The French forces have been outflanked, and their withdrawal was made necessary by threats of envelopment.

By capturing Ipek the Teuton forces have established themselves firmly in eastern Montenegro. Ipek is 71 miles. from Scutari, where the Serbian Government is now located

The following report from the General Staff was bused at the War Office: "Bulkan theatre of war: Ipck has been reached. The prisoners brought in dur-ing yesterday's fighting number 1256.

The French have been compelled to give up their position in the salient formed by the Cerna and Vardar Rivers owing to threatened envelopment."

Figree lighting in northeastern Monte-negro and a sudden assault by the Bul-garlans against the right wing of the French army unried the renewal of im-portant actions in the Balkans today.

The city of took is the largest city in eastern Montenegro. After holding the enemy in check for 48 hours by vallant resistance, the Serbs and Montenegrins are reported in retreat, assalled on their right flank by bands of the Bulgarian onslaughts against the French mark the beginning of an effort to throw the Allies back to Sa-lonica it is too early to determine. Lack of definite information regarding the position of Field Marshal Mackensen's main army adds to the anxiety felt in quarters over the position of the Anglo-French forces. Mackensen, it is believed, may be preparing to hammer the expeditionary forces back across the Greek border in one mighty smash,

The Bulgarian attack was precoded by violent oor bardment of the French positions near Valandovi. The infantry on-slavights were launched Sunday night. The result of the fighting is in doubt.

$100,000 IN GIFTS FOR WIDENER SERVANTS

Continued from Page One. for the servants and was distributed by for the servants and was instributed by the young Mr. Widener. Public opinion around the postoffice and the barber shop and the stores at Ogonts, where the servants do their shopping and chatting, has crystallized into several conclusions, in spite of the secrecy to which the servants are said to have been sworn.

$100,000 FOR SERVANTS? Seventy-five thousand deliars went to the servants on the big estate, Ogontz citizens assert, and the remainder to em-ployes of the Land Title Building. Only those at Lynnewood Hall in the service those at Lynnewood Hall in the service of the late financier himself were included, and no term of service was too brief to make a footman or a maid ineligible for a gift. There were 40 on the late Mr. Widener's personal payroll and all were remembered.

The largest amount went to Charles Cook, Mr. Widener's valet, the employe who was closest to the dead philanthropist in the last 14 years of his life. Viliage gossip has established that $25,000 in trust and his salary for life was the ward of his service.

"Lucky Charley!" they say at the barbershop. "He's a gentleman of leisure himself now, with nothing to do but walk 'cross country with his dog."

"All I can say is that I've been very handsomely remembered," says Cook. Several years ago his employer presented him with a comfortable home at Elkins

"Billy" Cosgrove, general "handy man" on the estate, who entered Mr. Widener's employ 25 years ago, and to whom is on-trusted the getting of the mail and shopping, received a check for $1000, they say. So did his brother "Steve," one of the night watchmen, and Thomas Cavanaugh and Barney Kelly, who helped guard the treasures of the estate during the night.

Henry Langevin, who came from France seven years ago to become Mr. Widener's personal chauffeur, received—que voulez-rous? No one will say; not he, at least-But that it was a fat sum no one can deny-perhaps 19,000 or 15,000 francs.

WOMEN EMPLOYES REMEMBERED. Of the women employes, Hilma Quist, carlor maid, received perhaps as much as my other female servant, basing calculaons on length of service. She recently put $1000 in the bank, the villagers say authoritatively. Mrs. W. L. Unruh, the housekeeper of the spacious mansion, who distributed the gifts among the women under her, was remembered generously. Other female servants who wipe away a tear as they recall the death which swelled their savings are Mary Hutton, Louisa Osten, Margaret Quist, Hilma's sister: Margaret Matthews and Agde Cloverstone, all chambermalds.

Two of the servants, dusky, faithful servitors, bow their heads with gratitude. They are Jenny Laws, a chambermaid, who was Mrs. Widener's personal attend-ent while her mistress lived, and William lohnson, caretaker of the gallery at Lynnewood Hall which houses the $12,-00,000 Widener art collection. Both of them have served the Widener family for cears and are all that remain of the train of servants who cared for the Widener home when it was on Broad street. That was before Mr. Widener imported servwas before Mr. Widener imported servants from Europe.

Other heads of departments and employes in the large household who received checks said to have been in four figures are James Kelly, chief engineer; Charles Shipe, day guard; William Kelinheins, head gardener; Albert Turner, butler; Fred Barth, baker; Gustay Deiterich, chef; Thomas Barber, houseman, and Henry Holland, Herbert Powell, George Forbes and Thomas Morton, footmen.

These are the 25 employes who have

These are the 28 employes who have been in the Widener service for two years or more. There are others who donned the livery of P. A. B. Widener since then and who were rewarded, but, as everyone knows:

Blending milk raises the price

OR while the quality of milk is cheapened, the price remains the same. So when you buy blended milk, you receive less milk value for money expended. The nutriment is reduced, either through adding skimmed milk or by taking out cream.

The price is therefore raised through selling an inferior product for the price of pure milk. The extra profit is taken out of the customer's pocket without the customer's knowledge or consent. The customer has no opportunity to protest or complain, because the practice is a secret one.

There is no test that you can apply that will protect you from the blending milk dealer. The dealer who blends adroitly accomplishes a raise in price. In some cities, in addition to raising the price, the dealers resort to blending in order to secure still another profit. The practice will eventually prevail if the dealer who blends meets no obstruction.

Supplee milk is not blended.
