut street, today as he was eating himself for lunch and died on the way to the Jefferson Hospital. Mr. Levin, who was 50 years old, was associated with his brother, Isidore Levin, in the firm of S. H. Levin & Sons, salt fish and canned goods dealers, 30 South Delaware avenue.

Mr. Levin had just entered the restaurant, accompanied, when he tottered and fell. The place was crowded and several persons went to his assistance. The patrol wagon of the 3d and Lehigh streets station started to hurry him to the Jefferson Hospital. Physicians at the hospital said death was due to heart trouble.

'SUFFRAGE LEDGER,' LIVE WIRE PAPER, IS DISTRIBUTED BY FAIR "NEWSIES"

More Than 100,000 Copies of Equal Franchise Society's Publication Given Away on the Streets to Aid the Cause of "Votes for Women"

Have you seen a copy of the Suffrage Ledger? It's a little snappy, live-wire, up-to-date newspaper issued by the Equal Franchise Society. More than 100,000 copies are being distributed on the streets of Philadelphia today. Copies will be distributed gratis until nightfall of election day.

The first copies were greeted with enthusiasm when a boy of fair average "newsies" took up the distribution process on Market street. The three leading Suffragettes, the head reads. Many copies of the "Suffrage Ledger" will be distributed at the big open-air suffrage rally at Broad and Sansom streets tonight when Miss Helen Todd will explain what 4,000,000 Western women voters have done with the ballot. The suffrage transparency wagon will be on hand to illustrate just how voters should mark the ballot on November 2.

PRESIDENT WILL WED MRS. GALT NOV. 15, INTIMATE FRIENDS SAY

Ceremony Will Take Place at the Home of Next First Lady of the Land, It Is Believed

NO WORD FROM WILSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Monday, November 15, 1915, 6 o'clock in the evening: the home of Mrs. Norman Galt, 1306 20th street, northwest, Washington, D. C. will be the date, time and place of the wedding of Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States and Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, according to intimate friends of both families who discussed the matter in confidence today.

No announcement regarding the wedding of the President and Mrs. Galt, however, seem to bear the date of November 15, especially the flat statement that Dr. Cary F. Grayson, the President's most intimate friend and physician, has canceled an engagement to address a medical society in Dallas, Texas, the week before.

At the White House it was said: "No announcement regarding the time or place of the wedding has yet been authorized. The President will not permit any statement at this time."

Despite this noncommittal statement, leading Democrats who are arranging for the meeting of the National Committee here December 7 made it plain that they have learned that one of the big features of the meeting will be a reception at the White House by the President and the new "First Lady of the Land" at that time.

PRESIDENT, MRS. GALT AND PARTY ON AUTO TRIP

Wilson and Fiancee Turn Up Unexpectedly at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 30.—President Wilson and his fiancee, Mrs. Galt, made an unexpected visit to Annapolis today, accompanied by Mrs. Galt's brother, Dr. Cary Grayson and five Secret Service men.

They motored over from Washington in two machines and lunched at Carvel Hall. Later the entire party visited the State House and made a reception at the Governor's residence, where they invited them to accompany him to the football game.

President Wilson declined, with thanks, saying the party was simply out on a pleasure jaunt. The automobiles left here at 2:30, presumably bound for Baltimore.

ENDS LIFE TO AVOID ARREST

Man Accused of Wife Beating Shoots Himself as Sheriff Approaches With a Warrant

A man who preferred to die rather than suffer the disgrace of being arrested for beating his wife blew out his brains today just as his wife entered the house at 257 North 17th street, Philadelphia.

Selv and his wife Anna had a quarrel on Tuesday, and, according to the police, he shot her out of the house with her two children. She went to the home of her father, Jacob Mentzer, at 5th and Parrish streets, and on Wednesday, a deputy sheriff, who had a warrant for her husband's arrest, went to the house at 257 North 17th street.

As they approached the house they saw Selv at the window. He did not let them hear, and as they entered the door they heard a shot and a thud on the floor. The couple ran upstairs and found Selv dead on the floor with a revolver by his side. The man was pronounced dead at the Samaritan Hospital.

A. B. ALLEN DIES SUDDENLY

Prothonotary Pro Tem. of the State Supreme Court, Stricken in His Office, Succumbs in a Few Hours

Alfred Bowers Allen, Prothonotary pro tem of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, died late last night at his home, 432 North 53d street, after a few hours' illness.

Mr. Allen, who expected to be appointed to the office of Prothonotary, had a consultation with Chief Justice Brown yesterday afternoon, and after returning to his office, became ill. He was taken home in an automobile by Deputy Prothonotary Alexander Smith and became unconscious on the way. Dr. W. C. Griggs was summoned, and although he made every effort to revive Mr. Allen, he never regained consciousness.

Mr. Allen, who was 50 years old, had been connected with the Supreme Court for the last eight years. He was made Deputy Prothonotary upon the death of the late Colonel Lewis C. Green, and upon the death of the former Chief Justice Mitchell was appointed Prothonotary pro tem. He is survived by a widow.

5000 VILLISTAS BEHIND EARTHWORKS AWAITING START OF REAL BATTLE

No Big Guns That Might Bombard Douglas, Arizona, Visible From Advanced Trenches Before Agua Prieta

GARRISON IN READINESS

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 30.—Behind shallow earthworks, quickly constructed on the southern and eastern sides of Agua Prieta, several miles from the Mexican border town opposite here, 5000 Villistas waited today for the real battle with the Carranza forces to begin. There were scattered volleys from the Villa trenches at daylight.

No big guns that might bombard Douglas were visible in the Villista lines, although it was believed hidden batteries support the advanced trenches. It was believed, however, that General Villa was forced to leave his artillery behind by the rapidity of the approach on Agua Prieta.

Evidently hurrying their ammunition following last night's victorious skirmish at Cabullona, the Carranzista forces surrounding Agua Prieta and surrounding territory awaited the Villistas' assault expected tonight or Sunday. Prisoners taken at Cabullona were reported to have been executed.

The Carranza reinforcements reported coming across American territory from Eagle Pass, Tex., had not arrived in Douglas early today. The garrison was known to have six field pieces and about 400 shells.

GLADWYN PATIENT SAYS HE WAS ILL-TREATED, ASKS $50,000

Sanitarium Head Denies Georgian's Charge That Watchman Hit Him

Suit to recover $50,000 damages was brought today at Norristown by Graham I. Taggart, a wealthy coal dealer of Savannah, Ga., against Dr. S. D. W. Ludlum, owner of the Gladwyn Colony, a sanitarium at Lower Merion, Pa., which Taggart was a patient for more than a year.

Rough treatment, forcible detention, and the contraction of a disease because of the alleged unsanitary quarters are the allegations made by Taggart in his statement of claim filed in the prothonotary's office.

Taggart's charges are the result of the hyperaesthetic imagination of an insane man," said Dr. Charles McCauley, superintendent of the institution today. "We are prepared to prove that he is and was at the time insane, and that for 18 or 20 years he has been treated at various institutions. He was detained because of his insanity, and was released when his wife came to take charge of him. At the proper time we shall reply in detail to the charges, which are the product of his disordered mind."

In his statement Taggart says he became a boarder at the institution December 28, 1912, paying $60 a week. He chose the place because of its nearness to Philadelphia and the air of quiet which pervaded it. Two days after he entered, he alleged, Frank B. Neilson, a watchman, handled him roughly, striking him. The statement then describes how he told Doctor McCauley that he wished to leave, but was persuaded to change his quarters, which, he asserts, he found to be unsanitary and without heat.

His incoming and outgoing mail was intercepted, the statement alleges, and he was unable to secure his quarters, which Mr. Taggart says he notified Samuel Kurtz, an attorney, of York, Pa. He was released January 26, 1915.

CHARITY SOCIETY GETS EXTENSION SECRETARY

H. M. Romig, Newspaper Man, Will Take Charge of Publicity Side of Work

Increased activity on the part of the Society for Organizing Charity is foreseen by the appointment of H. M. Romig, a newspaper man and social service expert, to the new post of extension secretary, effective November 1. Mr. Romig also will co-operate with the Finance Committee.

The effect of the industrial depression which followed the outbreak of the war is still being felt in the work of the society, and H. M. Little, general secretary, in conjunction with other authorities, finally decided upon the creation of the new post. Mr. Romig will have charge of the society's publicity, a more widespread campaign is to be instituted at once to bring to the attention of citizens the work that is being done, and the urgent need of large contributions.

Before accepting the post, Mr. Romig was connected with the EVENING LEDGER. He is a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania, and has had considerable experience in the sales department of large up-State manufacturing concerns. He is a native of Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pa., but knows Philadelphia thoroughly. As a newspaper man he is in a position to acquire a knowledge of sociological conditions in this city that should be of value to him in his work for the society.

DOCTOR REVEALS HIS MARRIAGE AT DEATH

Young Physician, Victim of Blood Poisoning, Was Secretly Wedded to Nurse

The secret marriage of Dr. William Wallace Chisholm, a 21-year-old interne in the Hahnemann Hospital, to Miss Grace Bradford, a nurse in the senior class of the hospital, was revealed on the deathbed of Doctor Chisholm, who died yesterday, a martyr to his profession.

Following his graduation from Hahnemann College last June, Doctor Chisholm received an appointment to the hospital, and was assigned to duty in the accident ward. Six weeks ago he was married secretly to Miss Bradford, whose home is in Moyersford, Pa. The fact was kept secret because the bride had several months to serve in the hospital-training course before graduation, and nurses in training are forbidden to marry.

About week ago, Doctor Chisholm went to Huntingdon, Pa., his home, to visit his father, Dr. Henry Clay Chisholm, a well-known physician there. He returned a few days later, having sustained an injury to a finger, sustained in his work in the hospital, had become infected, his condition becoming so serious rapidly, and he was finally told there was no hope for his recovery. Then he told fellow physicians of his marriage. Mrs. Chisholm returned to Huntingdon with the young physician's father last night.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. DeForest Burgess of South Orange, N. J., cousin of the bridegroom, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Romilly P. Humphries, rector of Grace and St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Baltimore. A breakfast followed the ceremony, after which the bride and bridegroom left on their honeymoon journey. Upon their return they will live in Columbia, Pa. Among the out-of-town guests, all relatives of Mr. North, were his mother, Mrs. Hugh M. North; Mr. and Mrs. John H. MORGAN'S CONDITION SATISFACTORY DURING NIGHT, DOCTORS REPORT

Physicians Say They Have No Reason to Change Optimistic Views Expressed by Them Yesterday

WALL STREET WATCHES

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—J. Pierpont Morgan, the famous banker, who was operated on for appendicitis yesterday, spent an satisfactory night at his home in Glen Cove, L. I. Dr. J. W. Markoe and Dr. H. M. Lyle, who are attending Mr. Morgan, declared they had no reason to change the optimistic views which they held yesterday.

Wall street is very keenly interested in the banker's condition, and before the stock market opened the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. were thronged with inquirers.

From a source close to the Morgan family it was learned that the banker has suffered fits of nervousness ever since he was shot by Eric Mueseler, the erratic German professor, at Glen Cove last summer. It is not known, however, if the wounds inflicted upon Mr. Morgan at that time have had any effect upon his present illness.

Mrs. Morgan, mother of the sick man, has arrived at Glen Cove from her home in Highland Falls and is at her son's bedside.

It will be some time before Mr. Morgan can return to his desk. His absence will be felt the more because he is the chief factor in disposing of the $50,000,000 war loan recently raised in this country by the allied governments.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

FACT If It Is Right To Buy It Cannot Be Wrong To Sell

FALLACY The Man Who Drinks Is Good The Man Who Makes The Drink Is Bad

FACTS

IN the midst of Prohibition FALLACIES about evils that develop from liquor drinking, and further FALLACIOUS declarations that laws enacted against the manufacturer and dealer in alcoholic beverages will stop the use of liquors, it is a singular FACT that there has never been an anti-purchase, or anti-drink law enacted in America. Yet it is the drinker that Prohibitionists claim they are after!

INTERESTING FACTS, also, bearing upon this round-about attempt of Prohibitionists to attain an end, are presented by Dr. Jacob E. Meeker in a debate at Worcester, Mass. His most salient point was this:

"If it is right to purchase liquor, it cannot be morally wrong to sell it. The purchaser and user of liquor, so far as the moral aspect of this question is concerned, is not a bit better than the man that makes it or sells it to him. And as long as you are going to give respectability to the thousands and tens of thousands of good men and women who use these beverages, you are only playing at the proposition when you try to take the attitude of the Pharisee toward the man that makes what they want. Whenever we arrive at the point of understanding that the distiller, winemaker and brewer are in the business because of the consumption of these beverages in this country, rather than that people drink because these persons make it, we will get at the right elements of this whole proposition."

IN other words, the FACT stands forth that while Mr. Blank has the right to purchase and use alcoholic beverages, or even manufacture them for his own use, the Prohibitionists take the ridiculous stand that no one should be allowed to sell liquor to him!

NO matter from which viewpoint one considers Prohibition, FALLACY is its shadow.
